Evidence 'Interesting,' Foreman Says.

Bank records showing the deposits of six police captains were obtained yesterday by the special grand jury investigating police graft. The case came on the first day of a systematic search for the cash book accounts of every police captain and commander in the city.

Only the loop banks were canvassed yesterday—thirty of the forty banks of the city which have been or are to be served with court writs calling for the records of the deposits and withdrawals of the police officials. Other banks are to report each day on the transactions which the jurymen wish to investigate.

Finds Evidence Interesting.

"We developed information worthy of further analysis," said Joseph A. Farmar, foreman of the grand jury, at the conclusion of the day's session. "We found much that looks interesting."

The foreman and Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, who is in charge of the inquiry, refused to name the six captains whose accounts were obtained. They said at least two of the captains had "substantial" bank balances but declined to answer questions regarding their ideas of a "substantial" sum.

One captain had accounts in two loop banks, they discovered. Other accounts in the names of wives of police captains were obtained in the search for financial information. It is expected, Mr. Mueller said, that in addition to accounts in loop banks, some of the captains will be found to have also sailing outlying banks as depositories.

Seventeen in Present Quiz.

Every bank in the city is to be required to furnish the grand jury with the accounts of police captains' financial affairs, it was explained, but for the time being the banks are only required to look for accounts in the names of seventeen captains whose names appear on the subpoenas duces tecum. Later the names of other captains and bureau heads, including Acting Commissioner Alcock and Chief of Detectives Norton, are to be put on subpoenas to be again served on every bank in the city, Mr. Mueller stated.

"It looks as if we were on the right track," Prosecutor Mueller announced. "We are going at the job of investigating the police department in a consistent manner, and if there is any suspicion the bank records should disclose it."

Mr. Mueller and Mr. Farmar were in New York last week conferring with officials who are investigating the police department there, and they say they obtained valuable suggestions. They began a search for safety deposit boxes rented by police captains, and said they will take steps to have them opened through a court order if any are found.

Capt. Malone Before Jury.

Capt. Willard Malone of the loop district was called before the jury yesterday and questioned regarding statements made by Mrs. Shirley Kub, former police spy who was jailed for refusing to testify before the grand jury but later released when she gave testimony relating to her discoveries in which she was an investigator for Acting Commissioner Alcock.

Capt. Malone failed to corroborate statements Mrs. Kub said he would make. Sergt. Owen Nangle of the Ann Arbor station, also named by Mrs. Kub as one who could prove the truth of some of her assertions, also contradicted her testimony.

ABSENT MINDED PROFESSOR GOES FOR A DRIVE

Wabash, Ind., April 20.—(AP)—Dr. Ora Winger, president of Manchester college, suffered three broken ribs and cuts and bruises today when his automobile crashed into a freight train at a crossing south of here. Dr. Winger said he was watching another train approaching the crossing and failed to see the freight on the siding. He just climbed out of the wreckage when the other train reached the crossing.

Wintry Chill on Way; Frost Is Predicted

Summerlike temperatures that have prevailed in nearly all parts of the United States during most of April were routed yesterday over an area extending from the Rocky mountains to the great lakes.

The official weather bureau forecast last night indicated, after a drop of twenty-two degrees in seven hours, that temperatures will be lower than normal in Chicago and all the surrounding territory throughout today and tomorrow. Skies are expected to be cloudy this morning, with a possibility of rain. Tomorrow's forecast is for fair weather, but continued cold.

Frost Expected Here.

Meteorologist C. A. Donnel said that frost probably would occur generally in the vicinity of Chicago tonight and tomorrow night, but that temperatures might not go to the freezing mark. The maximum today, it is anticipated, will not be above 45 degrees. It was regarded as unlikely that gardens and flowers in Cook county would be injured.

Precipitation was general from the mountain slopes eastward to Illinois yesterday. Snow was recorded in Montana, Wyoming, Nebraska, Missouri and northern Oklahoma. Temperatures in the 20's were registered in some of these states.

Farmers Welcome Rain.

Farmers in central Illinois, Iowa, and Missouri said that the heavy rains which fell in their sections would be worth millions of dollars to crops. They were almost unanimous in the opinion that early fruit crops would not be ruined unless the mercury fell and remained for a considerable time around 18 or 20 degrees.

In contrast to conditions in the central part of the continent, San Francisco yesterday had its hottest day of 1931 thus far. The maximum there was 84. High readings were also noted on the eastern seaboard.

He rattled the dice, blew gently and addressed them:

"I never did make a four and I expect if I did I'd drop dead. Wham!" And he rolled them.

Two deuces turned up.

WOMAN KILLED IN PLUNGE FROM AUTO; NAB DRIVER

Mrs. Anna Paulausky, 22 years old, 549 Fulton avenue, Waukegan, was killed yesterday afternoon in a plunge from an automobile at Sheridan road and Gillett avenue, Waukegan.

The man with whom she was riding fled. The police talked with Mrs. Paulausky's 4 year old son, Frank, however, and he told them his mother had gone out with a man named Byrnes. Last night Deputy Sheriff George Heckinger took into custody Frank T. Byrnes, 33 years old, of Round Lake.

Byrnes admitted that he was the driver of the car. He said that Mrs. Paulausky became angry when he refused to turn toward her home at Gillett avenue and leaped out. He added that he intended to turn at the next corner. He was held for further questioning.

Dog Taken Ill, Admiral Byrd Cancels Tour

Learning last night that his dog, Igloo, which had accompanied him on his flight over the south pole, was ill in Boston, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd abandoned a speaking tour at Springfield and caught a midnight train for Chicago. He announced that he would proceed to Boston as quickly as possible.

He was scheduled to speak at Lexington, Ky., tonight, at Memphis, Tenn., tomorrow, and at Little Rock, Ark., Thursday. Dispatches from Memphis stated that the admiral had canceled his date there by telephone. Informed that a United States senator, an Episcopalian bishop and the mayor of Memphis had prepared to welcome him, Rear Admiral Byrd replied that Igloo needed his personal attention and that nothing would stand in the way of his determination to join the dog.

Igloo, a fox terrier, has a serious intestinal complaint and fears were expressed that he would not recover.

MAKES HIM MAD TO BE HELD UP; HE GETS HIS MAN

Samuel Katz, manager of the Ideal coffee shop at 751 South State street was so angry early this morning when a colored robber held him up in the presence of a waitress and six customers that he followed the bandit on to a street car, caught him with his pistol in his pocket, and overpowered him.

The conductor stopped the car, and when a police squad, led by Sergt. Peter Bernacchi arrived, Katz was holding the weapon and the $12 that had been taken from the Ideal cash register. Ray Johnson, 39 years old, 805 South State street, was the frustrated robber.

Attorney Questions Boy; His Answer a Boomerang

Green Bay, Wis., April 20.—(AP)—A rebuke which Clatus Chadek, assistant district attorney, directed against a 14 year old boy arraigned in Juvenile court for truancy, proved a boomerang today.

"Where were you Saturday when you were supposed to appear in this court," demanded Chadek.

"I was caddying for you, sir," answered the boy.

THRONG TO SEE THE NEW MAYOR; FILL PROGRAM

Thousands Unite to Rouse City.

CHICAGO JUBILEE.

The Chicago Tribune Service Bureau, No. 1 South Dearborn street, telephone Superior 0100, will supply all information to those planning to participate in the Chicago Jubilee May 11.

As response to the Chicago Jubilee to be held the week of May 11 increased by leaps and strides, an organized movement was begun last night to hold the formal inauguration of Mayor Anton J. Cermak outdoors May 14, as part of the celebration.

Calls for the inauguration as one of the principal events of the jubilee came from every quarter. Prominent business men, civic groups, and political leaders united in this one demand. From unofficial sources it was hinted that the plan would be successful, and advisors of Mayor Cermak were responsive. Tentative plans had been for Mayor Cermak's installation April 27 in the council chambers.

City to See Ceremony.

However, it is pointed out that the formalities would be available to only a few. Mayor Cermak's induction, it is further explained, is an event to which the entire city is entitled to glimpse and to share. Thus, if the plans suggested carry, the induction ceremony will be outdoors, at La Salle and Randolph streets.

The intersection selected is one of the loop's busiest. It is also one marked by many new improvements. In effect it might be transformed into a spacious concourse, accommodating many thousands of men, women, and children. A rostrum would be set high in the center of the crossing in plain view of huge crowds.

Expect Approval of Mayor.

Mayor Cermak, who is resting in Miami, Fla., will be advised of the design, and close followers are confident he will agree to the outdoor inauguration. The mayor has given his whole hearted indorsement to the Chicago Jubilee, and is expected soon to proclaim the week officially as the Chicago Jubilee. He has already stated his belief that the celebration will be of incalculable benefit to Chicago from every possible standpoint.

The outdoor inauguration will be one of four tentatively perfected principal events.

On Monday night, May 11, will be staged a mammoth parade which, according to indications, will probably be the largest, the longest, and the most impressive seen in Chicago.

The following night, May 12, Soldiers' field will be jammed with more than 120,000 spectators at the International Golden Gloves tournament presented by THE TRIBUNE. In this show the best amateur boxers of France will compete with the winners of the recent Chicago-New York Golden Gloves tournament. Dignitaries of foreign lands will be in attendance, and lend an international savor to the event.

Sky Aglow with Fireworks.

On Wednesday night, May 13, the lake front will be aglow with the glare of brilliant pyrotechnics sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. What is already assured as the most magnificent fireworks display will be held all along the lake shore. The display will be carried on barges along the river paralleling Wacker drive.

On Wednesday afternoon representatives of forty-six nations will come to Chicago to attend a dinner in celebration of the jubilee. They will arrive from Washington, D. C., after the close of the International Chamber of Commerce convention, which is scheduled for May 4 to May 9. Invitations to the foreign visitors will be extended by Silas H. Strawn, Chicago representative to the convention.

Thursday will be Mayor Cermak's outdoor inauguration, it is believed. The following two nights will be featured by equally important events which will be detailed subsequently.

As Chicagoans conferred over the outdoor induction, Mayor Cermak issued long distance instructions to Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch to align the city department heads towards cooperation in the Jubilee. Mr. Busch delivered the order personally and wired Mr. Cermak that

FIELD GUN FIRING BLANKS INJURES 3 ARMY OFFICERS

Fort Benning, Ga., April 20.—(AP)—Three army officers were injured today as they stood near an artillery field piece during the firing of blank ammunition in mimic warfare—a part of the fourth corps area maneuvers.

The injured: Col. Fitzhugh Lee, Atlanta, observer, struck in the eye with wadding. Lieut. L. S. Young, commanding battery D, 16th field artillery, Fort Bragg, N. C., lacerations of the hand. Lieut. Joseph Kovarik, Benning public relations officer, powder burns on the face and hands.

The three officers were standing near one of the guns during a cavalry attack. The gunner, it was said, apparently misunderstood an order to cease firing and fired again. The officers were given first aid treatment and later taken to the hospital for observation. Doctors said the injuries were not serious unless tetanus should develop.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, April 20.—New threats of rebel attacks at the two Honduran towns of Trujillo and Tela tonight led authorities to hustle foreign women and children in the town aboard ships anchored in the harbors to insure their safety. Most of the refugees were Americans. The American cruiser Memphis left La Ceiba tonight for Trujillo. La Ceiba and Puerto Cortes were quiet.

As part of its program for quashing the rebellion, the Honduran congress voted a state of martial law throughout the country. Troops were being called to the colors and civic guards were being organized everywhere.

A general strike at Tela, said to have reached menacing proportions, was adding to the excitement.

Up to the renewed threat of hostilities at Tela and Trujillo tonight, foreigners in the rebel zone had been thought to be not in danger. President Mejia Colindres said tonight, however, that after the victorious rebel attack upon Progreso yesterday the rebels sacked the properties of all citizens, including those of foreigners. The leaders of the revolt were said to be Marino Gonzales and Ladislao Santos.

REBELS ARE REPULSED

BY VICENTE MEJIA COLINDRES.

(President, Republic of Honduras. Written especially for the Associated Press. Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, April 20.—The government of Honduras, advised previously of the probability of a revolutionary movement, was ready to meet the outbreak last night.

The rebels destroyed telegraphic lines in Saba, department of Colon, last night and continued toward Sonaguera, where they were repulsed by Gen. Agapico Sanchez.

Col. Luis Alonzo Lopez, military commander of Colon, took up a position at some distance from Sonaguera. After a heated exchange of bullets, he forced the rebels from their posts. The insurgents attempted an attack some hours later, but were set back. The rebels defeated at Sonayuera were headed by Mario Gonzales.

Loot Bank at Progreso.

Early yesterday 200 ill-equipped peasants were led by Roman Diaz and Ladislao Santos in an attack on Progreso. The city was defended by Col Alfredo Reina at the head of eighteen men, who, after one and one-half hours' resistance, retreated in good order.

The rebels took 20,000 pesos from the Bank of Honduras in Progreso and sacked all properties, including those of foreigners. Progreso is now under government control and order has been reëstablished.

Tela was attacked yesterday afternoon by a third group of revolters. The city was defended by Gen. Jose Maria Reina, who routed the attackers and took from them some artillery, including a Lewis machine gun and six bombs. There were some wounded and killed in the Tela encounter.

Declare Martial Law.

The friendly government of Gautemala captured Filiberto Diaz Zelaya, a Honduran, and some companions who tried to enter Honduras to lead the revolution. The prisoners are being taken to Guatemala City.

The people of Honduras, irrespective of political leanings, are unanimous in their support of the government and its protest against a criminal and unjustified revolt.

Congress today decreed martial law throughout the republic. Citizens of Honduras continued to enjoy complete guarantees, however.

The government considers the revolt has not yet finished, but believes it has failed and is about to terminate.

March on San Pedro Sula.

New York, April 20.—(AP)—Private advices from Honduras today reported that Honduran—rebel forces were marching on the town of San Pedro Sula, capital of the department of Cortes, 40 miles from the coast in northwestern Honduras.

The town, which has a population of about 8,000, is in the Sula valley and is on the National railway between Puerto Cortes and Tegucigalpa.

Calls It Result of Slump.

New Orleans, La., April 20.—(AP)—Vicente Mejia Colindres Jr., 23 year old son of the president of Honduras, who is visiting here, today said his father's government had an army of 8,000 well equipped and well trained men to cope with any revolutionary movement.

He said he would "not dignify this trouble by calling it a revolution." He described the uprising as an echo of the world depression and the recent slumps in silver, which adversely affected the Honduran coinage system.

"There is not more, nor less, unemployment and economic trouble in Honduras than elsewhere," he said. "Gen. Gregorio Ferrera simply seized a psychological moment to start trouble when it was easy to recruit forces among the unemployed.

"Gen. Ferrera was a member of the cabinet about four years ago. But as secretary of war he attempted to use government arms in the furtherance of his own private plans. His insurrection was quickly quelled and he left the country, reappearing in the northwest several months ago. Recently he issued a proclamation calling for a new government at Tegucigalpa and began to recruit followers from among the unemployed."

May Bomb Nicaragua Rebels.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—The possibility that bombing planes from the aircraft carrier Langley may be utilized to protect American lives and property beyond the Nicaraguan coast line areas, to which the activities of bluejackets and marines are now limited, developed today.

While state department officials said no special orders had been given the Langley, it was learned that the carrier has a considerable number of planes and plenty of bombs aboard. In this connection it was pointed out at the navy department that planes from a carrier could operate several miles from shore against bandits in case they attacked Americans in such force that the local Nicaraguan guard was helpless to protect them.

U. S. Will Protect Nationals.

News from Honduras and Nicaragua today was less alarming than dispatches of last week. American naval forces have taken up or are preparing to take up positions adjacent to all troubled areas along the Central American east coast. Foreign consuls in Honduras have been assured the United States will act to protect their nationals in the seacoast areas.

On the basis of a report from Julius G. Lay, American minister at Tegucigalpa, Secretary of State Stimson today expressed the belief that the Honduran revolution would soon fizzle out. Minister Lay referred to the revolutionists as "unemployed communists and the riffraff of northern Honduras."

Refugee Tells of Attack.

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, April 20.—(AP)—Edwin Fagot, American merchant, who was one of the victims of the looting of Cape Gracias a Dios by outlaws, arrived here today aboard the U. S. S. Asheville, together with four other refugees, two men and two women, not Americans.

The bandits who looted the town numbered about twenty, he said, and they were led by Abraham Rivera and a military chief whose name was not learned. Dissension among the bandit leaders has existed for some time, he said, due to Rivera's attempts to save the lives of his foreign friends. Rivera, he said, had been previously deprived of military command for his failure to kill foreigners in previous raids.

Suspicious characters are still lurking about Cape Gracias, he said, and he believed they were waiting to kill others.

Albert Fagot, brother of Edwin and his partner in the mercantile business, remained in Cape Gracios, planning to leave later.

Radio Station Wrecked.

E. C. Lester, former operator of the Tropical radio station at Cape Gracias, arrived here in his own boat. Lester heard reports of the trouble at Logtown over the radio at his station and at night, while some distance down the river, he saw the bandit attack.

Early the next morning he put to sea in his boat. He returned later and was warned by a friend that the outlaws had searched Cape Gracias "with a fine toothed comb," seeking him and threatening to torture and mutilate him.

Lester found his radio transmitter demolished, the receivers inoperative, and the batteries destroyed. All stores at Cape Gracias were cleaned out, he said.

Capt. O. A. Inman, U. S. M. C., arrived yesterday to take command in the Puerto Cabezas area, succeeding Capt. Schwerin, whose term of service is expiring.

Britain Warns Nationals.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—The British foreign office, in full agreement with Secretary of State Stimson's policy of not affording protection to foreigners in the interior of Nicaragua, today instructed its nationals in the interior that they must rely on the Nicaraguan national guard for protection, and that if they think themselves in danger they must proceed to the coast and report to the British consuls. Great Britain has no intention of sending warships to Nicaragua, believing that the American ships already there can do all that is necessary in the way of impressing the native government with the necessity of preserving order.

FLEE REVOLT ZONE

Foreign residents at Tela and Trujillo, Honduras, last night were rushed aboard ships in the harbors as rebels prepared to attack. An American warship was being rushed to Trujillo from La Ceiba. The insurgents on Sunday captured and looted the city of Progreso. Government troops repulsed attacks on the towns of Sonaguera and Saba, nearby. The Honduran congress last night declared martial law throughout the country. Troops were being called to the colors and civic guards organized.

JUDGE REJECTS SWINDLER'S PLEA FOR PROBATION

Aaron A. Parsons lost his plea for probation yesterday and was sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge James J. Kelly of the Criminal court, who had previously found the defendant guilty of operating a confidence game. The judge said that because of Parsons' record as a swindler he could not consider the plea for leniency.

Parsons swindled several persons through an advertisement placed in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. When job seekers called at his office seeking employment in response to the advertisement he urged them to buy stock in a coal mine company which he said he was forming, but which did not materialize.

the city administration "was 100 per cent ready."

Police Commissioner John Alcock caught the enthusiasm of the Jubilee. "We're ready," he said. "We'll be in the parade, and handle the crowds."

Acting Fire Commissioner Edward Maloney expressed himself similarly. The fire department will participate in the parade, he said, exhibiting its newest equipment. One piece of apparatus will carry powerful lights which cast beams through the thickest smoke clouds, and aid the work of fire fighting.

Name Is Chicago Jubilee.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, issued the following statement about the name of the celebration:

"The name is the Chicago Jubilee. It is a proper expression of the city over its deliverance from spoils politicians. Any other name will tend only to create confusion and puzzlement among the citizens of the true purpose of the Chicago Jubilee. The Jubilee, of course, has its commercial as well as its political aspects.

"According to our present plans, a resolution will be drawn requesting Mayor Cermak to issue a proclamation officially terming the event as the Chicago Jubilee week."

Legion Pledges Support.

The American Legion, through several spokesmen, pledged full support to the Chicago Jubilee.

"The Chicago Jubilee provides us with an opportunity to serve, and we are glad to participate in this splendid affair," said Lawrence J. Fenlon, county commander. He represents 180 Legion posts and 35,000 Legionnaires.

Capt. James C. Russell, prominent Legionnaire, immediately began organizing the Legion's share in the huge parade to be held on the opening night of the jubilee, May 11. One of the many drum corps which he will enlist is that of the Commonwealth Edison post. Frank W. Kee, member of the state rehabilitation committee and past chef de gare of the Forty and Eight, personally pledged twelve drum and bugle corps, two post drill teams, two post bands, one initiation team, and the women's auxiliary glee club.

In addition Mr. Kee said it was likely a troop of cowboys, in full dress, and the famous Kiltie band, affiliated with the Union Stockyard and Transit company, of which he is an official, would participate. The transit company probably will also offer its championship six and eight horse hitch teams and several stage coaches and carriages, he said.

Heads of the public and parochial school system have already made plans for the Chicago jubilee, employing Cleanup week, which began yesterday under the sponsorship of the Chicago Association of Commerce, as a starter. According to Supt. of Schools William J. Bogan and the Rev. Father Cunningham of the parochial schools, classroom instruction will be immediately begun to educate the thousands of school children in the values of the approaching Chicago jubilee.

"This is a jubilee for children as well as for adults," commented the educators. "The school children of Chicago will do their part with the vigor characteristic of youth."

R. O. T. C. Bands to Play.

Scores of R. O. T. C. bands will help furnish music during the parade or any other event, said Supt. Bogan. Among them will be the famous Senn High school band, which has won the national championship for two consecutive years. A special invitation to the Senn band will probably be extended.

Meanwhile, the Chicago Federation of Musicians, through its president, James C. Petrillo, gave formal approval last night to its participation in the Chicago jubilee. Mr. Petrillo was one of the first men to signify cooperation.

"The Chicago Federation of Musicians believes the Chicago Jubilee to be an exceptionally worthy project," said Mr. Petrillo last night. "We will participate actively. We shall be able to furnish a group of 500 musicians to lead the parade. Their services will be gratis."

Choral societies without number, many of whom won commendation during the TRIBUNE'S music festival at Soldiers' field last summer, registered for participation in the Chicago Jubilee. Among them are the Illinois Central male chorus and the Park Manor Congregational chorus, directed by Carl Craven, and three colored groups as announced by Frank Young, editor of the Chicago Defender. They are the Metropolitan church chorus, Prof. J. Wesley Jones, director; the Mundy Choristers, Prof. James Mundy, director, and the Olivet Baptist church chorus, Prof. George R. Garner, director.

Meanwhile the response of individuals, companies, stores, and industries to the call for support for the Chicago Jubilee continued its amazing strides yesterday. Throughout Sunday THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Public Service bureau was flooded with telephone and personal calls. Yesterday an added staff was necessary to handle the queries. It was comparable at the offices of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Offers Fireworks Free.

Requests for information came not only from Chicago. They came from all sections of the metropolitan area, an indicative barometer of the interest which the celebration has already caused. One response came from Washington, D. C., where J. Saunders Gordon, head of the Gordon Fireworks corporation, read a newspaper account of the Jubilee. He telephoned his local office.

"The Chicago Jubilee is splendid," he said. "We will assist 100 per cent. We will furnish free all the fireworks, flares, and other equipment necessary. We're to be on the job for the Jubilee."

From Evanston came Donald R. Kimbark, 1822 Ridge avenue. He offered to furnish several floats, gayly decorated, carrying some of Northwestern's prettiest co-eds. Oak Park, Blue Island, and other communities fringing Chicago also promised active support.

Wholesalers to Coöperate.

Officials of the Atlantic and Pacific stores announced they would place appropriate floats in the parade. J. A. Rasley, representing the Heart of Chicago Wholesale association, dealing with 30,000 retailers, declared the wholesalers in his group would hold special bargain sales during Jubilee week.

"Our association will help make it a jubilee," said Mr. Rasley. "We will conduct a Jubilee sale in keeping with the spirit of helping the general spirit of the occasion. We expect in this way to attract thousands and thousands of visitors to Chicago. The Chicago Jubilee is a great idea."

Comment from business leaders last night was indicative of the entire spirit of the Chicago Jubilee.

"It is a splendid idea," observed William Wrigley Jr., chewing gum magnate and owner of the Cubs. "It will bring to the attention of the world that Chicago has had a new deal. I am enthusiastically for it."

"There is no doubt the Chicago Jubilee will be fine stimulus," said Harold E. Foreman, president of the Foreman State National bank. "It is an excellent undertaking, and should be a certain indication of what can be expected from Chicago from now on."

George Lytton, president of the Hub, declared he was heartily in favor of the Jubilee. It could not help but have a beneficial effect, he said. He pointed out that the Chicago Business Men's orchestra, of which he is president, will hold a festival of music at 8:15 p. m. at Orchestra hall May 12. This, he said, is a phase of the Jubilee in its cultural aspect.

Edward B. Casey, the youngest man ever elected to the Municipal court bench here, was inducted into office yesterday. Judge Casey, who is 30 years old, was elected on April 7 to fill the vacancy caused by the election of Judge Joseph Burke to the Circuit court.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court and Associate Judge Edgar A. Jonas presided at the ceremonies. Other speakers were Judge Alfar Eberhardt, Silas Strawn, and G. A. Dahlberg, attorney for the board of local improvements. Before his election as a municipal judge, Mr. Casey was an assistant corporation counsel. He lives at 6824 Wayne avenue.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

TELEPHONE HEAD TELLS HIS FAITH IN U. S. WELFARE

Says Democracy Shows Its Mettle.

New York, April 20.— [Special.] — American democracy—political, social and economic—has been tried in the current business depression, and it has not been found wanting. The future holds the promise that the country will continue to go forward, surpassing by far the prosperity that preceded the recent slump. Signs of improvement already are apparent.

WALTER S. GIFFORD.

This was the message brought to more than a thousand of the leading publishers and newspaper owners of the United States today by Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. Mr. Gifford was the principal speaker at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press, held in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Commodore.

Has Faith in Democracy.

"I want to affirm my faith in the continued progress of our country, in the common sense and ability of its people," he said. "In short, I want to reaffirm my faith in American democracy—political, social, and economic—and to add that the experience of this depression have done more to confirm this faith than the experiences of the boom that preceded it.

"We are going to go forward out of this valley, as we have from others before, by the democratic road—by the thought and effort of thousands of intelligent, able people—by the wisdom of the many.

"Whose depression is this? If, as has been said, a fundamental cause of it is greed, who are they that did not add their part to the picture? This is a democracy of blame as well as opportunity. We were all in it—flapper, financier, newspaper man, and manufacturers, laborers, and politicians. It is true that its evil effects do not fall on all equally, but the evil effects have been pretty widely distributed, nevertheless. Fixing the blame is the occupation of the people who have lost their nerve. Finding its causes and planning the future is the part for the constructive minded people.

Too Much Bad Advice.

"And we have with us also those who want to return to the good old times. They are of the order of the Wufus birds. As you know, these interesting birds fly backward to keep the wind out of their eyes and they are not interested in where they are going but only in where they have been.

"And then there are those who shout from the housetops that if we do not take their particular medicine the bolsheviks will get us. These folk, unlike the Wufus birds, want to go somewhere. They want us to progress, but they want us to progress from terror rather than by conviction. These people are all wrong. The Wufus birds and alarmists are talking to the wrong people. The American people are not looking backward, they are not afraid, and no one can direct them by their fears. We have a far more impelling and higher motive to continue to improve American life. We believe in it. We have the same determination to improve the lot of mankind that our forefathers had. We are not as a nation conservative, if conservatism means content merely to keep what we have. Neither our ambitions nor our imaginations are dead, and we intend to go much further forward from where we are now or even from where we were just before this depression. And we shall do it by our own particular methods.

Progress Being Made.

"Are we getting anywhere? I think so.

"In this depression the American people have decided that in so far as it is possible the people least able to bear depression shall no longer bear practically the whole brunt of it. That is more important than anything most autocrats or most laws ever accomplish.

"Industrial democracy has given this generation the tools to accomplish great things for humanity. We are living in a time of great opportunity, of stimulating appeal to the imagination. The mastery of depression is one of the challenges ahead of us. Let us continue to attack it."

"The course of events has made it as clear as a summer sky that the atmosphere of the United States is as bad for the autocrat in industry as for the autocrat in politics. In my opinion there is no use looking for any Napoleons to lead us on to economic Austerlitz—or to Waterloo."

Admits Large Unemployment.

Mr. Gifford admitted that some 7,000,000 persons are out of work and that the present situation is due to overproduction rather than underproduction, which caused all the depressions of the past.

"The condition," he said, "of having people out of work in a country that has more of everything than it needs is, humanly speaking, a vast advance over having people without clothes, food or shelter in a country that has not enough of the essentials to go round."

The American scheme of things is basically sound, he said, and the principle that all the people shall participate in government, education, and the profits of ample production has not been found wanting.

Hundreds of newspaper publishers and editors from all parts of the United States and Canada are here for the meetings of the Associated Press and of the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

Despite the business depression, which resulted in a number of consolidations, the Associated Press membership during the last year reached a total of 1,397 newspapers, the highest in its history, Kent Cooper, general manager, reported.

Consider Radio Competition.

At the afternoon business session of the Associated Press, following a lively discussion of radio competition, a resolution, offered by Charles H. Taylor, treasurer of the Boston Globe, was adopted, reading:

"Resolved, That the officers and directors will meet, with every sympathy, to consider the problems of radio broadcasting with such committees as may be appointed by the American Newspaper Publishers' association and the other news gathering organizations."

The American Newspaper Publishers' association, opening its annual meeting with a general session tomorrow morning at the Hotel Commodore, plans to appoint a committee to take up the question of radio broadcasting with the Associated Press and other committees.

Editors Talk to Hoover.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—(AP)—Editors of some of the nation's leading trade papers sat around a table in the cabinet room at the White House today and gave President Hoover their opinions on business conditions.

Paul I. Aldrich, editor of the National Provisioner of Chicago, said the food business was suffering from hand to mouth buying and constantly receding price levels.

The failure of big baking companies, he said, to readjust bread prices to correspond with lower prices of other foods has tended to hold down consumption of wheat and flour in spite of increased sale of flour by retail stores for home baking. Wheat farmers, he said, might have been benefited by more rapid readjustment in bread prices.

WEALTHY WOMAN IN JAIL

MRS. LAURA PRICE IN JAIL 3 DAYS FOR THEFT PLOT

Makes Secret Start of 6 Months' Term.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Aaron Parsons, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge James J. Kelly.

Alvin Russell, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Charles A. Williams.

Jack Smeadly, Ehprian Franklin, and Sheldon Travis, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Ross C. Hall.

Olie Kurgan, John Cord, Elmer Crawford, and Joseph McArthur, burglary, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in Pontiac reformatory; Bar Furman, Theodore Dyros, and Joseph Pickars, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Joseph B. David.

Mrs. Laura B. Price, wife of Edwin Price, wealthy woodenware manufacturer, has had a three day taste of jail life, it became known yesterday when it was found that she was secretly placed in the county jail on Saturday. She is under sentence of six months for conspiracy to have her jewelry stolen to collect insurance.

Attorneys for Mrs. Price said they are preparing an appeal to the Supreme court and hope to have their client out of jail on bond within the next few days and perhaps today. She has been fighting against incarceration in jail for more than a year.

Warden David Moneypenny said that Mrs. Price is being treated the same as any other woman prisoner in the institution. She must work cleaning up the women's quarters, he said, just the same as the other inmates of the department. Mrs. Price's husband appeared at the jail yesterday to visit her.

Mrs. Price was found guilty of conspiracy with Joe Baum and Ben Levine to rob her of her jewelry and fur coats so that she could collect $17,745 insurance. They staged a fake holdup as she was leaving her modiste at 79 Goethe street. Baum and Levine turned state's witnesses after they claimed that they were doubled crossed in the deal.

Maurice Barnett, a jeweler, and Max Krakow, who were accused of being the originators of the conspiracy, were tried and convicted. Their cases are still pending on appeal.

Mrs. Price was later tried alone by Judge Hugo Friend. She waived a jury trial. Strenuous efforts were made for probation, but the judge ruled that she should be punished as well as the men. Later Mrs. Price appealed unsuccessfully for a pardon.

Buckley Jury Retires for Night After 11 Hrs.' Debate

Detroit, Mich., April 20.—(AP)—After 11 hours of debate, the jury deliberating the fate of three defendants in the Gerald E. Buckley assassination retired at 9:30 p. m. The jurors will resume their deliberations at 9 a. m. tomorrow. The defendants, Ted Pizzino, Angelo Livecchi and Joe Bommarito, expressed disappointment when informed there would be no verdict tonight.

JAIL IS LEFT DRAFTY WHEN SEVEN ESCAPE; 3 LATER RECAPTURED

Petersburg, Ind., April 20.—[Special.]—Three of seven men who escaped the Pike county jail last night were captured at Marshall, Ill., today after they had stolen two automobiles and robbed a filling station in Winslow. Those who broke jail were: Orin Padgett, 22; Barrett Garard, 19; John White, 20; Ernest Reed, 25; Sherman Johnson, 18; Forest Sills, 19, and Jack Wright, 19, all but White charged with burglary.

Sheriff Nelson was informed of the break this morning when Alvin Elkins, held as a bank robber, walked into the jail kitchen and asked Mrs. Nelson please to close the jail doors as there was too much draft in the jail.

Several days ago Sheriff Nelson intercepted a letter addressed to outside parties in which the prisoners asked a hack saw and keys. Yesterday Sheriff Nelson put new locks on the jail doors, but one was picked and two others sawed out by the escaping prisoners.

8 GARY YOUTHS CHARGED WITH ATTACKING GIRL

Eight Gary youths were arrested yesterday charged with attacking a girl on Sunday night. The girl, who says she was kidnaped from the streets and attacked, is Miss Helen Vozar, 18 years old, a waitress, mother of a fourteen months' old baby.

The youths, arrested after being named by the girl, are Kenneth Reeder, 17 years old; John Nezzo, 23; Tony Chouinard, 22; Steve Franko, 22; Mike Medonich, 21; Tony Koval, 20; Nick Mandsyn, 22, and Reeder's brother, Clarence, 20.

DENIES PROPERTY OWNERS' PLEA TO HOLD UP SUBWAY

The court proceedings over the widening of North State street, a preliminary to the construction of the subway, advanced another step yesterday when Superior Judge Ross C. Hall overruled a demurrer of a group of property owners, who contended that the city had failed to present a prima facie case for the improvement.

Attorney John B. Heineman, representing the property owners, had argued that the proceedings were not legal because the transit ordinance had not been accepted by the newly organized Chicago Local Transportation company and because the ordinance for the construction of a new North State street bridge had not been passed. Judge Hall ruled that these matters may be taken up any time before final judgment in the case is entered.

The number of objections to the improvement originally presented to the court has been reduced from 125 to 22. Objections to the record of the board of local improvements will be heard today.

Begin Trial of $100,000 Suit for Airplane Crash

The trial of the suit of Mrs. Louise McCusker, 29 years old, 244 East Pearson street, who is asking $100,000 damages from the Curtiss Flying service of Glenview for injuries she incurred in an airplane crash, was begun yesterday before a jury in the court of Circuit Judge David M. Brothers. The accident, in which the pilot, Harold Mayer, was killed, and Mrs. McCusker and Dr. Fred Harvey, a Chicago physician, were injured, occurred on May 22, 1930, near Waynetown, Ind. Mrs. McCusker sets forth that she chartered the plane to take her and the physician to Valdosta, Ga., where her mother was in a serious condition following an automobile accident.

DRUG IS FATAL TO WOMAN.

SPAIN TO GIVE EACH PEASANT PLOT OF GROUND

Will 'Colonize' 4,000,000 Acres of Waste Land.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, April 20.—Spain's baby republic has gone into the past for an idea to give each peasant a plot of ground. The agricultural policy, as outlined today by Fernando de Los Rios, minister of instruction, was copied from an Iberian stunt, which was in operation long before the Romans came.

FERNANDO DE LOS RIOS.

Right down until the middle of the 19th century it persisted and still does to a slight degree in the system of municipally owned lands operated by the village for its own benefit. The minister emphasizes that it is not the Russian system of farming, which, he admits, has been studied.

Peasants Part Owners.

"We will try to revive the old Iberian system," De Los Rios said. "Municipalities will own the land and the workers will form cooperative societies within them. Thus every peasant will also become a part owner."

How the passion of the Spaniards for a piece of land, which they can claim as their own, is to be assuaged, the minister did not say. But he hopes to ameliorate unemployment, misery and social unrest and, at the same time, increase Spanish production by tilling immense tracts of waste land.

In the north where the problem is one of tiny unproductive plots and tenant farming, burdened with the medieval system of seigneurial rights, the cure will be just the opposite. Instead of breaking it up, the government will undertake to gather the small holdings into similar municipal units.

Plans "Interior Colonization."

A lesson has been learned from the Rumanian expropriations, which gave the peasants land but no capital with which to work it, and De Los Rios plans to develop another ancient Spanish institution, a municipal credit institution.

A huge irrigation program and plans for "interior colonization" to settle idle peasants and divert the 50,000 who normally emigrate to South America annually are expected to be launched at the same time.

In two and a half years more than 4,000,000 acres of waste land in a country, which is the most sparsely settled in Europe will be irrigated, De Los Rios declared, to care for 1,000,000 families, averaging five persons each.

Stop Exodus of Capital.

In order to prevent panicky aristocrats from endangering the country's financial health by withdrawing their capital from banks and shipping it abroad, the government today issued a decree ordering all persons to restore cash withdrawn from banks within 30 days or face prosecution.

Indalecio Prieto, minister of finance, announced that this strict measure had been taken as a result of complaints by bankers, who came to him asking that energetic steps be taken to stop the disastrous flow of wealth out of the country.

According to the finance minister, aristocrats, known to have sent large sums of money out of the land, will lose their palaces and estates unless they bring back the money.

ISABEL REACHES PARIS

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 20.—Infanta Isabel, 31 year old aunt of Alfonso XIII, arrived in Paris tonight, borne on a stretcher, thus completing the trip of the last of the Bourbons into exile.

There were less than 100 persons at the Gare d'Orsay waiting for the train. The long ride from Spain rendered the once vivacious princess semi-conscious. A group of Spanish emigres escorted the stretcher to a waiting ambulance. Their heads were bowed with sorrow.

No member of the royal family was at the station—obviously to avoid any confusion and crowds—but the duke of Miranda, the king's chamberlain, represented the fallen monarch. The stricken Infanta was driven slowly to an exclusive clinic in the Auteuil district, where she was greeted by exiled Spanish nuns residing in the building.

Just as her baggage—old fashioned trunks and wicker baskets tied with ropes—were being carted in, Alfonso sprang from a car and, accompanied by the former Spanish ambassador, Quinones de Leon, entered the building and was escorted by two nuns to the bedside of his dying aunt.

Alfonso, still on the lookout for a place to establish himself and his family, will leave tomorrow for London to learn, according to well informed persons, whether he will be persona grata in England. Announcement of Alfonso's departure was made this afternoon by the Duke of Miranda, who explained that Alfonso is going to London to make arrangements for the naval education of his son, Don Juan.

LONDON, April 20.—London police are making sure that there will be no attempt on the life of Alfonso, who is arriving here from Paris tomorrow. Fifty detectives will be on duty at Victoria station.

U. S. DELAYING RECOGNITION OF NEW REPUBLIC

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Although the French republic and a number of Latin-American republics have recognized the new Spanish republic the government of the United States, the first modern republic and the greatest in all history, is delaying recognition pending, among other events, the action of one of the few remaining monarchies, Great Britain.

While state department officials deny that the administration is deferring entirely to Britain in the matter, it is admitted that there is no present intention of extending recognition until after the British government acts. The reason given is that the recognition of the new government in Spain is Europe's affair and Great Britain invariably defers to the United States in extending recognition of a new government in the western hemisphere.

Loan May Be Involved.

It appears furthermore that the $28,000,000 Morgan loan to the Spanish crown three weeks before the fall of Alfonso is still affecting the attitude of the Hoover administration. The Spanish republic has announced that it will recognize all international obligations of the monarchy, but has stated that it intends to rescind the agreement under which J. P. Morgan and other American financiers and certain French banks extended a $60,000,000 credit to the monarchy to stabilize the peseta. The American share of the consortium was $38,000,000.

Whether the rescinding of the agreement involves a breach of contract is not clear. The Madrid government says the credit has not been drawn upon and will not be, although the fund had already been deposited in the Bank of Spain. The state department is still without official information of the intentions of Madrid in regard to the loan.

Breach of Contract Possible.

If it turns out that a breach of contract is involved the Hoover administration, according to the state department, will not recognize the new government. A repudiation of obligations would place the Spanish republic, it is explained, in the same category as the Russian soviet government which Mr. Hoover, like his predecessors, has refused to recognize because it repudiated debts owned the United States government and American citizens which had been contracted by the czarist régime.

The decision to proceed cautiously with respect to recognition of the new government was reached following the receipt of dispatches from Irwin B. Laughlin, American ambassador to Spain, which betrayed a lack of confidence that the republicans now in possession would be able to form a stable government and maintain order. The ambassador, it appears, has a low opinion of the capacity of the heads of the republican government. Dispatches from Madrid that Mr. Laughlin was being quoted in diplomatic circles as having made disparaging remarks concerning the caliber of the republican cabinet.

Ambassador Royal Partisan.

The American ambassador, it transpires, was a strong partisan of the royal régime. The light that beat upon Alfonso's throne blinded him to the rising tide of republicanism. When he was in Washington last December he informed the President that the republican movement was negligible. After the Jaca revolt he gave an interview in Paris in which he said that he regarded the Spanish monarchy absolutely safe.

The information supplied to Washington by the American ambassador at Madrid appears to have been about as reliable as that furnished by the American embassy at Rio de Janiero during the Brazilian revolution. So ignorant was the American embassy in Brazil of actual conditions that Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson let down the bars and supplied arms to the Brazilian government less than 48 hours before it was overthrown by the revolution.

EXILED KING ORDERS FOLLOWERS TO BACK PORTUGUESE REPUBLIC

LISBON, April 20.—(AP)—Portuguese monarchists still loyal to former King Manoel today offered unlimited support to the Republican government on the advice of Manoel himself. In a message from London, where he is living in exile, the former king told his supporters:

FORMER KING MANOEL.

"At this time, when inexorable fate has forced King Alfonso from his throne, my thought turn to our dear country [may Heaven protect her] and to those faithful friends who never have forgotten me."

He urged upon all monarchists in Portugal the duty of defending the country's independence and integrity and maintaining public order as the only means of "achieving the union of all patriots of good faith."

Alfonso Was Last Living King to Hold Papal Veto Right

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Historians recording the effects of the fall of the Spanish throne in the chronology of world events may conceivably overlook one phase, obscure but interesting, in the passing of Alfonso XIII. He was the last living monarch to whom descended a traditional power of veto over the election of a pope—a power repudiated by the church in 1904.

There seems small reason to doubt that the exercise of this prerogative, known as "the Spanish veto," by Emperor Francis Josef of Austria, after the death of Pope Leo XIII. in 1903 barred Cardinal Rampolla, his famous secretary of state, from succession to the papal throne, Cardinal Rampolla, conceded to be a popular choice, had already received 29 votes when the announced opposition of the emperor veered the attention of the Sacred college to the relatively unknown patriarch of Venice, Cardinal Giuseppe Sarto, who became Pius X.

Abrogates Spanish Veto.

One of the first acts of the new pontiff was the abrogation of the Spanish veto. Not only that, but by the bull "Commissum Nobis," issued Jan. 20, 1904, he declared that whoever should attempt to invoke it in the future would be subject to excommunication.

Existence of this power of veto dates back to the days of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, when central Europe was known as the Holy Roman empire. It was always a right based on custom, tacitly recognized by the Sacred college, but never supported by any written text or confession.

At each conclave to elect a new pope factions of the cardinals evolved, according to their nationality, their relations with one of the Catholic courts of Spain, France, or the Empire (Germany and Austria), or their agreement or disagreement with the policies of the former pontiff. These groups upheld or opposed certain candidates, and each of the Catholic courts naturally intrusted the cardinals "of the crown" which the mission of removing, as far as lay in their power, candidates distasteful to their party.

Becomes Diplomatic Privilege.

Because of the intrigues resulting from the objections of one or another ruler to various candidates, it was deemed better to recognize the practice, and during the sixteenth century it became a diplomatic privilege, straightforward and definite. In modern times it had become a nominal rather than an actual right. During the nineteenth century, however, Austria tried to exercise the right of veto at all conclaves except that which elected Leo XIII. in 1878.

Its last effort to influence the conclave was made in 1903 because Cardinal Rampolla was considered to be pro-French and might have favored that country above Austria.

Alfonso XIII., literally born a king several months after the death of his father, Alfonso XII., had little opportunity to wield his traditional "Spanish veto," for he was crowned following his sixteenth birthday, in 1902, and the only election at which he might possibly have attempted to determine the selection of a pontiff was quickly followed by the abolition of the veto.

PROPOSE VOTE ON PARK FOR MEDICAL AREA

Assembly to Get Bill on West Side Project.

A bill providing for a referendum on the creation of a state medical center park on Chicago's west side will be introduced in the legislature this spring, it was indicated yesterday at a meeting of legislators, business men, and hospital authorities at the University hospital.

According to plans outlined at the meeting, which was sponsored by the Chicago West Town Chamber of Commerce, the bill will be drawn within a few days and presented to the city council and the county board for approval.

Would Surround 21 Institutions.

The project of creating a medical center park surrounding one of the world's largest medical centers, which embraces 21 institutions, including the County, Presbyterian, West Side, and University hospitals, the Durand hospital for Contagious Diseases, and the Research and Educational hospitals, has been planned for several years.

With its creation, it was pointed out, the present area of near slums which surrounds this important medical area would give way to surroundings to which patients, students, nurses, and doctors are entitled. The medical area contains 4,147 hospital beds, more than in any other like district in the world.

State Representatives Albert J. Mascin, Frank Ryan, and John M. Tolias, and State Senator Joseph Mendel, all of the Second senatorial district, agreed that the state should bear the burden of taxation. It was pointed out that 1,000 students from downstate are attending medical colleges in the area; that 1,000 more attend the dental colleges, and that an additional 1,000 girls from downstate are enrolled in the area's schools for nurses' training.

Total Cost Is $20,000,000.

The entire cost of the project would entail an expenditure of $20,000,000 over a period of years, but only $5,000,000 is needed from the taxpayers, it was outlined.

That the west side, or that Chicago, or even Cook county should assume the burden of the cost of a park which would benefit persons from throughout the state would be unreasonable, members of the committee agreed.

C. H. Kavanaugh, a member of the committee on the proposed park named by the Chicago West Town Chamber of Commerce, presided. He outlined the plan as follows:

An inner zone, whose area already is occupied to more than one-third of its extent by medical structures, would be bounded by the Garfield park and Douglas park branches of the elevated road, and by Taylor street and Damen avenue.

Set Boundaries for Park.

The entire park, which would provide a fringe of green landscape, would be several blocks in width where possible. To the north Jackson boulevard would be its boundary, to the east Ashland avenue, to the south Roosevelt road, and to the west Leavitt street, according to tentative plans.

The edge of the outer park belt might be used for the construction of fraternity and sorority houses and other living quarters for students and nurses, as well as one or more hotels for visitors to patients, it was suggested.

With the $5,000,000 obtained from the state, an unsalaried board of three commissioners appointed by the governor and given excess condemnation powers, could purchase all the vacant property in the inner zone. This would then be sold to the eight hospitals, four medical colleges, two colleges of dentistry, one of pharmacy, six schools of nursing, and one graduate medical college now in the area. With the money obtained from the institutions the outer fringe of the park would be purchased.

The meeting was attended by Dr. Edward Louis Heintz, professor emeritus of the University of Illinois college of medicine and a founder of the University hospital; Asa S. Bacon, superintendent of the Presbyterian hospital, and others.

In a paper prepared by Dr. Bernard Santus of Rush Medical college on the proposed park it was pointed out that without the success of this project the costly medical center there will gradually be disrupted.

"The inner or hospital zone," he said, "should be freed as far as possible from traffic, with its noise, which disturbs the rest and sleep of the thousands of patients struggling for life within this district. The 'Zone of Quiet' signs now placed about these institutions protest vainly against the screeching of street cars, the droning of the elevated road, the grinding of trucks, and the whirr and honking of automobiles."

Bogan Talks

Two thousand public school students, led by the Harrison Technical High school band, paraded through the west side of the city yesterday to mark the opening of a two weeks' "clean up, paint up" campaign. Speaking at the Whitney school, Komensky avenue and 28th street, where the parade started and ended, William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, urged special efforts to beautify the city for "Jubilee week," which will start May 11.

Instructions to the school children emphasize the removal of stones and all other objects for the double purpose of tidying school grounds and reducing the temptation for window breaking by small boys. Children participating in the campaign will spend recess and after school hours cleaning alleys and parkways with brooms and rakes and educating fellow students and older citizens in the ways of neatness.

SIAMESE RULER TO REACH CITY THIS MORNING

Ban Reception Because of King's Illness.

King Prajadhipok of Siam, absolute monarch over 6,500,000 people in a tropical domain of 200,000 square miles, will arrive in Chicago at 9 o'clock this morning with his wife, Queen Rambaibarni. He will not emerge from his private car and will remain here only an hour and a quarter, leaving at 10:15 for New York.

The royal party's only glimpse of this city will be from train windows as its car is shunted in the Root street yards of the New York Central railroad. These yards are near South State street between 40th and 41st streets.

King's Illness Prevents Fête.

A reception originally had been planned for the monarch, but his illness necessitated a curtailment of such activities. The king is suffering from bronchitis and is recovering from malaria. In addition, he is to undergo go an operation on his eye for removal of a cataract when he reaches Baltimore. He will be in this country about two months, staying at Ophir hall, the Westchester estate of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, a 200 room mansion.

The party will be received here by Nathan William MacChesney, Siamese consul general, and his wife, and a representative of Mayor Cermak. Physicians have advised against a public appearance for the king and a fast schedule has been arranged from Chicago east, stops being made only at division points—Elkhart, Ind., Toledo, Buffalo, Syracuse, Utica, Albany, and Scarsborough.

Queen Waves to Crowds.

The special Soo line train of the royal party made a brief stop at St. Paul, Minn., last evening and then moved eastward into Wisconsin. As the train crossed North Dakota and Minnesota yesterday curious crowds gathered along the way. The queen appeared and waved to the crowds at various stops, but the king remained in his car, nodding to the people through the window. At Enderlin, N. D., and Glenwood, Minn., the townsfolk presented flowers to the queen.

King Prajahadhipok issued a statement after his train had entered the United States from Canada at Portal, N. D., in which he said he looked forward to "renewing associations formed upon a previous visit and to availing myself of the skill of American surgeons whose mastery of medical science is renowned throughout the world."

The monarch was here last in 1925. He was then heir apparent to the throne and spent six weeks sightseeing throughout the United States. He speaks English fluently, wears the clothes of the western peoples, and has introduced a modern régime into his country, including an air mail and a modern transportation system.

BIND SIX IN THEATER HOLDUP.

Gang Chief's Trickery in Lingle Quiz Bared.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
CHAPTER XVIII.

"Will you take the killer of Lingle dead?"

This was the question—perhaps it was also an offer—put up to Pat Roche and Charles Rathbun at a time when they were in their sixth month of the search for the murderer of Alfred Lingle.

The message was delivered to Operative No. 1 of the Rathbun-Roche staff, through the confidential agent of Capone.

Climax of Conferences.

It came at the climax of two weeks of conferences held between the two liaison men.

Several days after the opening talk between Capone himself and Operative No. 1, the gangster's agent met with the operative, exhibiting a doleful air.

"The 'Big Fellow' has made inquiries throughout the gangs," he said, "and he has been unable to find any man who answers the description of the killer. It seems that he has been well covered up. Al has got 50 men working on the case, and he hopes to dig up something definite."

Gang Gets Some Reports.

But nothing definite came forth. The Capone agent told of reports coming into the gang that Lingle's slayer had been hurried out of Chicago after the murder, and that he was in hiding in another city. There were other gang reports that the slayer was dead.

This was always a specter to the investigators. What if the murderer of Lingle were dead and buried? However could the murder be solved? Many times isolated reports of the murder of obscure gangsters, in Chicago and out of town, were carefully scanned, and sometimes descriptions of dead men were obtained for comparison with the description of the Lingle killer.

At another time the Capone agent told Operative No. 1 that efforts to deal with Bugs Moran and to learn from him the story of the Lingle murder and the name of the killer had failed. Moran refused to deal, the report stated.

Will Take Killer Dead?

Then finally, in early November, the Capone spokesman kept a rendezvous with Operative No. 1, and with a worried countenance—it was evident that he had no stomach for his present duties—he put the question:

"Al wants to know if you will take the Lingle killer dead."

What a question it was, and how unworthy of the mind of a man who had been touted so long as a master criminal, a man of super intelligence and cunning.

That the murderer of Lingle deserved to die there was no question, but vengeance was the law's and the thought of having him delivered dead was impossible to consider. The killer must be taken alive, confronted by witnesses, brought before a jury, and then, if he was to die, it was justice.

Defy to Gang Chieftain.

Operative No. 1 notified the Capone representative that he would meet him no more, and in plain terms he added:

"You can tell Capone that we know he has been bluffing and that he can go to hell."

As a matter of fact, the authorities possessed information that established a possible motive which Capone himself might have had to desire the death of Lingle. Within three days after the reporter's murder, agents of the federal department of justice came to THE TRIBUNE, inquiring whether THE TRIBUNE had any knowledge of evidence concerning the income of Capone.

The federal investigators were at work seeking evidence upon which to base an indictment of the gang chief for income tax frauds, and sought this newspaper's aid.

THE TRIBUNE knew of no evidence concerning the sources of Capone's income. But Lingle, through the familiarity he maintained with the gangster, might have possessed knowledge of the manner in which Capone disguised and concealed the sources of his illicit profits, and of banks in which Capone maintained accounts under fictitious names.

Lingle, dead, could not present evidence of Capone's income tax frauds.

It is problematical whether the gang leader knew the whereabouts of the slayer, and whether he ever would have delivered his body to a spot where the authorities could find it.

The best guess is that Capone did know, and this guess is borne out by evidence to be disclosed later. There is no doubt that if Capone thought he could remove the "heat" from himself and his gang, and bargain for a reprieve from the raids and arrests and convictions resulting from the investigators' activities, he would have done so, even at the cost of putting the Lingle murderer on a doorstep somewhere, dead.

THREATENED

George E. Q. Johnson, United States district attorney, whose prosecution of the gang leaders for violation of the federal laws resulted in reported plot to kill him.

going through with that kind of a stunt, are you?"

The gang leader, according to the story told by the government informant, calmed Guzik and explained that he was playing a shrewd game, and that he had no intention whatever of giving up the Lingle murderer.

Plan to Slay Foes.

Then Capone—and here is the incredible part of the informant's story—revealed that he had arranged for five gunmen to be brought here from New York, and that four leading foes of the Capone gang were to be murdered.

These men, according to the informant, were:

Pat Roche.

United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, now in the full swing of his prosecutions of gangsters and politicians for income tax frauds.

A. P. Madden, who had led the investigations of the gangsters' incomes.

Reason to Kill Officials.

There was reason for the Capone gangsters to hate these officials. Roche was sending their men to prison, raiding their sources of revenue. Johnson, Madden, and Wilson brought the top notchers of the gang into the shadow of the federal penitentiary.

Ralph Capone, brother of Al, had been convicted of income tax frauds and was under sentence to serve three years in Leavenworth penitentiary. Nitti and Jack Guzik were awaiting trial. Harry and Sam Guzik, pandering brothers of Jack, were under indictment. Scarface Al himself was under investigation for income tax frauds, and was facing trial for contempt of court.

Roche was inclined to scoff at the informant's story of the impending assassinations, although he confessed himself disturbed by the informant's having gained knowledge of Capone's meetings with Operative No. 1.

It seemed too bizarre, too unreal, too much like a movie thriller, to be true.

Protect Those Threatened.

Other officials were inclined to treat the information with the greatest gravity, and steps were taken to protect those who were threatened. Meanwhile, an intensive investigation was launched in an effort to gain corroboration or additional details of the Capone plot.

Secrecy surrounded all the moves of the authorities, and until now the story of this amazing underworld incident has not been revealed.

It was just at this time that Rathbun and Roche were in the midst of a strenuous activity on an angle of the Lingle investigation—the angle which brought them to success and the capture of the murderer of Lingle. It was urgent that the investigators should leave at once for New York on a phase of the inquiry, and they did leave, on Nov. 18, in the height of the investigation of the Capone plot. This investigation was left in charge of the federal authorities.

More Information Comes In.

Then, in New York, Roche received a telephone call from Converse, and the TRIBUNE reporter who had gone along to New York was informed of new developments from his office in Chicago.

From these agencies it was learned that new information on the Capone plot had been obtained, and it had come from an entirely unrelated source.

Information is gained by newspaper offices in a great variety of methods, and one of the best sources of news is the anonymous tipster who calls on the telephone. One of these, who was quite evidently a member of the gang underworld of Chicago, had at long intervals during the course of several years telephoned to a certain member of THE TRIBUNE staff, giving information on gang crimes.

What Information Revealed.

The TRIBUNE man had never seen his informant, but he had come to know his voice when he heard it on the wire, and he had also come to have a certain reliance in what the informant would tell him. Frequently the information thus received would be proven true, and none of it had been wholly unreliable.

This was the message:

"Say, I just want to tip you off that there's a carload of gangsters from New York in town and I heard they're going to kill some big shots here. I think they might be after Judge Lyle, because the judge has been giving the hoods such a ride lately. They're tough birds, and one of them is known as 'Max the Strong.' There's five of them and they're ridin' in a Chevrolet sedan."

"Well, when is this coming off?" the tipster was asked.

"Can't tell you any more——" and the phone was cut off.

Warning Given to Judge.

This TRIBUNE man had never heard of the Capone plot, and he notified Judge Lyle of the information he had been given and warned the judge to be careful. At the same time he called Special Agent Converse, whom he had known for years, and informed Converse of the informant's message.

The following day Converse hastened into THE TRIBUNE office to inform the TRIBUNE representative that the government informant had brought in the same information as to the arrival of the five New York gunmen. But Converse's information was that the gangsters were in Chicago in pursuance of Capone's plot to kill Roche, Johnson, Madden, and Wilson. The car in which they rode was a small blue sedan and bore a New York license, the report had it.

Here was corroboration of the plot, and with a tang of truth about it that could not be denied or passed off lightly.

Roche and Rathbun Return.

Rathbun and Roche returned to Chicago at once, leaving the New York angle of the Lingle investigation to be followed by other representatives of the staff.

Squads of detectives from Roche's force were organized, and they beat determinedly about the haunts of the Capone gang, seeking the would-be killers.

Every available source of information concerning the whereabouts of Capone himself was investigated by the authorities, and many places in which it was thought he might be hiding were raided.

A week before the reported arrival of the gangsters from New York, Jack Guzik had been placed on trial before Judge Charles E. Woodward in the federal court, and witnesses summoned by the government had woven a firm case to establish the Capone gang chief's guilt.

Gunmen Cruising About City.

On the next day after the jury in Judge Woodward's court found Guzik guilty and made him subject to a penalty of 15 years in prison, the eastern gunmen were reported from the two sources as cruising about the city.

Despite the active search for Capone and his henchmen waged by the federal and state's attorney's investigators, not a trace of the gang leader nor of the New York gunmen could be found.

Then it was reported to the investigators that Capone had learned of the exposure of his plot and had abandoned it. But the investigation continued, nevertheless.

REAL DEVELOPMENT

Then a sensational development, almost unbelievable, occurred, and it bore out the opinions of Rathbun and Roche that Capone had never intended to aid in the capture of the Lingle slayer and that his approaches were but a part of a desperate gang scheme.

A. P. Madden, chief of the Chicago bureau of special intelligence of the federal department of internal revenue, and Clarence Converse, special agent for the bureau, visited Rathbun and Roche and informed them of the revelations of a government undercover man.

The informant had told the government agents that he had learned of a meeting of Capone and members of his gang and of what had been discussed at the meeting.

Discuss Gang Conference.

The Lingle investigators were astounded to learn from the federal agents that the conferences of the Capone liaison and Operative No. 1 had been discussed at the meeting.

The utmost secrecy had guarded the facts of these conferences, so far as the Lingle staff was concerned, and only Rathbun, Roche, and two others of the staff had become acquainted with any of the details.

Yet from the lips of Madden and Converse came the whole story, as they had learned it from their informant, and this fact gave substantiation to the incredible nature of the rest of the informant's story.

Capone had related to the leaders of his gang present at the meeting some of the details of the conferences with Operative No. 1. Jack Guzik, who, with Frank Nitti, was regarded as the financial brains of the Capone gang and who was even then awaiting trial in the federal courts for violation of the income tax laws, broke out with an oath:

"For —— sake, Al, you're not

PRESS WAR ON GANGS

The war on the gangs went on, unrelenting, and it still goes on. In the federal offensive, Frank Nitti pleaded guilty to income tax frauds, was given an 18 months' sentence, and is now in Leavenworth prison serving that sentence. Jack Guzik was sentenced, on the jury's verdict of guilty, to serve 6 years and a day at Leavenworth and to pay a fine of $17,500.

Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, beer barons, pleaded guilty to tax frauds, and await prison sentences.

Finally Al Capone himself was brought to trial before Judge James H. Wilkerson on a charge of contempt of court for having feigned illness in Florida in 1929, when he had been subpoenaed to appear before the federal grand jury in Chicago. At the trial it was shown that when Capone was supposed to be seriously ill, confined to his Palm Island home, he actually was attending the Miami races, flying to Bimini in a public airplane, taking boat trips, and attending prize fights.

Six Months for Capone.

Judge Wilkerson in his decision scathed the gangster defendant, and ordered that he be imprisoned in the Cook county jail for six months. An appeal is pending, but meanwhile the government let it be known that it confidently expects to place the king of Chicago gangsters in Leavenworth prison for a lengthy stay on income tax charges.

The notable accomplishments of District Attorney Johnson were rewarded with his reappointment by President Hoover to a new term, which he began on the same day that the conviction of Capone was announced by Judge Wilkerson. It was also announced in Washington that drives will be prosecuted against gangsters in other cities patterned after the campaign inaugurated by District Attorney Johnson in Chicago.

On the state side of the gang offensive further exemplary justice was dealt out to the gangsters. Fur Sammons, that arch criminal whose hand is said to itch for the feel of a machine gun, was placed on trial for vagrancy and convicted before a jury in the court of Judge Edgar Jonas.

Then, a week later, Sammons was brought before Chief Justice McGoorty on a fugitive warrant sworn out by Warden H. C. Hill of Joliet penitentiary. Previously W. C. Jones, chairman of the state parole board, following a program outlined by Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, had expunged from the record of the parole board two orders upon which Sammons had won freedom.

Start of Politics-Crime Alliance.

In 1903 Sammons came within a day of being hanged for the murder of Patrick Barrett, a saloonkeeper. Richard Yates, then governor, had commuted the sentence of death to life imprisonment, and in 1923 former Gov. Len Small granted further clemency to the gang criminal, commuting his sentence to 50 years.

LEN SMALL.

In less than a month Sammons was paroled.

Attorney General Carlstrom, reviewing Sammons' case in the light of the new war on public enemies, rendered an opinion holding that the provisions of the parole act do not apply to commuted sentences.

Upon this showing Judge McGoorty ruled that Sammons be returned to the penitentiary to serve out the unexpired 30 years of his 50 year sentence. As the judge's decision was announced Sammons broke into a tirade against THE TRIBUNE.

Gangster Assails Tribune.

"THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and its tools, Carlstrom and others, are behind this," the embittered gangster snarled in open court. "The unseen hand is at work. I'll show that I'm entitled to walk the streets. THE TRIBUNE ain't worth the paper its printed on."

State's Attorney Swanson interrupted the gangster.

"How much did you pay for your discharge and pay roll during the Small administration?" he asked. And Sammons shouted back:

"As for you, Mr. State's Attorney, if you would attend to courts more often and not let THE TRIBUNE do it, you would be better off."

And then Sammons went on his way, back within the familiar walls of Joliet penitentiary. He will die there, according to the opinions voiced by members of the parole board.

On March 2, 1931, Three Fingered Jack White was placed on trial before Judge Joseph Sabath for the murder of Policeman Edward Pflaume. Sergt. James E. McBride, bearing proudly the vivid scar left on his face by the Capone killers who would have silenced him and prevented his accusing White, took the witness stand and named White as the killer of Pflaume.

Prosecutor Ditchburne charged during the trial that four state witnesses had disappeared, and he accused the friends of White of having intimidated them. With the trial being held five years after the Pflaume murder, and with the other handicaps under which the state labored, hopes for a conviction were not too great, and the victory which Prosecutor Ditchburne did achieve brought him praise and congratulations.

Ask Assembly to Act.

The state legislature was asked to take a hand in Chicago's crime war, and a bill was introduced seeking to put the formal condemnation of the law upon public enemies, to recognize that term as applied to gangsters and organized criminals, and to make a public enemy a felon subject to a sentence to the state penitentiary.

The battle against the gangster had made a public leader out of Judge John H. Lyle, and from the obscurity of his place on the bench of the Municipal court he emerged, almost overnight, as a commanding figure in the city's affairs.

Answering the pleas of civic leaders, Judge Lyle announced himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor, running against Mayor William Hale Thompson, who was denounced by Lyle as the mainstay of gangs and criminality in Chicago. Dan Serritella, recognized as the right hand political man of Scarface Al Capone, was city sealer of Chicago, a member of Thompson's cabinet.

Albert Cuts Into Vote.

It was generally claimed after the primary, from which Thompson emerged as the victor, that if Ald. Arthur Albert had not run as a third candidate, with the support of the Deneen forces, Lyle certainly would have been nominated. And rumor persists that Albert's candidacy was backed by elements opposed to the prosecution of gangland.

Thompson, with all the force of the city hall political machine behind him, had not been able to muster a majority of the votes. Then, in the election of April 7, with the opposition to Thompson united, Anton J. Cermak, Democrat, with an anti-gang platform, swamped the gang mayor of Chicago under an avalanche of votes, winning the mayoralty by a majority of 194,000.

Trail of Lingle Killer.

This tale goes on now, at last, to the trailing and the capture and conviction of the murderer of Alfred Lingle. It has not been intended to ascribe all the event of that great public march against the gangs of Chicago as the direct aftermath of that murder.

But certainly the death of Lingle was a torch to the tinder.

And the waning of the power of Capone and all that he stands for has come.

PROSECUTED

James (Fur) Sammons, gangster, who was returned to prison as the result of the activities which were the result of the murder of Alfred Lingle.

BANK ROBBERIES IN ILLINOIS SHOW INCREASE IN 1931

But Percentage of Loss Is Reduced.

For the first three and a half months of 1931 bank robberies in Illinois showed an increase of 50 per cent over the corresponding period in 1930, but losses were increased by only slightly more than 8 per cent, H. A. Graettinger, executive vice president of the Illinois Bankers' association, reported yesterday.

From Jan. 1 to April 20 last year there were nine bank robberies and one bank burglary, with a loss of $37,000. For the same period this year there were fourteen bank robberies, three attempted robberies, one burglary, and one attempted burglary, with a total loss of $40,000. In Cook county last year there were two bank robberies, one attempted robbery, and one robbery by a youth whose mother forced him to return the money and turned her son over to the police. In Chicago there was no bank robbery in either year, the last bank robbery in Chicago being that of the Franklin Trust and Savings bank three years ago.

Cites Decrease in Losses.

"We can well consider that Illinois has been fortunate for two reasons," Mr. Graettinger said. "While the number of robberies has increased the loss has been much less per robbery. This is advantageous as it lessens the profit per robbery while the risk is constantly being decreased.

"Of equal interest is the fact that this year we are showing a decreasing monthly average of robberies, while last year the monthly average was increasing. In 1930 the latter half of the period had more robberies, while this year January was our worst month, doubtless caused by the unemployment and the weather. We are now showing a decided improvement, and if the trend since Feb. 1 continues the latter half of the year will show us with a clean slate."

Show Bank Robbery Increase.

At the annual meeting of the American Bankers' association last week in Georgia it was stated that throughout the United States during the last year there had been an increase of 41 per cent in bank robberies.

START INQUIRY IN ACQUITTAL OF CAPONE AID

Los Angeles, Cal., April 20.—(AP)—District Attorney Burton Fitts today ordered an investigation into the acquittal by a Long Beach jury Saturday of Ralph Sheldon, former Al Capone aid, and three other alleged gangsters on charges of murderous assault in the shooting of a policeman.

Fitts characterized the verdict as either "miserable cowardice or incredible stupidity," and said: "The prosecution presented its case without a flaw."

"We have begun an attempt to find out if any of the jurors were threatened and the reason for the verdict," said Deputy District Attorney Percy Hammon, who was in charge of the prosecution in the trial.

Acquitted with Sheldon were Louis Frank, George Bruneman, and Ray Wagner. They were charged with shooting Patrolman W. H. Waggoner last Dec. 20. Frank was held in the county jail tonight while prosecutors drew up a felony complaint charging him with carrying a gun.

REGULARLY, $81

FOR a limited time only, we are deliberately pricing this chair at a figure far short of its true value, in order that you may feel inclined to become at once a collector of Danersk Furniture.

The limited size of modern apartments has created a widespread need for upholstered chairs small in size, yet as vast in comfort as chairs twice as spacious.

This handsome and cozy chair is the Danersk solution.

Its extraordinary comfort is the result of every known refinement of master upholstering.

The cushions, for example, are stuffed with the softest, finest goose down and shaped to the flare of the seat. The springs have been carefully set in by hand, their tension scrupulously adjusted to provide maximum resiliency, and then they have been hand stitched and tied eight to ten times, according to the correct English method. Not one ordinary chair in a hundred can offer these comfort-bestowing features.

But most interesting of all is its quaint chintz covering, designed by a little old lady from the South, who was never trained as a designer, but who possesses unique talent in this regard.

And so, this cheerful chintz overflows with a charming naivete, a refreshing originality which you never find in a routine pattern created by a professional designer. Any room will be made brighter and cheerier by this chair.

Lilies of the valley were never orange in nature, but they are in this chintz, and are all the gayer for being so; mingled with them in similarly unconventional fashion are red and yellow narcissus, blue flag, bunches of sweet peas, yellow daisies, tulips, wild ferns.

If you prefer some other chintz than the one here described, there are 9 other perfectly fascinating prints, selected from thousands, in which you may have this chair covered without additional charge.

ROB DETROIT CITY HALL OF $28,000 TAX COLLECTIONS

Chicago Man Confesses, Names Accomplice.

Detroit, Mich., April 20.—(AP)—Police said late tonight that Theodore Crowley, 28, of Chicago, had confessed his part in the theft of $28,458 from a cage in the city treasurer's office, on the second floor of the city hall, late today.

Crowley was quoted as admitting it was he who cut a hole in the wire network guarding the day's receipts in a cashier's cage extending into the corridor while three policemen stood fifty feet away. Then, he said, his accomplice, whose name was withheld by police pending his capture, thrust his hand into the hole, grabbed $25,000 in checks and $3,000 in cash, the day's receipts, and they fled. Crowley was arrested a few minutes later in a store three blocks away.

Plan Robbery in Miami.

Police said Crowley told them his accomplice had planned the robbery and written him in Miami Beach, Fla., where he was following the races. They met in Louisville, Ky., Saturday, according to his confession, and worked out details of the plot.

Clerks in the treasurer's office said the two men had spent several hours in the treasurer's office, on the second floor of the city hall, but that they were believed to be taxpayers looking up their assessments.

As closing time neared, one of the men sat on a stool usually occupied by a policeman and, masking his action with a newspaper, cut a hole in the cage. When George Wichow, the cashier, stepped from the cage for a moment, the other man rushed up, pushed through the hole, and scooped up the checks and currency representing the day's receipts. Then the men fled in opposite directions.

Fail to Release Tear Gas.

Leo Shiffman, a clerk, saw the theft and gave the alarm, following one of the men. Policemen stationed throughout the building joined in the chase.

The cages are equipped with tear gas guns and bombs, to be released by the cashiers in case of robbery. The thieves so timed their operations that no one was in a position to release the gas bombs when the theft was committed.

LAW LETS PASTOR GUARD SECRETS MEMBERS TELL

Minneapolis, Minn., April 20.—[Special.]—A legislative bill amending a 1927 law to include all clergymen under a provision safeguarding their right to conceal privileged communications given them by a member of their church was signed Monday by Gov. Olson.

The measure was enacted into a law a short time before the Minnesota Supreme court heard arguments and took under advisement the case of the Rev. Emil Swenson, Minneapolis Lutheran pastor, who was fined $100 and given the alternative of 30 days in jail by Judge Paul W. Guilford for contempt of court. Mr. Swenson was cited for contempt when he refused to reveal information given him by a member of his church who was sued for divorce.

The original law was worded to include only those clergymen who received the confidence of their parishioners as part of the church creed as in the confessional of the Catholic church.

CHARGE BAILIFF HELPS 3 WOMEN JURORS DECIDE

Judge Calls All Four in Contempt Action.

Rockford, Ill., April 20.—(AP)—Three women jurors and a woman bailiff were ordered today by Judge E. D. Shurtleff to show cause why they should not be cited for contempt of court—following charges that the bailiff influenced the women's jury vote.

JUDGE SHURTLEFF.

An affidavit filed in support of a new trial motion in the damage suit of Lucy Acey against W. A. Medaris charged Mrs. Mary Helt, the bailiff, with influencing the three women jurors to award only a small portion of the $10,000 damages asked.

The bailiff and the jurors—Mrs. Margaret Culbertson, Mrs. Gladys Garrett, and Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald—were ordered to appear before Judge Shurtleff Friday.

The charge against the three is violation of their oaths as jurors.

Sheriff William E. Bell also was brought into the citation hearing in the affidavit, signed by Mrs. Grace E. Sandberg, an investigator for the plaintiff's attorneys.

Mrs. Sandberg charged she went to the home of Mrs. Culbertson and heard a telephone conversation in which she said Mrs. Culbertson remarked that "Sheriff Bell called on me and thanked me for what I had done on the jury."

The affidavit further charges that Mrs. Culbertson and Mrs. Garrett "freely admitted" to the investigator that they had "talked to every one they could about the case so that they could get all the information they could out of others."

The bailiff is charged in the affidavit with telling the jurors that she "didn't see how Medaris could be to blame."

Two contempt citations were filed against Sheriff Bell in the January term of court. The petitions were presented to Judge Shurtleff by Attorney Edward L. McCleneghan, who charged Bell would not allow him to see clients in the jail.

The damage suit was the outgrowth of an automobile accident last fall in which Lucy Acey alleged she was injured when an automobile belonging to W. A. Medaris collided with the one in which she was riding.

J. F. Cushing Gives Fund to Engineering School.

A $300,000 gift to the University of Notre Dame was announced here last night by the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of the university. The donor is John F. Cushing, president of the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company of Chicago and a fellow graduate of Father O'Donnell's at Notre Dame in 1906.

Announcement of the gift was made at a banquet of several hundred members of the Notre Dame club of Chicago at the Drake hotel. There, as in scores of other cities throughout the world, alumni of the Indiana school were gathered last night in observance of the eighth annual "Universal Notre Dame night."

For New Engineering Building.

The money will be used for a new building for the school of engineering on the campus at Notre Dame, Ind. Constructed of brick and Indiana limestone, the structure will rise on a plot east of the new law school building, its style conforming with the modern Gothic of its neighbor.

Speaking at the banquet, Mr. Cushing related experiences of his youth and recalled how, when financially embarrassed in his final year at school, he was assisted by the then president, Father Morrissey. Father O'Donnell responded in an address, which was broadcast over W-G-N.

Bishop Shell Speaks.

Other speakers were the Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Shell, auxiliary bishop of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago; Edward N. Hurley, donor of an endowment to the Notre Dame school of commerce; D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair store and president of the Associated Catholic charities of Chicago; Ernest R. Graham, head of a Chicago architectural firm; Charles R. Paquette, honorary president of the Notre Dame club of Chicago, and Judge Kickam Scanlan, Notre Dame alumnus and member of the Appellate court bench.

Judge Scanlon decried sentiments he had heard that with the death of the university's football coach, Knute Rockne, the spirit of Notre Dame had suffered a setback. In tributs to the memory of the coach, who was killed in an airplane crash a few weeks ago, the assembly stood one minute in silence before the speaking began.

Fighting Spirit Continues.

"It jarred me to read among comments on Rockne's death a prediction that the fighting heart of Notre Dame would be seriously effected by his death," said Judge Scanlan.

"As a boy growing up in my neighborhood, I knew Rockne before he ever thought of attending Notre Dame and no one was more grieved than I at his loss. But I say now that whoever claims it was the Rockne spirit that dominated Notre Dame in in error.

"It was the Notre Dame spirit that dominated Rockne."

SUBURBS WILL NAME OFFICIALS AT POLLS TODAY

All but seven of the 91 cities and villages in Cook county outside of Chicago go to the polls today to elect officials. Rumors of possible violence or fraud in some of the communities resulted in extra precautions by the board of election commissioners in towns where it has jurisdiction, and Sheriff William D. Meyering detailed deputies into the towns where trouble was anticipated.

Chicago Heights, Calumet City, Harvey and Blue Island have engaged in active campaigns and record votes are expected. Gang politics was one of the issues raised by some candidates.

Among the candidates in Schiller Park is Mrs. Julia Kolze in the race for village president against three men. Mrs. Kolze, an independent candidate, is the granddaughter-in-law of the founder of Schiller Park, and if elected she will be the first woman in Illinois to head a municipal government. For 12 years she was head of the Leyden township school board. Another woman, Mrs. Rose de Krause, is a candidate for police magistrate in the Argo-Summit election.

SEEK TO AVERT 'BOND DEFAULTS IN MISSISSIPPI

Jackson, Miss., April 20.—(AP)—Some members of the Mississippi state legislature said tonight they planned to hold a surprise assemblage next Friday in defiance of Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo to pass emergency financial legislation to save the state from defaulting on bonds due May 1.

Leaders of the movement said their plan was to pass emergency measures to raise quick funds and then lay their bills before the governor, demanding he issue a predated call for a special session to legalize their action.

Gov. Bilbo was reported tonight as holding firm in his stand not to call the legislature in session unless a majority of the members signed a pledge in advance that they would not start impeachment proceedings against him.

Meantime $700,000 in bonds falls due May 1.

Like Steel . . the best Gasoline is Blended

IN the roaring inferno of the furnace, many elements blend into varying grades of steel. Iron, manganese, silicon, carbon, all join to produce a steel to suit a purpose.

In making gasoline, too, blending is necessary to produce a fuel to fit your motor. No one grade of unblended gasoline possesses a wide enough range of qualities to stand alone.

So CONOCO blends three types into a perfectly-proportioned whole . . . Natural Gasoline, for quick starting . . . Straight-run Gasoline, for surging power and long mileage qualities . . . Cracked Gasoline, to contribute anti-knock properties.

True, any refiner could do this. Just as any amateur can blend the same elements found in secret formulæ for making steel. But in the oil industry, as in the steel business, there always are headliners . . . a select few whose products are eminently better.

CONOCO is definitely a member of this group in the refining of gasoline . . . because CONOCO has men who know how. And it's all in knowing how!

We pride ourselves on this balanced-blend triple-test gasoline. Won't you try it today? Just ask for CONOCO . . . wherever you see the CONOCO Red Triangle.

VISIONS CHICAGO AS THE CAPITAL OF PAN-AMERICA

Leader Sees 1933 Fair as Turning Point.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Chicago—the future capital of Pan-America!

The Century of Progress exposition of 1933—a possible turning point in world history.

These possibilities are inherent in the world political situation and in the economic trends in Latin - America, according to John Barrett, former director general of the Pan-American union, who is in Chicago on lecture engagements.

Speaking out of an intimate knowledge of affairs in the southern hemisphere, political and commercial, which began 31 years ago and has been kept up to the minute, he said yesterday:

"I visualize Chicago as becoming the Pan-American center of the United States, and, therefore, of the western hemisphere.

1933 Fair as Turning Point.

"The greatest field for solidarity in the world is here in the western hemisphere, for Canada is becoming a great unit in the Pan-American field. There is only one way we can compete with the tremendous solidarity of Russia, which has Asia back of it. That is to become a unit.

"If you are to become a unit we must have some great center to rally to, a capital of commerce and culture. If Chicago can develop that cultural side, continue to manufacture what the Americans want and provide a market, it has taken a step toward that evolution.

"We are facing an unparalleled situation in the future competition of Russia, with all Asia territory mixed up and Europe too. There is this one field that is united to us by ties of sentiment [the republican form of government], commerce and geography.

"This field can come to us or it can go to Europe, according as the effort is now made. The 1933 fair may turn that solidarity this way, or it may turn it to Europe.

On Latin Revolutions.

"Latin America is now touching bottom. The series of revolutions and changes that have occurred there during the last year have really been an evolution toward better conditions. It is their method of expression, just as you expressed it in the ballot box in Chicago recently.

"The Latin Americans are not yet awakened to the Exposition, and there is a feeling in Latin America that the European influence is more dominant. To with this is the fact which I have often observed, that representative Latin American men look upon Chicago as the American ideal. They think of this city as being more sympathetic toward them than New York, and feel that here is the real essence of North America.

"Now, as to what it all means. We are a practical people and want hard facts. Well, here are three big facts:

"1. These twenty Latin American countries have an area of nine million square miles, three times the area of the United States. Chicago has a direct approach to this.

"2. These countries conduct a foreign trade of six billion dollars a year in normal times, and of this the average share of the United States is two billions.

"3. The latest census gives a population of 115,000,000, and it is increasing more rapidly than ours.

"That is the background on which I build the vision of Chicago's future. Twelve countries bordering the gulf and the Caribbean are tributary to Chicago naturally. These twelve countries have a population of 40 to 45 millions. They are a people who begin to spend as soon as they earn. The present political evolutions in their countries are making toward stability.

"In the commerce which the United States has with this part of the world the Chicago area has an equal, if not a better, claim than the eastern states for more than 50 per cent of it."

C. & N. W. MOVES TO NEW $3,000,000 FREIGHT BUILDING

Offices of the Grand avenue freight station of the Chicago and North Western railway were moved to the railroad's new $3,000,000 Merchandise Mart freight depot yesterday. The main freight activities, however, will not be transferred for some weeks. The new station is bounded by the Chicago river and Ferry, Kinzie and Wells streets. Its features are two main platforms enclosed in brick. That for outbound freight is 1,350 feet long and 87½ feet wide. That for inbound freight is 1,000 feet long and about 67 feet wide. The purpose of the new freight station is to concentrate in one place the handling of less than carload shipments.

MINORITIES AND POLES SIGN TRUCE IN EAST GALICIA

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LVOV, Poland, April 20.—An unofficial truce has been declared by the Ukrainian and Polish leaders of East Galicia. The Ukrainians, who accuse the Poles of outrages in their campaign to "pacify" this area, have filed complaints and petitions before the league of nations, which will come up for discussion during the May session in Geneva. According to leaders from both sides there is a possibility of a settlement of this problem before May. Marshal Pilsudski's unexpected return from Maderia is said to be connected with the Ukrainian question.

MARSHAL PILSUDSKI. [U. & U. Photo.]

The chief demand of the Ukrainians is that the Polish government fulfill its promises and grant them autonomy. In 1922 the Polish parliament passed a law promising the minorities living within its frontiers autonomous rights. A year later the council of ambassadors, meeting in Paris, resolved that since Poland had agreed to grant the Ukrainians autonomy, it recognized the present Polish boundaries to include Galicia.

Poland Blames Politics.

Polish statesmen say that the chaos of Polish party politics, one cabinet quickly succeeding another and making consistent government policies impossible, interfered with the autonomy project. The law passed by parliament was never signed by the president and so did not come into force.

Attempting to put pressure upon the Warsaw government, a patriotic society, calling itself the Ukrainian Military organization, took the law into its hands and began a terrorist campaign. There were a number of bomb throwings, incendiary fires, attacks on government officials and wire cuttings.

Government officials said that finally matters got beyond control. The Warsaw government last November sent armed detachments of police and cavalry into the villages to punish those believed responsible for the sabotage.

Bishops Tell of Campaign.

I interviewed two bishops about the pacification campaign. Both of them had toured the villages for weeks, following in the wake of the police and cavalry. They said that police preceded the punitive expeditions, forbidding the inhabitants to leave their villages. When the expedition arrived, they said, the population was forced to provide food and forage without compensation and then various men, in some cases Greek Catholic priests and school teachers, were seized and beaten with straps, the butts of rifles and ramrods. The two bishops took more than two hundred photographs showing the victims and the havoc caused by the troops in their searches for hidden arms.

"According to our investigations about 1,000 villages were 'pacified' and 2,000 police and 4,000 Uhlans [cavalry] and soldiers participated in the campaign," one bishop declared. "They had lists of various inhabitants compiled by spies and provocateurs and the number of people beaten and the amount of property destroyed was enormous. I visited one village where three-fourths of the straw roofs had been torn away and destroyed in the search for arms.

Doctors Forbidden to Give Aid.

"Ikons and holy pictures were ripped to pieces, upholstered furniture was ruined, kerosene was dumped into wells, jam was smeared on the walls, foodstuffs were destroyed. I saw one village where every feather mattress and pillow had been ripped open and it looked as though a snowstorm had just passed. Polish and Jewish doctors were forbidden to give the beaten aid and some died from gangrene developing in their wounds.

"In another village a school teacher was taken from school and given 200 strokes with a whip on his naked body before the inhabitants. Now he refuses to teach school. He is ashamed to face his pupils. A priest was partly disrobed and thrown to the ground, where his hands were pinned to the earth by bayonets and soldiers sat on his feet while he was clubbed with the butt end of rifles. I visited him in his home a few days later and it was an awful picture of ruin. Everything had been destroyed and broken, there was not a dish to eat from, not a pot to cook in."

Finds Mother a Victim.

Bishop Nicetas Budka, fifteen years head of the Ukrainian Greek Catholic church of Canada, who was transferred back to Galicia, told me how, hearing of the "pacification measures," he immediately went to the village where his invalid mother had been bedridden for two years. He found her sleeping on the floor in the remnants of her bed clothing. She had been tossed from bed by the soldiers, who ripped it to pieces searching for arms.

Another outrage which particularly incensed the peasants, according to the bishop, was the destruction of every Ukrainian national costume found in some villages. These costumes take years to make and consist of pieces of home woven lace intersecting intricate designs in cross-stitch. Ukrainian books were destroyed and the soldiers, where they found the home of suspect with a tin roof, tore it off and pierced it with their bayonets. Ukrainian coöperative buildings were gutted.

MAXIE EISEN SEES INSIDE OF CELL ONCE MORE

Maxie Eisen, 47 years old, 657 Fulton street, business agent of the Fish Dealers association, arrested often for what the police term his racketeering proclivities, was arrested again yesterday. Sergt. Walter Miller of the detective bureau seized him in the neighborhood of his fish market, took him to the detective bureau, placed him in a cell, and announced he would be charged, again, with disorderly conduct.

Vagrancy charges against Eisen as one of the "public enemies," were dismissed last Wednesday when the police said they were unable to prove that he had not been engaged in a lawful enterprise.

Vagrancy charges against Joseph (Pepe) Genaro, Capone gangster and public enemy, were nolle prossed by the state yesterday when he was arraigned before Judge Justin F. McCarthy in South State street court. Assistant State's Attorney James Brown, who made the motion for the state, said he had no evidence.

DEATH REMAINS A MYSTERY.

A coroner's jury yesterday was unable to determine whether the death of Alex Polino, 53 years old, 7251 South Lincoln street, was due to accident or murder. His body was found in the back yard of his home, and near it a revolver from which two bullets had been fired into his head.

NOISE

ANTIQUATED

Electrolux has made noisy refrigerators as hopelessly out of date as the old-time hansom cabs.

Electrolux makes pure, sparkling ice cubes, constant steady cold—but never a whisper of sound

AN automatic refrigerator may be new and shiny to look at. But listen to it. If it makes a sound, it's as hopelessly out of date as a hansom cab.

Electrolux is the one automatic refrigerator that can't make noise, because it has no moving parts to create noise. Silent when you buy it, Electrolux remains silent forever after.

This marvelous simplicity of operation is the reason Electrolux is entirely free from friction, vibration and wear. And it is also the reason why there is no alternate stopping and starting . . . just constant, steady cold, and an abundance of ice cubes.

A tiny gas flame and a tiny flow of water take the place of all machinery in Electrolux. They act on a liquid refrigerant which is hermetically sealed in rigid steel. The refrigerant is ordinary ammonia, little stronger than household ammonia. The tiny gas flame is completely protected by an automatic shut-off.

Yet with all these advantages, the cost of operating an Electrolux is less than the cost of buying ice—never more than a few cents a day.

The installation of Electrolux is a very simple matter. Connections for gas and water are through flexible copper tubing, and are quickly and easily made for you by your gas company. And should you ever need service on Electrolux, you get the prompt, efficient kind of service for which your gas company is famous.

This refrigerator is rapidly becoming standard equipment in the finest homes and apartments (over 140,000 already installed), and is chosen on its merits by the leading architects and builders.

Whatever you do, see Electrolux at your gas company's showrooms before you buy any automatic refrigerator. It comes in 10 household models, ranging from 3 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity. Despite its many advantages, Electrolux prices are no higher. For complete illustrated information by mail, write us or phone Wabash 6000.

COSTS LESS TO OPERATE

Electrolux is the world's most economical refrigerator. It operates for only a few cents a day—less than the cost of ice—less than any other automatic refrigerator.

FIRE PLOT FATAL TO 2 CHILDREN BARED IN COURT

Jack Rosow, 41 years old, took the witness stand yesterday in Judge Joseph Sabath's Criminal court and related how he and three other men conspired to set fire to a butcher shop at 2849 North Kedzie avenue. The fire resulted in the deaths of two small children. Rosow last week pleaded guilty and yesterday he turned state's witness and told of the entire plot.

MRS. ROSE CITRO. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Rosow was testifying against two of the other defendants, who have pleaded not guilty, although waiving a jury and submitting the case to Judge Sabath.

Two Now on Trial.

The men on trial are Harry Goldvarg, owner of the shop, and Jacob Tatelman, owner of a restaurant on Roosevelt road, who is accused of being the actual torch. Louis Footlik, owner of a fixture store, who was interested in Goldvarg's shop, is also a co-defendant but has been granted a separate trial. Martin Borad, a youth who drove the car for Tatelman, is also a co-defendant and is to be a state's witness today. He, however, is considered by the prosecutors as more of a dupe than an actual participant in the conspiracy.

"I worked for Tatelman as a waiter," testified Rosow. "He threatened me if I did not go along with him.

"The first time we saw Goldvarg about the fire he did not have the money. Tatelman told him if he had no money he could not have a fire. Tatelman wanted $500. A few weeks later Goldvarg telephoned that he had the money and we went up to the store and took along a five gallon can of gasoline. Papers were spread and the gasoline sprinkled around. Goldvarg then paid over to Tatelman $150 in cash and a note for $50. The price was cut after some haggling between the two men. I was given the note."

No Thought of Others.

Rosow said that no investigation was made by any of the men as to whether any one lived in the building or was likely to be hurt by a fire. He said that the first knowledge he had that any one was killed was the day following the fire, Dec. 30, 1930, when he picked up a paper and saw that the two small children of Mrs. Dora Israelson were killed in the explosion."

Mrs. Israelson was on the stand earlier and told of the fire in which her children perished. Mrs. Rose Citro, 3657 North Troy street, testified she was refused admittance to the shop ten minutes before the fire started. Several firemen and policemen also testified concerning the blaze.

PROPOSES SCRIP TO PAY WAGES OF COUNTY WORKERS

Payment of county employes with scrip in lieu of cash after May 1 was proposed by Michael J. O'Connor, assistant county controller, yesterday after several county officials had conferred over the week-end at West Baden, Ind., concerning the county's financial problems.

Those participating in the conference, Emmett Wheelan, president of the county board; Commissioner Maurice F. Kavanagh, County Treasurer Joseph McDonough, and his attorney, Thomas D. Nash, agreed, according to Mr. O'Connor, that the use of scrip will be the only alternative to the sale of 1931 tax anticipation warrants, which so far the Chicago bankers have refused to buy.

Mr. O'Connor said the scrip would bear 6 per cent interest. It would be necessary for employes to discount the paper at the banks.

Members of the city police and fire forces yesterday still were awaiting their checks, due last Friday, pending receipt of a $1,000,000 tax warrant sent to Mayor Cermak at Miami Beach, Fla., for his signature.

DRINKS ANYTHING WITH ALCOHOL IN IT, WIFE CHARGES

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Helen F. Gorey of Brooklyn informed Magistrate Edward I. Walsh in the Flatbush court, Brooklyn, today that her husband, Paul J. Gorey, an automobile salesman, drank everything which even resembled alcohol in their home, bought food on credit and swapped it for liquor and lost job after job.

She produced two bottles and laid them before the judge. One was marked nail polish, the other almond lotion. Mrs. Gorey told the court her husband had been drunk constantly since last July except about five weeks.

BELGIUM TO GRIND UP 140,000 TONS OF GERMAN MARKS

BRUSSELS, Belgium, April 20.—(AP)—In the presence of representatives of the Reichsbank and the Belgium treasury 140,000 tons of pre-war German marks stored in the vaults of the Belgian National bank are to be destroyed in conformity with the Belgo-German mark settlement concluded two years ago. Every day fifteen tons of marks will be ground into pulp for commercial use. The operation carries out the terms of an agreement concerning disposition of German marks left in Belgium at the end of the world war and subsequently rendered valueless.

Form Group Today to War on Accidents in Factories

Industrial leaders will meet at noon today at the Palmer house to formulate a comprehensive program for the prevention of accidents in manufacturing plants. The meeting was called by Samuel Havens, vice president of the Chicago Safety council. Some two hundred plants, employing more than 110,000 workers, will participate in the program.

Shuler, her 54 year old husband, according to a ruling by Superior Judge Guy Bush today. They sued each other for divorce. Shuler testified he and his wife had accumulated $75,000 during their married life, but that it all is now in his wife's name.

Thousands are now driving lower-priced cars who could profit by owning La Salle

Owners of lower-priced cars are frequently surprised to learn how easily they might own a La Salle. The initial outlay is but little greater than they customarily make. The cost of operation will not be materially different. The service and repair costs are apt to show pronounced savings—certainly they have proved highly economical for thousands of La Salle owners. And the enjoyment of a La Salle can confidently be calculated to cover an unusual span of years. Quite apart, therefore, from the alluring satisfaction of La Salle ownership, we invite you to compare this car strictly on a dollars-and-cents basis. May we give you specific cost figures?

MAYOR WALKER DENIES CHARGES IN 15,000 WORDS

Files Answer to Critics with Roosevelt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, April 20. — [Special.] — Mayor James J. Walker answered his critics today in a 15,000 word document delivered to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt by special messenger. The reply contained a blanket denial of the accusations of city affairs committee, charged at least one of the accusers with red activities, and set forth the record of "constructive accomplishments" of his city administration. It was blunt in spots, bitter at times and through it ran a note of defiance. It concluded with a request that the charges be dismissed.

MAYOR JAMES J. WALKER.

Gov. Roosevelt received the mayor's answer without comment and released it for publication in morning newspapers late this afternoon. It was said authoritatively that any forecast of what the governor would do regarding the charges would be pure speculation, as he would not reach any decision until he had given the reply careful consideration. The governor also refused to comment on the request of the city affairs committee for opportunity to file a rebuttal to the mayor's answer.

Drafts Answer Alone.

The governor received Mayor Walker's defense just 28 days after the city affairs committee's accusations had been forwarded to the New York executive. Mayor Walker refused all outside help in framing his answer.

"The accusations," wrote Mayor Walker, "consist almost entirely of generalities, without specification or detail. Unwarranted and false accusations against my administration as mayor are recklessly made without accompanying data to indicate that such accusations have any foundation in fact.

"An effort has been made by the use of enumerations and headings to make it appear that the petition consists of specific items in substantiation of general charges. Careful study of the text of the petition, however, discloses that almost without exception the items are as vague and indefinite as the general charges which they purport to substantiate."

Attack Two Signers.

Mayor Walker's defense of his administration consists of an answer to each of the ten enumerated accusations, the listing of sixteen "past and present problems," and how they have been handled, an account of the varied activities in which the mayor must take part and a bitter attack on Dr. John Haynes Holmes and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise as signers of the city affairs committee's petition for his removal.

"In considering the source of the charges," wrote Mayor Walker, "it seems to me pertinent that you should know the character of the complainants in their relations to government. . . . The accusations are signed by Holmes and Wise as individuals. To lend a dignity to the charges which their names would not carry they describe themselves as chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the 'city affairs committee.'

"The city affairs committee is nothing more than an annex of the Socialist party, masquerading under a name ingeniously contrived to deceive the public . . . Holmes and Wise are both enrolled Socialists . . . another vice chairman of the committee has been a chronic office seeker under the Socialist emblem . . . the individual who signs himself as chairman on the charges sent to you has been for years a recognized leader in a group of agitators and soviet sympathizers."

Accusations that the mayor had "ignored the shameful conditions existing in the board of standards and appeals" were declared "untrue" and the department's accomplishments listed.

Denies Witnesses in Fear.

Regarding the recalcitrant officials who refused to testify before the grand jury some time ago, the mayor said it was not true that they claimed protection because of fear their testimony might incriminate them.

"Upon advise of a distinguished counsel," said the mayor, "they refused to sign certain illegal waivers. Then your letter came and thereafter each of these men signed what they were advised was a legal waiver, expressing their willingness to testify as to their official conduct in compliance with my instructions, which thoroughly coincided with yours."

Tells of His Activities.

Mayor Walker pointed out his varied activies in answer to charges of failure to be on the job.

"Of the board of estimate and apportionment, between Jan. 1, 1926, and Dec. 31, 1930, there were 216 meetings," wrote the mayor, "and the records show I attended 180. Of the sinking fund commission, between Jan. 1, 1926, and Dec. 31, 1930, there were 109 meetings, of which the records show I attended 81."

The mayor then declared he had affixed his personal signature to 69,988 official documents during that period and that there was not a document unsigned or awaiting disposition in his office.

MOTOR TRAVEL IS HEAVY.

Louisiana, Mo., April 20.—[Special.]—An average of 400 cars a day crossed the Champ Clark bridge over the Mississippi river here last week, the heaviest traffic since the bridge was opened in 1928. The increase is partly due to the large number of motorists who visit the Bagnell dam on U. S. 54, west of here.

WALKER OFFERS TO MATCH PRIVATE LIFE AGAINST HIS CRITICS'

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Saying that it is "time to call out the disinfecting squad" and asking for nothing better than to match his private life "against all the pharisaical composers" of a Republican attack on him, Mayor Walker hit back at the city affairs committee of the National Republican club, which yesterday gave out for publication a report calling on Gov. Roosevelt to remove him.

The G. O. P. report had assailed "the vagaries of his private life" and asserted that he "joked, junketed to race track parties, sat up all night at wild parties, entertained at Hollywood and ignored the city's problems."

Mayor Walker's answer to those charges was the following:

"During the past few weeks, owing to the condition of my health and the necessity for a rest, the manifold requirements of city business and the dignity of my office, I have ignored the unfounded and slanderous personal attacks that have been running in the gossip gazettes. No one was expected to believe them and no one did.

"But when a body that enjoys the respect of us all, like the National Republican club, employs this means of creating internal dissension in the Democratic party, it seems time to call out the disinfecting squad. This committee, with no constructive program, no civic pride, no regard for the fair name of the city, labored and brought forth a shower of sulphuretted hydrogen gas, offensive alike to decent Republicans as well as to Democrats and independents.

"As to my private life, I will match it against all the pharisaical composers of that tirade."

BOY IS KILLED BY EXPLOSION IN HIS HOME

Elmer Ecklund, 14 years old, was killed yesterday afternoon by a terrific explosion in the kitchen of his home at 1224 Melrose street.

The boy was alone in the house at the time. Apparently he had gone into the kitchen, after returning from school, and started to light a gas burner to prepare a lunch. The police assumed that an open jet or a leak had filled the room with gas and that the blast occurred when he struck a match.

Fire followed the explosion and two neighbors, Mildred and Anna Schwartz, 23 and 21 years old respectively, 1226 Melrose street, rushed into the kitchen, smothered the boy's blazing clothing with a blanket, and carried him from the house. Firemen attempted to revive the boy with an inhalator.

BULGAR CABINET QUITS; SEEK ONE OF ALL PARTIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 20.—The entire cabinet handed its resignation to King Boris this afternoon. The king asked Premier Liaptcheff to continue in office until a new government can be formed.

King Boris, while touring the country incognito recently, discovered that the discontent of the people was mainly due to economic reasons. He informed the premier that he wanted the government run on a "broader basis," in which all political parties, including the Democratic opposition, would be represented.

The king has intrusted to Dimitri Malinoff, Democratic leader, the task of forming a coalition government.

BILL TO DESTROY PRIMARY A DRY TRICK—SEARCY

Calls It Plan to Cinch Hoover Delegates.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Springfield, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—Storm signals are fluttering at the statement over the senate's vote to wipe out a popular vote on candidates for nomination for the presidency and for delegates to the national conventions.

GOV. EARL B. SEARCY.

Some Republican leaders tonight denounced the three "coffin nail" actions of last week—the governor's veto of the prohibition repealer, the senate's vote for state income tax and repeal of presidential primaries, and the week bids fair to go down in history as three stinging in a hot controversy.

Senator Earl B. Searcy [Republican, Springfield] announced tonight he would introduce a bill in the senate today to keep intact the direct preferential vote on presidential candidates and on national delegates. Its purpose will be to show that the senate was taken for a ride on the repeal of the presidential primaries.

Will Withdraw Bill.

In the house, Henry Sonnenschein, secretary to Mayor Cermak, said he would withdraw a bill which he introduced in January similar to the senate repealer. He said he asked the reference bureau to prepare him a bill simply moving the state primaries from April to September and had no intention of vitiating a popular vote on national candidates and delegates.

Both Senator James Hamilton Lewis and ex-Senator Charles S. Deneen have assailed the senate bill as "a menace to popular government."

Criticism also is being raised in both parties because the digest of bills prepared by the reference bureau, makes no mention of the meat in the bill—the short clause, in the title, for repeal of section 29, which is the presidential primary.

Control for Minorities.

"I am convinced," said Senator Searcy, "that this bill is an effort by the dry, coached by the anti-saloon league, to make Illinois safe for Hoover. The repeal would stop any other candidate, and several are in the list of possibilities, from putting in his name and giving the people an opportunity to show their sentiments on Hoover and the dry dynasty.

"I am against any measure that puts control in the hands of any vociferous minorities. It would enable the party bosses downstate to hand Hoover a handpicked dry delegation, to put a pronounced dry on the national platform committee and to pick a bone dry national committeeman. It is another step away from the people and from popular voice, another nail in the Republican coffin."

Senator Victor P. Michel [Republican, Peoria] assails the Lantz state income tax bill as "another nail in the coffin" for the Republicans. A warm reception is being prepared for the bill in the house. Leaders say it is as good as dead. Some organizations originally supporting income tax now are reported off it because it provides no offset for taxes paid on general property tax.

Hear from Wage Earners.

"The governor's veto of prohibition repealer was one nail in the coffin," said Senator Michel, "income tax is another nail. Wait until the senators hear from small earners in the cities scattered over the state."

Since the session opened administration men have been urging setting the primaries in August instead of April. Many lawmakers say they favor dog day primaries, because the interval between April primaries and the November election leaves them open too long to touches from organizations peddling tickets to dances and the like, and August primaries will reduce the panhandling.

Some of the state officers are for August primaries, on the theory they want to see what turns up at the June national conventions before determining on candidacies. One theory expressed among Republicans is that Gov. Emmerson, in case he runs for reelection, would prefer to wait until the national conventions are over, the hazard of defeat, always an occupational danger in politics, is regarded as a factor. If the governor should lose, they point out, a lame duck does not carry so much weight at a national convention.

Barr Suggests Way Out.

Meanwhile Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet] suggests one way out would be to change the primary law and place the nomination of state officers in the hands of state conventions composed of delegates elected in the April primaries. One of the early primary laws twenty years or so ago was for delegate conventions.

Abolition of the party circle is involved in the general turmoil. Some Republicans say they want to get rid of it because the Democrats in 1932 would get the advantage of "straight" ballots marked with a cross in the circle. Some Democrats favor the idea, saying the "straights" heretofore have helped the Republicans, and to wipe out the circle would hinder the Republicans from coming back.

A senate subcommittee went to New York and Massachusetts to study the group type of ballot. Senator Barr has a minority report to submit tomorrow in which he says New York and Massachusetts are dissatisfied with their systems.

Urges Preprimary Convention.

"Massachusetts," says Senator Barr's report, "now is agitating the passage of a law providing for a preprimary convention for the nomination of candidates whose names shall go on the primary ballot, stating the fact that certain of them have been nominated by the respective conventions."

"I believe the people of these two states who take part in politics are of the opinion that the abolition of the party circle tends to destroy the party, and that it really makes a double primary election, for the reason that the candidate is required to educate the voter as to the position of his name on the ballot.

"I am of the opinion we are starting at the wrong end by abolishing the party circle. We should first do something to make our ballot shorter, and, second, we should do away with or modify our present primary laws."

HEAR ARGUMENTS ON WOMEN'S 8 HOUR BILL TOMORROW MORNING

Springfield, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—Sitting as a committee of the whole, the state senate will hear arguments for and against the women's eight hour bill Wednesday morning. The industrial affairs committees of both houses have already considered the measure and voted it to the floor of the legislature with a favorable recommendation.

Labor leaders, headed by Miss Agnes Nestor of the women's trade union league, Chicago, believe the bill will pass the assembly this session.

An all inclusive measure, the bill limits the working hours of all females to eight each day and not more than forty-eight per week, with these exceptions: Night telephone operators, who may work ten hours; women employed in canning establishments between May 1 and Oct. 15, ten hours; nurses and secretaries, no limit, and women working during an "extraordinary public emergency."

AUTHOR'S SON AND DAUGHTER OF AN ADMIRAL ELOPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—Defying a parental caveat against marriage because of the youth of the groom, Charles Pechey, 20 year old son of Archibald Pechey, English author, yesterday fled to Gretna Green with Bliss Wemyss, daughter of Admiral Rosslyn E. Wemyss. The couple was married there at sunrise today over the historic anvil in the blacksmith shop.

The bride is 24 years old. Her father gave his consent to the marriage. The groom's father demanded that his son wait until he was of age. Later he changed his mind, saying he would never consent to the marriage.

Gretna Green is famous as the place used for centuries by elopers. Gretna Green marriages are not recognized in England, but are recognized in Scotland, where a simple declaration before a witness constitutes wedlock.

Minnesota Bill Prepares for Modified Dry Laws

St. Paul, Minn., April 20.—(AP)—Reversing its action of last week, the Minnesota house of representatives today passed a bill to make state laws conform with any measure that congress may adopt later to change the legal alcoholic contents of beverages. The vote, 69 to 54, completes legislative action and the bill goes to the governor.

Dried-out cigarettes are cruel to your throat

Remember how harsh and hot its smoke was to your throat; how it choked you and made you cough?

That's what happens when evaporation robs a cigarette of its natural moisture content. And most cigarettes lose their moisture and flavor quickly from the day they leave their factory.

Not so with Camels.

An air-sealed wrapping of moisture-proof Cellophane, called the Humidor Pack, keeps Camels always in mild, factory-fresh condition. That's why they are so delightfully easy on the throat.

Switch to Camels, now, for just a day, then quit them tomorrow—if you can.

BY HENRY WALES.

MOSCOW, March 22.—[By Mail.]—"Watch your steppe," Nicolai Lenin told his chief lieutenants immediately after the revolution, and that's the same order Dictator Stalin is repeating this spring, as the movement toward collectivization of farms becomes active again.

This year collective farms will be run under a new régime, which threatens a potential menace against the whole system. Henceforth, proceeds from the "Kolhoz," as they are called, will be divided among the actual workers who operate the farms, and not in accordance with the number of mouths each peasant has to feed.

Unless the farmer's wife and children work in the fields also, no account will be taken of them, and the bachelor, the ex-hired hand, now employed on a collective, will draw exactly as much as the moujik, who has a wife and five or six children.

Fear Lower Scale of Living.

One result of this measure will be to lower, if that is possible, the scale of living among the peasants by forcing the women to bear their share of the work in the fields with the men, and furthermore it will deal a mortal blow at the government's compulsory schooling project by driving all children capable of handling a rake or hoe onto farms to help earn the living for the family.

It will also render more acute the lack of manufactured goods, as heretofore peasants' wives have spent their spare time, apart from preparing meals, keeping house, etc., in knitting socks, making wrappings to twist around the family legs, weaving birch bark shoes for the men, and even in making coarse cloth for their simple garments. Without these home made articles the moujiks will be forced to rely on the cooperative stores for all their supplies and further accentuate the dearth in these stocks.

Divided Into Four Categories.

Employés of a collective farm are divided into four categories and receive their share of the proceeds according to the wage allocated for these jobs. The highest paid are those who look after live stock, particularly the young ones, and women form a large part in this class. The next grade are operators of mechanized agricultural implements and machinery. The third class are those who use the elbow grease in tilling the soil, and the lowest paid are those who drive wagon transport and do cleanup jobs around the barns and outhouses and cart the feed for the live stock.

Already in the "black earth belt" in the Ukraine, the rich farming region which has earned for the district the title of "the granary of Europe," collectivized farms are springing up everywhere until it is now estimated that 86 per cent of the farms are on this régime. The peasants are reassured by the superintendents of the farms that with sufficient diligence and good crops they will be assured of quotas to enable them to care for their families, but the prudent moujiks are enrolling their wives and children above the age of 14 to participate in the proceeds to make sure.

Farms for Families Only.

Eventually the government expects to make communal farms for families only, so that all the peasants will be on the same basis. Then the single men will be drafted for other work, in mines, factories and other projects in newly opened up areas where living conditions are not conducive to workers with families.

At the end of 1930 nearly 22 per cent of all the peasants in the soviet union were members of "Kolhoz," representing more than five million private farms collectivized. In the three principal grain growing regions the percentage of collective farms is 48, and in the north Caucasus it is 60 per cent.

The state plan of national economy for 1931 provides: "In this year an average of 80 per cent of the peasant farms in the Ukraine (steppe), north Caucasus, lower Volga, and middle Volga must be collectivized. This means liquidation of the kulaks as a class in these regions."

QUAKE JARS DISHES IN NEW YORK STATE AND MASSACHUSETTS

Albany, N. Y., April 20.—(AP)—Upstate New York and part of Massachusetts trembled to earth shocks today. No serious property damage was reported.

The area in which the tremors were felt was not definitely outlined, but they seemed to center about the Albany-Schenectady area.

The earthquake was officially recorded at the Dudley observatory in Albany and at Canisius college in Buffalo.

The opinion was expressed that the shocks followed the St. Lawrence fault through the Hudson and Champlain valleys. Previous quakes have been laid to this fault.

Glens Falls, Syracuse, Rome, and other cities in eastern and central New York felt the tremors distinctly. Reports of cracked walls and broken dishes poured into newspaper offices in Troy, Glens Falls, Albany, Schenectady, and Saratoga Springs.

At Springfield, Mass., furniture on the upper floor of a three story building moved.

YOUTH HELD FOR KIDNAPING BRIDE FIGHTS CHARGES

Will Battle Return to New York.

Madison, Wis., April 20.—(AP)—Harry Hamilton Drill, 20, son of a prominent St. Paul attorney, held under bond with two companions for preliminary hearing on charges of kidnaping his wife, Helen Fisher Drill, 20, co-ed heiress, tonight indicated he would fight extradition to New York, scene of the alleged kidnaping.

The youthful husband, Harold Caldwell, 20, and Elmer Peterson, 27, all of St. Paul, pleaded not guilty when arraigned on complaints sworn by Mrs. Drill. She contended the three seized her in New York last Thursday night and carried her here against her will.

District Attorney Fred Riser said county gave chase when advised of the charges were filed primarily to hold the men until New York authorities decide what action they wish to take. Bail was set at $30,000 each.

Says Marriage Was Forced.

Mrs. Drill signed the complaints in her maiden name, contending that her marriage was illegal since, she said, she was forced to go through the ceremony. She said they were married secretly in 1928 at Northwood, Ia., and that their parents obtained an annulment.

She said she was forced to remarry Drill by threats he would take his own life after he shot and wounded himself on the Minnesota university campus last July. They lived together nine days after the second marriage. Mrs. Drill's father died and she inherited about $160,000. She enrolled last fall at the City college of New York, and again started annulment proceedings.

"I wanted my marriage annuled because Harry was after the money," she said.

Writes for Help on Paper Towel.

An appeal for help, written on a paper towel in the washroom of a La Porte, Ind., filling station, led to the apprehension of the quartet here Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Drill said she had previously left notes in Pougkeepsie and Valparaiso, Ind., both addressed to a friend in New York.

Sheriff Tom MacDonald of La Porte county gave chase when advised of the finding of the note, but was outdistanced. Sheriff MacDonald then notified Sheriff Finn at Madison to watch for the party.

Caldwell told Sheriff Finn that Mrs. Drill's account of the kidnaping in which she said she suffered a bruised eye and a cut on the leg was exaggerated.

"She got into the car willingly as far as I could see," Caldwell said. "She never made an attempt to escape while we were driving out here, although she had a thousand chances."

Drill was uncommunicative regarding the case. He appeared in court attired in a regulation second lieutenant's army uniform and said he holds a commission in the reserve corps.

May Ask Indictment.

New York, April 20.—(AP)—Possibility of seeking the indictment of Harry E. Drill, 20, on a charge of kidnaping his estranged wife, Mrs. Helen Fisher Drill, 20, Wednesday from in front of the apartment where she had been residing, was revealed today.

Robert Boynton, attorney for Mrs. Drill's family, who conferred today with Assistant District Attorney Morris Panger, suggested the indictment as a basis for Drill's extradition from Madison, Wis., where he and Mrs. Drill are reported to be. Mr. Panger declared that if the questioning of any witnesses to the kidnaping which Mr. Boynton might produce warranted an indictment the case will be taken to the grand jury.

HERE is a fruit which perfectly attunes the nerves and digestion to the joy of living. That is why thousands of women — and men — drink Welch's and eat the things they like without a thought. They have no weight worries, because when health is right weight is right.

Welch's is Nature's most delightful tonic-food. Slightly laxative it restores normal functional activities . . . surely and pleasantly. It unstintingly supplies the mineral salts, neutralizing acids and fruit proteins which build up bodily vigor. In Europe they call this "The Grape Cure."

Science and experience enable Welch's to bring you the exact equivalent of fresh vine-ripened grapes, regardless of season, every day throughout the year. It is fruit in the most convenient form. There is no squeezing, no preparing. Welch's is so pure and rich, many prefer to dilute it one-third to one-half water. It is pasteurized grape juice bottled under rigid laboratory control.

Now is the ideal time to put Welch's to the test. Serve it as a breakfast fruit. You'll find it wonderfully delicious! Here is a Spring tonic that will bring you a new surge of life and enthusiasm.

Welch's "by-the-bunch" is now available in the 10c Junior, the new sampler size, conveniently for a single serving. It is the concentrated goodness of one and a quarter bunches of full-ripe Concords. Ask for Welch's at leading fountains, hotels, clubs and restaurants. Include it in your diet for one month—then check results. The pint bottle at 30c is most economical for household use. Mrs. Karl H. Tannenbaum

Welch's to supplement and balance the daily diet enables Mrs. Karl H. Tannenbaum, 200 E. Chestnut Street, wife of a well-known north side physician, to eat the things she likes without fear of overweight.

"I learned to drink and love Welch's when I lived at my home in Baltimore," says this beautiful young matron who is a bridge enthusiast and gracious hostess. "I have kept up the habit since I came to Chicago with my husband, because I know from experience that with the aid of my Welch fruit diet I can remain slender. I always keep a goodly supply in our refrigerator because it is so convenient when guests drop in for a hand of bridge. Served with other fruit juices or with ginger ale it is especially delightful."

TRUTHS FOR THE TIMES.

The head of one of the greatest industries in the world, President Gifford of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, addressing the annual luncheon of the Associated Press yesterday, said:

"I want to reaffirm my faith in the continued progress of our country, in the common sense and ability of its people. In short, I want to reaffirm my faith in American democracy—political, social and economic—and to add that the experiences of this depression have done more to confirm this faith than the experiences of the boom that preceded it. As our industrial development proceeded we have added to political freedom and intellectual freedom, freedom from economic want as one of our democratic objectives. I know that there are right now several million men and women who want to work but are unemployed in this country. But, as bitter a picture as that is, it does not change the fact that our industrial civilization has brought us within sight of a democracy of well being and has crystallized our intention to see it accomplished."

These are not mere glittering generalities. They deal with practical realities, the realities which are fundamental and controlling. It is not easy to keep hold of them in times of depression, but they are there whether we think of them or not. The assertion that this is largely a psychological depression gets mostly a sardonic response from men and women out of work, debtors pressed for funds, producers looking for customers and consumers looking for the wherewithal to buy the commodities they want. Nevertheless, it is true that unnecessary and exaggerated discouragement and vague alarms are playing a costly part in our uncomfortable situation. The appeal for confidence and courage should not be suspected and discounted as it has been. It has the fundamentals behind it and the time is not far off when we shall be ashamed that we ignored them and look back upon our present gloom with some astonishment.

Mr. Gifford said a very true and a very important thing when he compared our present situation with others of similar superficial appearance. "Before machines added to man's ability to produce, the cycles of depression were caused by underproduction. Years came when there was not enough to go around—when people died of cold, hunger and disease in such numbers that the world accepted Malthus' theory. The condition of having people out of work in a country that has more of everything than it needs is, humanly speaking, a vast advance over having people without clothes, food or shelter in a country that has not enough of the essentials to go around. We are going to go forward out of this valley as we have from others before by the democratic road—by the thought and efforts of thousands of intelligent, able people—by the wisdom of the many."

The obvious fact is that we are suffering temporarily from too much, but a man who has eaten too much is not in the state of a man who is starving for lack of food. We are suffering from maladjustments, and maladjustments can and will be adjusted. The United States has securely in its keeping all the essentials of progress and prosperity and will certainly reap their benefits. We have unexhausted natural resources. We have a people of high energy and intelligence to develop and enjoy them. We have an accumulation of capital unequaled in the world today or in the past. We have a magnificent productive industry, well organized and full of initiative. We have free institutions and a natural character capable of protecting and making use of them. We are strong, free, and equipped with unsurpassed means of prosperity and progress.

It is a pity that these controlling facts have so little influence upon the mood of this time. We heard a great deal about them a little while ago when it would have been wiser to have placed them in proper perspective. But if we were encouraged by them to go too fast and too far, that is no reason why we should ignore them now, for they are still truths, truths which will assert themselves and which assure the restoration of our prosperity and the resumption of our progress. No wise man asks any one to close his eyes to any unpleasant facts. It is our business to face them and deal vigorously with them. But to close our eyes, as so many are doing today, to the realities which give courage and confidence and the solid assurance of restoration is surely a deplorable weakness. It sets back the hour of recovery and is unworthy of the American spirit.

MR. CAPONE HAS MUCH TO LEARN.

The state senate has voted to repeal the presidential primary law passed in a special session in 1912. It became effective for the campaign of that year and permitted an expression of the Roosevelt sentiment in the state which otherwise would have been suppressed by the Taft organization. This method of primary election is simple and workable. It presents the candidates for the greatest office in the country and permits the instruction of delegates to the national conventions.

It will strike any one as extraordinarily peculiar that this particular feature of the direct primary system should be selected at this time for repeal in the Illinois legislature. It is free from the defects and faults of the method as applied to the complexity of many candidates for many offices. In an honest revision of the nominating laws it would be the last to come up for reconsideration and in an intelligent handling of the question might be retained for its own worth even if the direct primary were abandoned for every other purpose. Instead of such procedure the senate is found discarding a reasonable and workable feature of direct vote on nominations without any apparent purpose of dealing with the remainder of the system.

This is plain jobbery and the reason for it appears on the surface. The Anti-Saloon league has decided that Mr. Hoover's control of Illinois is not safe if his candidacy must be submitted to popular vote. Gov. Emmerson's veto of the prohibition repeal act indicates how much respect is to be given majority votes in the state when prohibition is involved. It is thought that the presidential primary may cost the prohibitionists the state and make it impossible to deliver it for a renomination in the Republican national convention. Therefore the law must be repealed. No attention will be paid to the real defects of the direct primary system. The bigots intended merely to cut out a section which is free from the notorious faults because it is feared as a preventive of minority control.

Illinois will bear watching from now on. It promises to become a museum piece of moralistic hi-jacking and bootlegging from which Al Capone would be restrained by his conscience.

RECOGNIZE REPUBLICAN SPAIN.

It has been intimated at Washington that our delay in recognizing the republican government in Spain is because of an understanding, how explicit we are not told, that if European governments will wait upon our action in recognizing revolutionary governments in the Americas Washington will practice a similar restraint as to new governments in Europe. The convenience of such an arrangement from our point of view is plain enough, but if the rule exists it should not be so strict as to tie our hands indefinitely or forbid timely action in such exceptional cases as in our opinion involve issues of serious moment.

The Spanish revolution, we think, is such a case. It does not need the reports from various cities of Europe that communist agitators are hurrying to Spain to emphasize the possibilities of an extremist attempt to take over the situation in Spain. The new régime must withstand assault both from the extreme left and the extreme right. Once a revolution has got well under way the difficulty of keeping it within bounds is very great. With the king and aristocracy scuttling out of the country a monarchist reaction is not the immediate or principal danger. Reaction is more likely to work under cover with the left extreme, as it has and to some extent still does in Germany. The hope of constructive reform and the establishment of the conditions of democratic progress depends upon the survival of the republican régime, to which a formal recognition by the United States would undoubtedly contribute at this critical moment.

As for the justification of recognition under the rules of international practice, it would seem to be clear. The republic is not the result of a coup d'état. It has back of it what was virtually a plebiscite, an overwhelming vote of the people which put republicans in office throughout the country. The leaders now in authority are men associated with the democratic or anti-monarchist movement for many years, men who represent serious opinion and are of highly responsible and representative character. Finally they are apparently in adequate control of the functions of the state and there has been an astonishing absence of irresponsible violence. Thus the new régime is able to guarantee order, the chief requisite of formal recognition, and, making due allowance for the possibilities of sporadic agitation and outbreak, we think it is obvious that our government should recognize its authority without delay.

Unquestionably the sentiment of the American people is warmly sympathetic toward the Spanish people's effort to cast off the incubus of an obsolete monarchical system and would take pride in being among the first to welcome the Spanish nation to the sisterhood of free peoples. The French republic, which, because of its propinquity to Spain, might have hesitated, already has recognized the Spanish republic, and we ought not to show less courage and republican spirit.

Editorial of the Day

A CHALLENGE TO THE SOUTH.

[Rochester Herald.]

Four newspaper columns of words from the pen of Chairman Raskob of the Democratic national committee cannot conceal the one main object he has in mind—namely: to commit the Democratic party so plainly and unalterably to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment that no escape will be possible when it comes to naming a presidential candidate next year. To do this he is willing not only to ignore the dry sentiment of the Democratic south but even to cut loose from the south if necessary to advance the wet program to which he is almost fanatically devoted.

What other construction can be placed upon that portion of his letter in which he says that if the wet groups in the north cannot reconcile their views to the dry sentiment in the south "we must squarely face the fact that our party is really divided into two parties"? He leaves no doubt as to which of those two parties he pledges himself, nor of his confidence that it will control the writing of the next national Democratic platform.

If southern tempers have retained their traditional warmth, Mr. Raskob's defiance of the dry vote in the south will be accepted as a gage of battle. Instead of closing the breach between the two sections, Chairman Raskob has widened it. Previously there has been at least a gesture of compromise in the knowledge that it was the defection of the south that hurt most deeply in the election of 1928 and that a similar defection next year will be fatal to Democratic prospects.

Now, however, so far as Chairman Raskob is concerned, there will be no more compromise. The south is bluntly warned to get in on Mr. Raskob's repeal program or get out of the party. It can hardly fail to see what has been obvious for some time—that Mr. Raskob is a wet first and a Democrat second.

FEEDING FINICKY CHILDREN.

MOST of the children who have finicky appetites are of the linear build. Drs. W. P. Lucas and H. B. Pryor, in studying 11s such children, found four-fifths of the number of this type. This is the child with the narrow type of body—narrow shoulders, chest, abdomen, and hips. The trunk has something of an hour glass shape. They are generally tall, but not always.

When a poor eater is found to be of this body build, Drs. Lucas and Pryor advocate dieting him. Especially are they of this opinion when the child, in addition to being narrow and long, and having a finicky appetite, is found to have the constipation habit, to tire easily, and to become irritable. Such children are usually quick, energetic, overactive and "on edge."

In this study of a considerable group it was found that most of them had basal metabolism which was too high. Most physicians would use still another term in classifying such children, calling them thyroid. When a child is found to be in this class, Drs. Lucas and Pryor say he should be dieted. Their main item of advice is to give no high fat foods. They withdraw milk and cream, and they soft pedal cod liver oil, bacon, sardines, olive oil, gravy, and salad dressings.

The allowance of milk per day is reduced by one quart. In place thereof they give one quart of fruit juice or its equivalent. They oppose giving coarse foods, or foods which leave much residue. This means that they squeeze the juice from fruits and discard the pulp. They do not allow fruit rinds or cores. Instead of giving coarse vegetables they give strained vegetable soups or, if vegetables are given, they are well puréed. Considerable vegetables, given one way or another, are required to equal one quart of fruit juice daily.

In addition, such children are not stimulated to play. At least, they are not encouraged to engage in hard, competitive plays. They should have plenty of rest. Measures of relaxation are promoted. The daily nap should be continued as long as possible.

TYPHOID FEVER.

N. R. writes:

1. How does paratyphoid differ from ordinary typhoid?
2. How should a person with paratyphoid be dieted?
3. Is the nursing care the same as that for typhoid?

REPLY.

1. It is caused by one of the paratyphoid bacilli. These are akin to typhoid bacilli but differ from them somewhat. The course of paratyphoid may be very similar to that of typhoid. However, some cases have not much more than diarrhea and vomiting. In others the fever lacks the regularity of typhoid. There is not the same danger of hemorrhage. The diagnosis is generally made by a Widal test and a bacterial blood culture.
2. In those cases where the symptoms are much like those of typhoid, the diet should be the modern typhoid diet. This is much more liberal than the typhoid diet of twenty years ago.
3. About the same.

SHOULD IMPROVE MORE.

Mrs. M. L. R. writes: I am a woman of thirty years and am a victim of infantile paralysis. I used the poison dope for medicine. I have been unable to do anything for nearly a year. My hands are O. K. again, and I can now move my toes and feet up and down slightly. I can walk only when I hold on, to something. Do you think I will ever get my balance back and be able to get around again? I have improved some this year, but it is awfully slow. Please tell me just what you think of this terrible paralysis.

REPLY.

You should continue to improve. Keep up your present treatment. Your new nerves and muscles should be trained. Congratulations.

A MINOR'S DEBT.

Kenilworth, Ill., April 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can I recover a substantial sum of money from a fee ($150) which my brother, at that time a minor, paid in cash for a training course at a Milwaukee trade school? I loaned him the above amount, but he made the arrangements regarding his enrollment. His trade as a baker prevented him from attending classes at night and he was only able to go there a few times. Later he was out of work for some time and came to Illinois. He is without funds and unable to attend classes any more. Being otherwise indebted to me, he would be glad to recover part of the money. Is it possible to get a part refund? Does he need a lawyer? E. R.

It would seem simpler for him to recover the money in his own right. He is entitled to do this on the ground of minority, unless he has ratified the contract since coming of age. We would advise the employment of a lawyer.

"FORTY PLUS" CLUB.

Chicago, April 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been requested to become a member of a club called "Forty Plus." It is the intention of its members to invite all who are over forty years old to join. Its purpose is just to offset the idea of concerns that will not employ any help over forty years old and who are dismissing these employés. When any of its members enter a shop or store to make a purchase, they simply demand that a salesman of mature age wait upon them. If they have none the club member leaves the store and makes his or her purchase elsewhere. Is this against the law and would it be collusion or conspiracy? The most substantial buyer is the family man when forty or over. H. C. H.

We see no legal objection.

DOGGONE IT, WHERE'S A FELLER TO GO?

Our paternal government says it will protect all American citizens in Nicaragua if they will immediately get up and beat it for Ohio, Pennsylvania, or—well, there's forty-six other places where the state department thinks it can guarantee reasonable assurance to Americans that they can keep on living awhile. But that is as may be. We don't deny Nicaragua seems to be most unhealthful for Americans, but up here there's racketeers, kidnapers, bomb throwers, quick shooting dry agents, bandits, rum runners, and what not. The insurrectos (or bandits, as Washington plaintively insists they be called) down in Nicaragua have chased all the gringoes to the coast and are shooting 'em full of lead as fast as they show themselves. But, on the other hand, life is full of perplexities here within the borders of our glorious country. And while the insurrectos (excuse it, please, bandits) in Nicaragua are real bad hombres with a talent for shooting straight, look at the things that are liable to afflict you up here in the land of the free. And if the kidnapers and racketeers don't get you the hit and run drivers will. All together, for us Americans, life seems to get more complex every day. The American exiles in Nicaragua may yearn and yearn to get back home again; but, ah, the old home hain't what it used to be.

ETHELYN BRYANT CHAPMAN.

HERE IT IS APRIL, and down in old Indiana, on the banks of the Wabash, Sunday, the ground was purple with violets and the peach and apple and red bud trees were bursting with blooms. And now the weather man says put your old red flannels on again because a heavy snowstorm is on its way here from points west. What kind of year is this 1931 anyhow? Huh?

AND NOW the new Spanish republic threatens to sue Alfonso Bourbon for grafting. When royalty falls it falls hard. Next thing they'll say he plays the saxophone.

"I WOULD like to meet them eye to eye," says Mayor Jimmy Walker of his critics, "and let them attempt to justify themselves before God and man." If Jimmy remains thus dramatic his critics are liable to chase him all up and down Broadway. But if he starts making wisecracks and telling stories again the critics will have to jump off the Battery and swim for their lives.

CHOICE.

Somehow I think, from the very beginning, I knew
That love such as ours couldn't last, as the smaller loves do.
Love can be glowing coals, nor even burn higher.
Or it can be a blaze that sets all a world afire.
Our love was a flame that consumed, and flames burn fast.
Only the dull gray ashes are left, at last.
Yet, I had rather the flame for an hour to know

LAGNIAPPE.

AND THESE ARE the bitter days when father slips on a piece of soap coming down the hall after he's spoken his mind after stumbling over the bundle of clothes ready to be sent to the cleaners. And father falls with great violence and bumps his head against the door. And then he looks out the window into the back yard and sees a saddle colored man lamming the front room rug with his favorite mashie. Who started this house cleaning thing anyhow?

THE REAL REASON (if you've got to be snooty and find out everything) why the males wanted woman to have her rights and vote and serve on juries and join athletic clubs was so she would be too busy to do any more house cleaning. But look at 'em—house cleaning is more horrible than ever because now it's got to be done quicker so they can scurry out to do the other things. What's the use?

HOUSE CLEANING is a deep fundamental instinct in women. It's something they learned in the stone age, or maybe before that. It's no use trying to make women reform. They're going to clean house every spring and nothing is going to stop 'em. Men, it's a tough world! R. H. L.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Col. Roosevelt, in his first day's testimony in defense of the charge of libel lodged against him by William Barnes Jr., charged among other things: That while the colonel was governor of New York [1899 and 1900] Mr. Barnes approached him and objected to the franchise tax bills because certain business men of great power in New York would be adversely affected; that he had told Mr. Barnes that any corporations or individuals expecting protection as a reward for their contributions would "get left" while he was governor; that Mr. Barnes had told him the people were not fit to govern themselves, but had to be governed by party organizations, and that you couldn't have organizations or leaders without money.

WASHINGTON.—The disclosure that President Wilson again has been giving consideration to the question of offering mediation to the belligerents, followed by the receipt of dispatches from Rome reporting indications of "the conclusion of a general peace in Europe at a not distant date," set administration and diplomatic circles humming with excitement.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex.—A United States army biplane, flying over Fort Brown near here, was fired upon this afternoon by Carranza soldiers in Matamoras. The biplane was not struck, but one bullet hit the army wireless station at Fort Brown and another was picked up near the city hall here.

PARIS.—Reims again is the target of the German gunners. Today's attack apparently was with the intention of burning the city. Fifty incendiary shells were dropped, according to the official war report, but no mention is made of the damage done.

CHICAGO.—Storm and flood in the Ohio river valley have already caused serious loss of life and property and it is feared grave disaster will follow. Heavy snows throughout the entire section, added to the enormous rainfall of the last week, have swelled many streams in Ohio, western Pennsylvania, Kentucky, and West Virginia out of their banks. Several cities are under water. Cold is adding to the suffering of residents, who have fled in panic. The temperature is below freezing in Kentucky. Telegraph and telephone wires are down in all directions, cutting off communication with the east.

PITTSBURGH.—After two weeks' personal inspection of eastern traction methods, Mayor Harrison expects to arrive in Chicago today to begin actively his third term as mayor. He stated that Fire Chief Swenie is more likely to be replaced in his new cabinet than is Chief of Police Kipley. He declared that the underground trolley is practicable for Chicago and that a subway such as Boston's can and should be constructed to relieve the congestion in the downtown district.

CHICAGO.—Smoke Inspector Schubert has sent a constable with a summons to President Harper of the University of Chicago to serve notice of the beginning of two actions by the city against university authorities for alleged violation of the smoke ordinance. The buildings complained about are Snell hall and Cobb hall.

MANILA.—Aguinaldo has been removed from Malacanang palace to a private residence at 56 Solano street. The guard placed over him has been modified.

NEW YORK.—Nearly 7,000 immigrants landed at Castle Garden within the last 24 hours, three-quarters of whom were Germans. The immigration this year so far is about 25,000 more than during 1880 up to the same period.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—A dispatch has been received at military headquarters here saying that on April 30 lodges of Maricopa Sioux Indians surrendered at Fort Keogh. These lodges have been on their way to the fort for some time from the Red Water. While not being connected with Sitting Bull's band, they have been classed as allies. It is thought Sitting Bull will come in as soon as the floods are over.

MADRID.—The insurgent natives of the Sooloo Isles attempted to surprise the Spanish fortresses, but were repulsed with a loss of 100 killed.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

NORDICS, ALL.

Chicago, April 12.—The so-called Swedes, so-called Norwegians, and so-called Danes are all of one race and their right name is Scandinavians, or Nordics, from the northland. You can easily see the Nordic blood in Ireland and England; you find it all over Europe and also in America, even among the Jews here and there. I am a full blooded Nordic, but do not think that I am better than the rest of the people I live among, but only just as good. So it does not really matter where you came from or in what country your forefathers were born as long as you are a good citizen, something that your country in which you live can be proud of, and do not try to take all the credit for yourself and your ancestors for things that you never could do.

We have outside of Norwegians such great men as Marconi, Columbus, Luther, Napoleon, Lincoln, Roosevelt, and several others who have lived in the past as well as at present, great men, that we all can be proud of. Every country has given the world some great personalities, including Norway, which has given us the well known person, Mr. Andrew Volstead. I suggest a statue for Mr. Volstead on the outer drive and as close to the lake as possible, so that the lake, when mad, can show Mr. Volstead that he is all wrong, make him a wet, and thereby show Leif Ericson what a Norwegian turned out to be in the country that he discovered, a country where we wish freedom as he so wished. IVAN O. ROSENQUIST.

TWO MILLION ANCESTORS.

Glencoe, Ill., April 13.—Welles' genealogy traces Washington's family as follows: In Norway, 735-900; in the Orkney islands, 900-1020; in England, 1020-1659; In America, 1659-1799.

The English people themselves, to use Tennyson's language, "are derived from Norsemen, Saxon, and Dane." That Washington probably had Norse blood is not remarkable. But consider the generations that intervened, with two ancestors to the first generation, four to the second, and so on, before the family traces back to residence in the Orkneys and their Norwegian settlers—say 28 generations, making well over 2,000,000 ancestors. Of what actual racial blood Washington's ancestors were, except that they resided in England and America, no one can say. The family lived in America several generations and the only thing we can say with certainty is that he was a product of the American scene. R. P. SIMMS.

REFERRED TO MACARTY.

Chicago, April 13.—The interesting discovery that the founder of the Washington line was Wessing, a Swedish farmer, should be interesting news to Macarty. Perhaps he can throw some light on this interesting historical subject. Isn't it rather strange that these facts are verifiable in England but not in America? GEORGE EDWARD LEE.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT FUND.

Chicago, April 11.—This morning's TRIBUNE has a letter signed R. V. W., asking what has been done with the $1,500,000 charity fund collected by the governor's commission. Statements have been published from time to time showing receipts and disbursements of this fund. The papers of March 20 and March 21 had statements showing total receipts as of March 25, $4,385,903 and disbursements of $3,063,576, leaving a balance of $1,322,329. Since that date we have received $180,422 and have expended $396,357, leaving a balance of $1,077,312.

All of this money has been and still is being expended through established family relief and other charitable organizations. None of this money is being expended by the commission itself. More than 70,000 families received relief in the month of March through agencies coöperating with the commission and, while the number needing relief has now begun to decline, it is certain that a great deal of extra relief will be needed for several months. Expenditures for the last month amounted to nearly $900,000. FRANK D. LOOMIS,
Secretary Budget Committee, Governor's Commission on Unemployment and Relief.

A JOB FOR ALFONSO.

Kokomo, Ind., April 16.—When we consider the character of legislation and executive and judicial administration this country has endured for the last ten or fifteen years we are inclined to believe it would be a splendid thing to do if we would send for that Spanish king who is now out of a job and place him in the White House with absolute power to act. He could not make a worse mess than we have and he might make some improvement. KOKOMO.

GARFIELD PARK TENNIS COURTS.

Chicago, April 16.—Last summer in this column there appeared a letter by President James of the West Chicago park board promising faithfully to have the tennis courts of Garfield park completely repaired, so that they would be in a half decent condition this year. While men have been working on the golf course all year, not a thing has been done to put the tennis courts in suitable playing condition. TENNIS FAN.

HUNDREDS PRAY, BUT BRITAIN WINS SUNDAY MOVIES

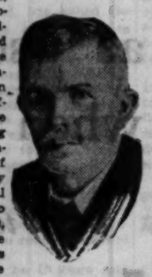
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—In the face of a terrific onslaught by Sabbatarians, church leaders, and Sunday observance crusaders, the second reading of the Sunday performances regulation bill, which, in effect, legalizes the Sunday opening of movies and other places of amusement by empowering local authorities to grant licenses, passed in the house of commons tonight by a vote of 258 to 210.



J. R. CLYNES. [Tribune Foreign News Photo.]

The bill is a sequel to a recent high court decision declaring the opening of moving picture theaters on Sunday illegal under a blue law of 1780. Since the introduction of the bill by the government an intense campaign has been raging. Members of parliament have been bombarded with petitions and postcards against and for the measure. The opposition climaxed its activities with unprecedented scenes outside the houses of parliament tonight. Fifteen hundred persons, chiefly women, marched across Parliament square, chanting, "They shall not change the law. They shall not change the law."

Pray on Sidewalks.

White bearded men knelt on the sidewalks surrounding the house, praying that the bill might be defeated. The house was literally barricaded with prayer. Hundreds of persons attempted to walk through the gates into the palace yard, but were pushed back by police. They then demanded entry into the house itself, but were informed there were no accommodations inside. So hundreds of women again took up the chant of "They shall not change the law."

Inside the house the fight was proceeding with fervent and heated speeches from both sides. Home Secretary J. R. Clynes, who introduced the bill, declared that the existing law must either be modified or enforced, and that it was the duty of the house to harmonize the law with the mass of opinion generally.

Rejection of the measure was moved by J. I. MacPherson, former Liberal minister, who described it as "vicious, reprehensible and contemptible."

"Americanization" Assailed.

Sir John Simon supported the bill, as did Neville Chamberlain.

One of the most passionate speeches against Sunday opening was that of the Rev. Gordon Lang, Labor member from Oldham. He wanted to keep for one day in the week "the young people from the reeking jazz and abominable Americanization that surrounds them the other six days."

It was revealed by other speakers that 500,000 people attended Sunday movies and in London alone $1,000,000 a year was contributed to hospitals from Sunday movies.

Write a slogan for free wheeling $10,000.00 in cash prizes

Here's a contest that's going to give you the thrill of your life whether you win a prize or not. It's going to thrill you because it's going to introduce you to Free Wheeling—the most sensational advancement in automobile engineering since the electric starter.

You're going to learn that there's new zest, pleasure and fascination in motoring—new-found economy and safety.

For, of course, in order to win one of the 1072 cash prizes in this $10,000.00 Free Wheeling Slogan Contest, you will first want to go Free Wheeling. You will want to find out from actual driving experience what Free Wheeling is and what it does.

PIERCE-ARROW LINCOLN STUDEBAKER HUPMOBILE

alone offer you Free Wheeling with positive gear control

Since its introduction last July, Free Wheeling has eclipsed all the other motor car improvements of the past twenty years. It is acknowledged today as the greatest forward step since the electric starter.

For the first time in the history of the automobile, car momentum, hitherto wasted, is harnessed and put to work.

Every time you take your foot off the throttle in a conventional car your motor fights your car. Your motor should pull the car, and not be pushed by it.

The instant you lift your foot from the throttle of a Free Wheeling Pierce-Arrow, Lincoln, Studebaker or Hupmobile, the engine drops to idling speed but the car glides smoothly ahead—propelled by momentum without engine drag.

You ride on momentum but the car is always in gear and under complete control. You travel five speedometer miles for four engine miles—save 15% to 20% on gasoline and oil. Chassis strain is cut down—repair costs are reduced.

No other car is so easy to drive as a Free Wheeling Pierce-Arrow, Lincoln, Studebaker or Hupmobile. There is less to do and less to worry about.

You shift back and forth between high and second—even when traveling rapidly—without touching the clutch. The full braking power of your engine can be utilized even more readily than in a conventional car.

You are safer with Free Wheeling. Traffic officials from one end of the country to the other have tested Free Wheeling with positive gear control and pronounce it a new measure of safety to driver and public.

Even if you are only thinking about a new car, remember that Free Wheeling owns the future. Look ahead. Ask yourself: How new is any "new car" without Free Wheeling? How much will it re-sell for a year or two from now?

Don't miss this opportunity of learning all about Free Wheeling—the sensational improvement that is making every car of the old order out of date.

BANDITS CAPTURE THREE CHICAGO MISSIONARIES

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

PEIPING, April 20.—Three Chicago missionaries, connected with the Swedish Lutheran mission, were captured by communist bandits near Kingchow, Hupeh province, on April 17 and are being held for ransom. They are Miss Esther Nordlund, 5255 North Sawyer avenue, and Oscar Anderson of the Mission Covenant church."

News of their capture coincided with the return today of the Rev. Christopher Tevdt of St. Paul, who was released yesterday by the communists on the payment of $10,000 Mexican and $5,000 worth of medical supplies. The Rev. Mr. Tevdt was captured with Bert Nelson of Minneapolis Oct. 5 last. Nelson is still a prisoner. Ten thousand dollars in ransom is demanded for his freedom.

Return Body of Slain Priest.

The mutilated body of the Rev. Maryn Aeons, Belgian priest, captured when bandits pillaged the town of Patung on April 4, was returned to Ichang today. The priest was slain on the day of his capture. Missionaries recovered the body.

It develops that either his wife or the Swedish Alliance mission paid the $2,500 for the release of the Rev. Allie Godfrey Lindholm of Ortonville, Minn., and that Capt. William Mayer of the American army carried the money to the bandits.

FEAR FOR SAFETY.

Concern for the safety of three Chicago missionaries who were reported yesterday to be captives of communist bandits in Hupeh province, China, was expressed by relatives in a telegram sent to the government in Washington last night. The missionaries are Miss Esther Nordlund, Miss Augusta Nelson, and Oscar Anderson of the missionary station at Kingmenchow, governed by the Swedish Covenant society.

"We had a letter this morning from my daughter shortly after we heard the news," said the Rev. V. L. Nordlund, 5255 North Sawyer avenue, "she mentioned nothing of trouble in the region, and gave no hint that any was expected."

Was Born in China.

Miss Nordlund, who is 34 years old, was born in China, where he father was a missionary. She came to Chicago as a child and attended North Park High school and Wheaton college. She returned to China only last year to begin her second term as a missionary.

Miss Nelson, 50 years old, a nurse, had not been heard from by her cousin, the Rev. John Peterson, 5245 North Christiana avenue, for a month, but at that time, he said, she reported the region quiet. She was educated at North Park college and the Swedish Covenant hospittal.

CHANGE IS PROPOSED FOR COUNCIL'S RULES ON WARD BOUNDARIES

Miami Beach, Fla., April 20.—[Special.]—A change in the rules governing the city council to give the power to recommend new boundary lines for Chicago's fifty wards was considered today by the council committee on committees. The committee on judiciary and special assessments had jurisdiction in the old council.

"I believe that the committee on committees is fitted to work out a redistricting plan to equalize the population of the wards," said Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the steering group.

"Each one of the five members of the committee was chosen from a group of ten wards to organize the new council and the men who elected them should have confidence that they will deal fairly in the task of remapping boundary lines."

In slating the members of the new council on the working committees the steering group has definitely settled on Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe [42d] as chairman of the buildings and zoning committee and is tentatively discussing Ald. Frank Landmesser [38th] as chairman of the local industries, streets, and alleys committee.

Pilot O. W. Coyle winged eastward from the Grand Central air terminal here at 3:35 p. m. [P. S. T.] and at 5:40 p. m. [E. S. T.] tomorrow his cargo of 15,000 letters, a bucket of ice cream, and a consignment of photographic prints was scheduled for delivery in New York.

The first westbound consignment of mail on the speeded up schedule was due to reach the Los Angeles terminal about 7:40 a. m. [P. S. T.] tomorrow.

SKIN IS FOUND UNDER NAILS OF MURDERED GIRL

San Diego, Cal., April 20.—[Special.]—Louise Teuber, 17 year old sales girl, whose nude body was found suspended from an oak tree yesterday, fought a desperate battle for life before the blow of a blackjack ended her struggles, a coroner's examination established today.

The examiantion, according to Coroner Chester Gunn, revealed beneath the strangled girl's finger nails several bits of human skin and flesh.

Deputies today brought in a man described as "a water front character," whose face bore several deep scratches. The suspect's name was withheld. He denied acquaintance with the murdered girl. He is held for questioning.

Two notes were sent by Louise shortly before her death, one to her father and the other to her married sister. The notes set forth that Louise left her father's home here Saturday, and intended to go to another city because she was discontented with conditions at home.

OIL MAN'S WIFE WANTS MILLION AND A DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Cal., April 20.—(AP)—A suit for divorce asking division of property valued at $2,000,000 was filed today in Superior court against William H. Dunning, Fort Worth, Tex., and Los Angeles oil operator, by Mrs. Alta P. Dunning.

Mrs. Dunning alleged her husband has spent much time with Jean Elliott Bogart, whose address was given as given Miss Bogart gifts valued at 1160 5th avenue, New York, and had more than $100,000.

On several occasions, the complaint alleged, Dunning had taken Miss Bogart on ocean trips between New York and Baltimore in his yacht.

Mrs. Dunning claimed her husband's fortune was built from $600 which she gave him when they were married in 1917.

COL. SIQUELAND, BANKER, AND HIS WIFE ROBBED

Col. T. A. Siqueland, vice president of the Foreman State National bank, and his wife were held up by two bandits in front of 400 Melrose street, just off Sheridan road, early Sunday morning, it was revealed last night.

They took a diamond barpin valued at $300 from Mrs. Siqueland, and a gold cigar case, valued at $500, from the banker. The cigar case was presented to Col. Siqueland by friends in Denmark during the world war and was treasured as a momento. The Siquelands reside at 2156 Caton street.

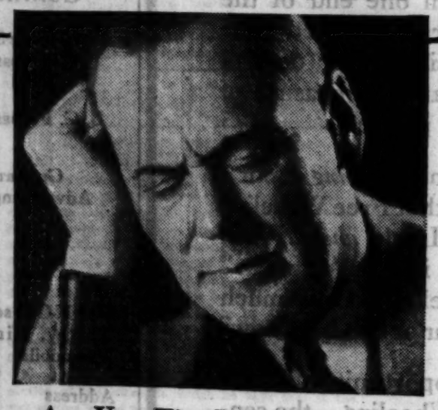
New Way To Drive Poisons From Body

Brings Relief For 29 Common Disorders



HERE is important news for every person. It is important, not only for victims of such dangerous diseases as diabetes, rheumatism, arthritis, neuritis, and high blood pressure. It is vital good news for people who tire easily, who lack resistance to colds and infections, who lack pep and enjoyment of life.

Millions of people realize that weakness, fatigue, and low resistance are caused by dangerous body poisons. But today doctors say that these same millions combat these poisons the wrong way. They resort to cathartics and laxatives, in trying to drive out poisons that are in the blood, beyond the reach of drugs. These poisons can be eliminated only through the kidneys. That is why physicians everywhere are now prescribing a wonderful new water which they call a "kidney laxative." It is known as Sleepy Water.

Two tiny springs, in the neighborhood of Hot Springs, Arkansas, are the only sources of Sleepy Water. Certain natural processes which are not fully understood, cause Sleepy Water to contain certain proportions of valuable minerals and chemical combinations of minerals. These natural alkalines neutralize and absorb the acid poisons which weaken resistance, cause sallowness and muddy complexions, and often cause and aggravate serious ailments like diabetes and rheumatism. By gently soothing and activating the kidneys it speeds elimination of the deadly wastes which canot be reached any other way. Meantime its vital minerals bring additional strength and sturdiness not only to adults but to growing children.

The very first glassful will show you how it works. Are You Tired . . . Nervous Run-Down . . . Do You Have A Muddy Complexion?

Tired, nervous, run-down people suffer not only because they cannot eliminate deadly acid wastes completely, but because they frequently suffer from lack of vital minerals. Here, too, Sleepy Water helps bring new health; it supplies additional minerals, to meet the needs of body cells and vital organs, which are starved for lack of them. Sleepy Water helps children grow sturdy and strong for this reason—fast-growing young bodies often become sickly and frail unless they are supplied with those vital minerals, which are so perfectly combined in Sleepy Water.

SUES RAILROAD FOR CROPS LOST ON SEIZED LAND

Willing to Take Some of Line in Payment.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—(AP)—Robert B. Kelly of Dallas, Tex., an heir of the late W. C. Kelly of Saline county, Missouri, has asked the interstate commerce commission to collect from the Chicago and Alton railroad or its owners the value of 40,000 bushels of corn plus interest. Should he be unable to get a cash settlement he suggests that one-quarter of a mile of the railroad, which is estimated was worth $80,000 a mile, be turned over to him.

The commission, however, has notified Kelly it has no jurisdiction and denied his petition to intervene in the efforts of the Alton company and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company to take over the road purchased at a bankruptcy sale.

W. C. Kelly sold the Chicago and Alton a right of way when it was built in 1877. In 1885 his heir alleges ground was needed for a passing track and a cleared field was cut into without payment.

A flood and loose live stock, Kelly estimated, ruined 10,000 bushels of corn before the damage was repaired. He estimates 30,000 bushels more would have been raised on the land taken during the period from 1885 to 1931.

Figuring the average price of corn since 1885 at 65 cents a bushel, he estimated the railroad owes the estate $12,350 for 40,000 bushels of corn and compound interest totaling $61,000.

WIFE OF ACTOR WHO NAMED ALICE BRADY IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Detroit, Mich., April 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Bernice McClellan, who named Alice Brady, stage and motion picture actress, as co-respondent, was granted a divorce today from Donald C. McClellan, former actor, by Circuit Judge Arthur Webster. McClellan did not appear to contest the suit.

Mrs. McClellan testified she called her husband by telephone while he was in Nassau, N. Y., and that while she was talking to him, heard a woman exclaim, "Hurry up, darling." She said she recognized the voice as that of Miss Brady.

She also testified to seeing Miss Brady near her husband's dressing room in a New York theater. Shortly after that, she said, her husband told her he had transferred his affections to another woman.

The McClellans were married in 1927. Mrs. McClellan was granted custody of their daughter, but the question of alimony was reserved. At the time the suit was filed Miss Brady denied having other than a professional interest in McClellan.

Today's divorce was granted on grounds of desertion.

ROB 3 IN DRESS SHOP AND TAKE $2,200 CLOTHING

Four robbers, one of whom carried two guns, invaded Stayson's dress shop at 2310 West Madison street last night. They threatened Emil Jacobson, the manager; Rena Schecter, 1823 South Harding avenue, the clerk, and Miss Ida Furthey, 49 North Hoyne avenue, a patron. They took $280 from the till, $35 from Miss Schecter, and $38 from Miss Furthey. Then the bandits put their victims in a rear room, and looted the shop of 100 dresses, forty jackets, and seventy-five spring coats, virtually the entire stock. The loot was valued at $2,200.

To the Women of the House

Electricity is Light.

As light, electricity is better known in the homes of Chicago than the sun. It shines for all, and it shines during a full twenty-four-hour day, instead of the short twelve-hour day of the sun.

Electricity is also Power.

Translated into home language, "power" means servant. Whoever or whatever does the work of the home is the servant of the home. If the women of the house do it, they are the servants. If electricity does it, electricity is the servant.

As electricity shines for all, so, also, it will work for all.

For light, electricity is brought from the generating station into every Chicago home by copper wires. The same wires also bring in electricity as the home servant—power.

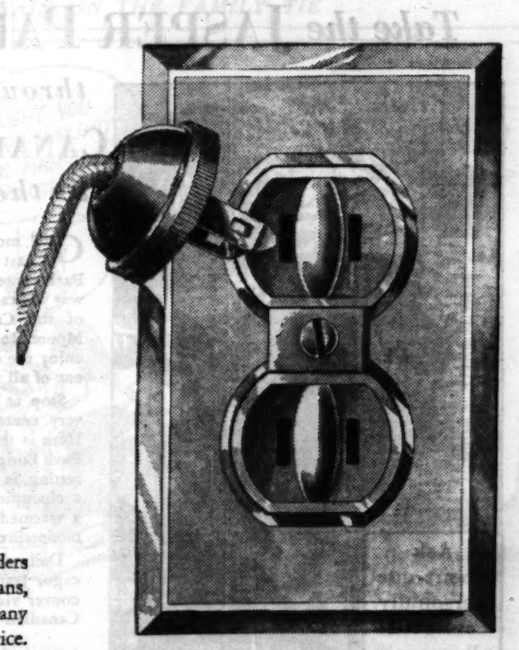
But these wires bring light and power as far as the walls, only.

To serve the home as either light or power, electricity must have outlets.

In most of the earlier-built, and in too many later-built, apartments and houses, architects and builders thought chandeliers or side-wall fixtures were enough. Homemakers now know better. Of course the homemaker can get electricity for power and for floor or table lamps by stringing cords from chandeliers or side-wall fixtures. But what woman of today wants to do that, when there is an easy way to get the convenient use of electricity for light and power. That way is to put at least one electric outlet on every wall of every room.

Electricity is cheap in Chicago.

This Company serves 700,000 homes here, at an average cost per family for both light and power of but eight and one-half cents a day. Additional outlets from the wires already in your walls will give you all the light and power you can use where you want it, when you want it. They can be put in at a low cost, in a short time and without tearing up the place. Read the special offer.



For the convenience of customers, this Company takes orders for outlets, has the work done by responsible electricians, and supervises it. The customer may pay the Company monthly on his light bills. This is an Edison Service.

SPECIAL OFFER:

3 Duplex Electric Outlets in one residence or apartment. $5.75 each

$1.73 down —Balance Monthly

CAN QUIZ JUROR FOR PREJUDICES OF RACE OR CREED

Supreme Court So Rules in Appealed Case.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Since racial and religious prejudices in fact exist, the law cannot ignore them and they are properly subjects on which counsel may question prospective jurors, the United States Supreme court held today in reversing the sentence which would have sent Alfred Scott Aldridge, a Negro, to the electric chair on May 2 for the murder of a white policeman.

The error of the trial judge in denying defense counsel the right to ask jurors whether they would be influenced by racial prejudice was grave enough, the court maintained, to warrant a new trial.

"The argument is advanced on behalf of the government that it would be detrimental to the administration of the law in the courts to allow questions to jurors as to racial or religious prejudices," said Chief Justice Hughes in the opinion he delivered for the court, with the exception of Justice McReynolds, who dissented.

Would Lead to Disrepute.

"We think," the chief justice continued, "that it would be far more injurious to permit it to be thought that persons entertaining disqualifying prejudices were allowed to serve as jurors and that inquiries designed to elicit the fact of disqualification were barred. No surer way could be devised to bring the processes of justice into disrepute.

"We do not think that it can be said that the possibility of such prejudice is so remote as to justify the risk in forbidding the inquiry. And this risk becomes most grave when the issue is of life and death."

In arguing his appeal the Negroe's attorney said a woman juror, a southerner, had admitted that the defendant's color might have influenced her decision.

In his dissenting opinion Justice McReynolds took sharp issue with the majority of the court, asserting that the record of the trial showed no evidence of prejudice, that room for reasonable doubt of Aldridge's guilt had not even been urged.

Fall on Wanamaker Tax.

The Supreme court refused to review an appeal by the internal revenue bureau against the decision of the Court of Appeals holding that the estate of John Wanamaker did not owe the government $10,041,932 additional taxes because of transfer of property to the children.

This Gay Novel of Cinema Has Its Pathos, Too

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"POOR CAROLINE" by Winifred Holtby [McBride] came to us from England trailing clouds of glory from the pens of the outstanding literary critics. One gentleman—in the Daily Herald—said that it was "easily the wittiest novel of the season," and another in the Daily Telegraph, that it was "A delightful book" with "Meredithan humor.

WINIFRED HOLTBY.

"Poor Caroline" reminds me a little of those tales of Octavus Roy Cohen's in which those delightful colored ladies and gentlemen of his had their trials with their moving picture companies. Both "Poor Caroline" and "The Sons and Daughters of I Will Arise" got into strange and wonderful mix-ups over uplifting the cinema.

But "Poor Caroline" is a great deal more than a funny book. It has a sort of undercurrent of the pathos of human life striving to find happiness that lifts any book from the merely humorous into the critical stage of good writing.

The "poor" Caroline who gives the book its title was an old maid of twenty odd who was a trial to all of her relatives, who borrowed money and never repaid it, who was arrogant and laughingly impressive to the world as a grown-up to her pitiful knowledge of things hadn't really ever gone any will for her. In her youth Caroline had hoped to do great things in the world. She had gone to found a school with a woman of whom she was very fond. When things had gone badly with the school and her friend had had a nervous breakdown, Caroline had brought the friend to her home and tended her as she tended no mother.

The young doctor in the community had once kissed Caroline and she had known until the doctor and her friend announced their engagement. Then Caroline's only romance faded. Then she had had a series of unpleasant "vacations" taking care of half-grown young girls, traveling around, seeing life," as she called it. Every one called her "poor Caroline" when the looks of her but Caroline had lied herself into believing that she had had an exciting and thrilling life, so much more stimulating than the lives of her well settled sister and cousins and friends.

Penny, passionately religious, more than a little in love with a young curate who might have been her grandson, but whom she called "Father," herself beloved by nobody on earth, Caroline had a great joy come into her life when, from a letter which she had written to the Churchman's Weekly, adventure with a great A. spent upon her.

Her letter about "Our Scandalous Church" was seen by a buxom lady, who was testing her curling tongs out in furnished rooms, where the power was part of the equipment). The buxom blonde had an indolent husband who was a rector's son and disinherited second cousin of a peer. He also was all that Eton and Christ can produce in the way of elegance. The wife, certain that indolence was bad for her decorative husband, suggested that he start a company to improve the British cinemas with the Christian Cinema company—with the old gal who wrote that letter as a director. It was all a spoof, but out of that spoof seven lives were changed, poor Caroline's most of all, for it death came to hur suddenly it was from life a woman who had barely achieved what was to her happiness of an intense degree.

The situations are farcical, but the farce has a deep humanness about it. "Poor Caroline" is a very light novel, without one moment of heavy handedness about it, and yet there is a certain solid, deep human quality about it.

Miss Holtby has chosen an interesting technique for "Poor Caroline." Between an "Opening Chorus," in which the idea of the Christian Cinema company is born in the mind of Basil Reginald Anthony St. Denis' wife, and the "Final Chorus," where the themes are all rounded out and the loose threads of the seven lives all tied up, there are seven chapters, each devoted to one of the people whose lives were affected by the organization of the company, and they are:

St. Denis, whose charm blossomed under it.

Eleanor de la Roux, who quixotically put every cent of her patrimony into it, not because she believed in the Christian Cinema, but because she wanted poor Caroline to have her prayer answered. Eleanor said to herself: "At least I've taught God his duty by answering one prayer prayed by a faithful Christian. Poor Caroline!" And later on Eleanor de la Roux ironically found a charming love under what looked at first to her like an especially amusing cabbage leaf.

H. :h Angus Macafee, who invented a talking film and sold it to the Christian Cinema company, and through that got snapped up by a great Hollywood magnate and had his future all gold plated.

Roger Aintree Mortimer, who was "Father" to poor Calorine, but embarrassingly beloved by her while love was wracking his soul for her niece, the young Eleanor.

Clifton Roderick Johnson, who dreamed of having an affair with the wife of young St. Denis and won in life's lottery somebody very else again, and who bolted with all of the funds of the company, not wholly to his own happiness.

Finally, Caroline Audrey Denton-Smyth, who was born plain Caroline Smith, and who finally had, as her life ebbed, that one crowded hour (of a few weeks) of glorious life which is worth an age without a name.

"Poor Caroline" is gay, witty, foolery overlaying sound, solid character analysis.

A new edition of "Psyche" by Pierre Louys [Covici Friede], which Louys left unfinished at his death, is published today with notes and a conclusion written by the author's friend, Claude Farrère.

"About the Murder of the Clergyman's Mistress," by Anthony Abbott [Covici Friede], is another Thatcher Colt detective mystery. Don't be misled by the title. The clergyman was murdered, too.

"I have marched with the Foreign Legion—

...but my memories can be had at any bookstore," proudly says Dr. Traprock, celebrated author of "The Cruise of the Kawa" and discoverer of the Para-liva bird and its square egg. The good doctor at last tells all!

MARY GARDEN OFF CIVIC OPERA LIST FOR NEXT SEASON

Mary Garden is not returning to the Chicago Civic Opera company next season. After much discussion pro and con a definite and authoritative agreement would seem to have been reached to that effect. No details have been issued from the opera company other than that the decision was agreeable to both sides.

There was considerable gossip a few weeks ago to the effect that even if Miss Garden did not return as a member of the opera forces, she might take a country-wide tour in "Camille," the opera by the Chicago composer, Hamilton Forrest, which last season was rated as her most recent sensational creation, though receiving no important critical commendation in Chicago and a decisive roasting in Boston. Even this would seem to have gone by the boards, however, and the latest bulletin is to the effect that she will remain in France.

What is to be done with the Garden répertoire has not been decided. At least two of its items are considered to be in safe hands. Claudia Muzio made a striking success last season as Fiora in "L'Amore dei Tre Re," and Conchita Supervia, who is to return to the company next year after an absence of several years, is announced to sing the title part in "Carmen." As to the rest, nothing has as yet been said.

Good Morning!

Here's a British all-talker with plot, sense, and suspense.

The story tells of how a gay, nonchalant, and extraordinarily brainy British officer foils a German plot to blow up the English army at the front. The picture is an adaptation of the novel by Graham Seton which, I understand, rode high, wide, and handsome with the reading public of England.

You will be impressed with the work of Brian Aherne in the principal rôle. He has personality and poise and an insouciance that's intriguing. He's splendidly supported by knowing players.

This picture is, technically, better turned out than is the usual English cinema. The plot thread keeps your interest tied, and Col. Grant's romance with the lovable Rosa Hartmann warms the cockles of your heart.

"By Rocket to the Moon" is a semi-scientific fantasy. It's a combination of farce and fizzle.

So long as the production deals with the rocket, the preparations for its trip to the moon and its journey there with its cargo of adventurers—it's fine. When it lapses into the trashy melodrama that's part of the yarn—it's terrible.

The film will remind you of Jules Verne's stories and Fox's movie "Just Imagine." A rocket is built with, I believe, due regard to the laws of physics—and the rocket reaches the moon. Its crew of explorers includes a stowaway and a woman. The latter causes considerable rumpus.

Several of the air-wayfarers meet death, as how the picture shall show you. Two remain on the moon.

"By Rocket to the Moon" is, in many places, a stunning thing photographically. I didn't think much of the views of Luna as the rocket approaches her, they reminding me of nothing so much as the slides used by lecturers in the "Men Only," and "Woman Only" horrors. But the scenery on the moon is appropriately weird and uncanny, and through the entire production you are impressed by the fact that the man at the camera knew his business.

This flicker is a "silent" with synchronized score and some sound effects. It's about three reels too long. It will probably appeal to folks with an imaginative trend of mind. Others, I'm afraid, will consider it bologney.

See you tomorrow.

Revere and Dawes Ride Again as Cannon Boom

Boston, Mass., April 20.—(AP)—Ringing hoofbeats upon the highways of eastern Massachusetts leading from Boston to Lexington and Concord today stirred historic memories.

It was Patriots' day, and Paul Revere and William Dawes Jr. rode again along the famous route taken by those patriots in arousing the countryside against the advance of British troops who were sent to seize American supplies. National Guard cavalrymen impersonated the renowned riders.

Parades, bands, bugles, drums and booming cannon in Lexington and Concord, battle grounds of the early revolution, and in other communities associated with the battles of 155 years ago, marked the observance of the anniversary.

Yankee Lauds Peru's New Government and Aerial Progress

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Kind words for the new Peruvian government and optimistic ones for the future of aviation there marked the comments yesterday on his arrival here of Lieutenant Commander Harold B. Grow, formerly of the United States navy and for seven years head of the Peru air forces.

H. B. GROW. [Associated Press Photo.]

Lieutenant Commander Grow was a dinner guest last night of Mr. and Mrs. John T. McCutcheon and will return today to Detroit, where he has been attending the air show.

"Since the revolution last fall," said the flyer, who now heads his own aviation company, with offices in New York, "I believe they have tried hard down there to give the country tranquillized, stabilized administration. World conditions, especially the copper, silver, cotton, and sugar markets, on which they depend greatly for their prosperity are not very satisfactory right now, and naturally their economic status is pretty bad. But the good elements of the population are represented in the government, and once the depression is over, I shouldn't be surprised to see them improve rapidly even faster than we will up here.

"As for aviation, even though I was responsible for launching their airlines, I think I can safely say that Peru has the best quality and equipment of air transportation that can be obtained. Peru is the most advanced country in aviation in South America and the further development of its commercial air routes is only a matter of time.

"They have two big airlines there, one of which is under the supervision of the government. The route from Lima to Iquitos on the Amazon river, which we started, still is being operated across the Andes mountains, and in three years they haven't had an accident despite the terrible flying conditions—weather and altitude. The planes make the trip twice weekly, and run almost on train schedules."

After the overthrow of the Leguia government, Lieutenant Commander Grow was charged with opposition to the revolutionists and wis detained for three months in Peru. Investigation proved the assertion groundless, however, and he departed with the friendliest attitude manifest by officials of the present regime.

Y. W. C. A. Group Urges Some Legal Changes.

If your cook scorches the biscuits more than three times running, you always can give her the usual notice. But if your stove has a faulty burner and suddenly scorches the cook, all she can do about it is to put salve on her burns and hope she won't lose too much salary while she's laid up. That is the main reason the household employment committee of the Y. W. C. A. is urging every woman who employs help to get mutual protection for them and herself through the Illinois workmen's compensation act.

The fact is, the time may come when housewives will find their daily routine labeled a "hazardous calling." Especially after the household employment committee, headed by Mrs. Ralph Kimball of Hinsdale as chairman, releases a few of the pertinent points that have come under its notice. Such as, that the home is at present the most neglected field for accidents in this country. That as many people are killed there as in all the factories, mines and industries in the United States. And that last year 23,000 died of accidents occurring in the home, and 3,000,000 were injured.

Offhand there wouldn't appear to be much risk involved in directing Pansy, the domestic general factotum, to give the goldfish an airing and change the water in the bowl. This particular Pansy slipped, the goldfish bowl broke on the edge of the bathtub, and the girls' wrist was so badly gashed she was unable to work for some time.

Similar instances are legion. One maid fell down a winding stair, spent four weeks in the hospital, another at home, was obliged to pay $161 for medical attention and lost $48 in wages.

"So few housewives have insurance in cases of this kind," Mrs. Kimball said yesterday in discussing the problem, "that about the only resource a girl has is to sue if the employer does not offer to pay her expenses. If women only knew that the Illinois workmen's compensation act provides protection at a nominal rate, we feel certain they would take it out forthwith.

"We are advised that there is first an 'expense constant charge' of $10, and then an additional per capita charge for each employé depending upon the nature of the duties; thus, $3.54 for each 'inservant,' $8.43 for each chauffeur, and $21.61 for each 'outservant' such as chore men, furnace men and such."

O. Chatfield-Taylor and Janet Benson Will Marry Today

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Miss Janet Burr Benson, daughter of Mrs. Burr Benson of this city and of Alfred J. Benson of Chicago, will be married to Otis Chatfield-Taylor at All Angels' church tomorrow.

Mr. Taylor is a playwright and dramatic critic for the Outlook magazine. Only members of the immediate family will attend the ceremony, which will be performed by the Rev. Dr. George Trowbridge.

Miss Benson, who attended the Chicago Latin School for Girls and the Howe-Marot school in Connecticut, is a granddaughter of the late Dr. Albert H. Burr and of the late Mme. Johanna Burr, both of Evanston.

Mr. Otis Chatfield-Taylor, who attended Yale and Oxford universities, is the son of Hobart C. Chatfield-Taylor of Chicago by his first wife, the late Miss Rose Farwell, daughter of United States Senator Charles B. Farwell. Hobart C. Chatfield-Taylor married again and he and Mrs. Taylor live in Santa Barbara, Cal. Mr. Otis Chatfield-Taylor is a brother of Mrs. Hendricks W. Whitman of Boston [she was the former Miss Alelaide Chatfield-Taylor] and of Capt. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor. Mr. Otis Chatfield-Taylor recently completed a dramatization of Oliver LaForge's Pulitzer prize winning novel, "Laughing Boy," which David Belasco has announced for autumn production.

After their marriage the couple will sail on Wednesday on the Berengaria for a month's trip to Europe. On their return they will live at 169 East 78th street.

They both are 21 years old. Lord Brougham and Vaux inherited a fortune estimated at one million dollars last year. THE STAGE

THREE new dates were posted on Chicago's theatrical calendar yesterday. They are: "On the Spot," opening at the Grand Opera House May 3; "The Greeks Had a Word of It," opening at the Harris May 4; and "Oh, Promise Me," opening at the Apollo May 4. Moreover, the revival of "Blossom Time" is scheduled for an early appearance at the Great Northern as a successor to "Three Little Girls." Thus the springtime stage is manifesting unexpected activity; and the prophets declare that shows are being prepared to keep the town amused during the summer also.

"On the Spot," by Edgar Wallace, the fecund British penman, has been much propagandized because it deals with the legend of Chicago's flamboyant gangsters. It was written for London audiences after Mr. Wallace had studied the Chicago scene for three days, and seems to be a synthesis of the crime news of the last few years. New York liked it.

Zoe Akins won whatever prize is awarded to the most fantastic title of the year when she wrote "The Greeks Had a Name for It." Naturally everybody asks: For what? So one should explain that this play deals with the home life and intimate conversation of three demi-mondaines of Manhattan. The word to which Miss Akins refers in her freakish label is "hetaira." The Americans have a word for it, too—shorter, more pungent, less dignified. New York liked this play also. Its ladies of luxury will be acted by Murial Kirkland, Dorothy Hall, and Leona Maricle—the latter a replacement for Verree Teasdale.

"Oh, Promise Me" is a suggestive farce with a New York record. It was staged for Broadway by Sam H. Harris, but it will come to Chicago under the auspices of Gregory Ratoff and Ben Bernie. Mr. Ratoff was until recently the Baron von Biebitz of "Three Little Girls." Mr. Bernie, as everybody knows, has enlivened the winter as master of ceremonies for the midnight gayety at the College Inn. The principal rôles will be acted by Miss Sidney Shields, Harlan Briggs, and Edward Robins.

Next week will add two titles to the Chicago playbills. They are "The First Mrs. Fraser," with Grace George as star, coming to the Selwyn Sunday evening for a return engagement, and "Green Grow the Lilacs," the second play in the Theater Guild's spring subscription season, opening Monday at the Illinois. The latter title is a reference to one of the folk songs of the cattle ranges with which the play is embellished. The refrain of the ballad runs:

Green grow the lilacs, all sparkling with dew;
I'm lonely, my darling, since parting with you,
And by the next meeting I hope to prove true,
To change the green lilacs to red, white, and blue.

The approaching revival of "Blossom Time" at the Great Northern will contain as principals John Charles Gilbert, Gladys Baxter, Greta Alpeter, Clifford Newdahl, Robert Lee Allen, and Joseph Lertora. . . . When "Three Little Girls" leaves the Great Northern a week from next Saturday it will have reached a total of 231 performances here.

Among the summer shows that Chicago may expect is the revue which has prospered in New York under the title of "Sweet and Low." Its Broadway engagement will end next Saturday night. The version which is being prepared for summer exhibition will have Phil Baker and Ted Healy as leading comedians; and its title may be altered to "Sweeter and Lower."

Helen Morgan has been engaged for the forthcoming edition of the "Ziegfeld Follies." Ruth Etting, another "torch singer," will also be in the cast. The first performance will be given in Atlantic City May 25. C. C.

Would Deport Alien Reds and Racketeers.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Vice President Charles Curtis, twenty-five per cent American Indian, was heralded tonight as "the only honest to God one hundred per cent American in the crowd." He told the doughty Daughters of the American Revolution, in 40th annual congress assembled, that in these troublous days abroad it's mighty fine to be a citizen of the United States.

And it will be even better, he predicted, if these women, whose forbears emigrated from Europe thousands of years after his ancestors roamed this continent, will continue their work of tightening up the immigration laws, and speed up the operation of the national defense act.

The Vice President's words, which were so boisterously applauded, fitted well into the delegates' ideas of their own destiny, as proclaimed by their president, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart. She urged them to stifle communism, and put the Russian Reds on the run.

Russia, too, was the theme this evening of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde. It was he who referred to Vice President Curtis as the unique American at the meeting. Native critics of our government, Secretary Hyde declared, have Russia as an only alternative.

"Our depression," he said, "comes from our overproduction of coal and oil, cotton and wheat. Yet in this Russia that some talk about, if the government gave each man one extra shirt there would be no cotton for export."

Beaming down from his flag draped rostrum, Mr. Curtis praised the women for their "common sense" and "vivid intelligence." When they had finally stopped applauding this remark he praised their motto, "Home and Country."

Then he praised the citizenry of the United States as being "industrious, generous, and not quarrelsome."

"They have a strong national consciousness," he declared, "because of which, despite their innate peaceful aims and desires, they will not submit to insult, abuse, or ill treatment by any other nation.

"In this country we do not believe in a large standing army, nor do we believe in maintaining too large a navy, but we do want both army and navy to be fully adequate for national defense."

"All aliens, whose object it is to overthrow our government," the vice president insisted, "and all alien criminals and racketeers, should be deported. The sooner that action is taken the better it will be for our country."

In the same vein was the statement of Mrs. Hobart that "it will take extraordinary effort of men and women to redeem our country from the theories promoted by alien agitators."

Mrs. Hoover, who appeared for a few moments at the morning session, was abundantly cheered when she said, "I hope you will have a successful meeting and accomplish all the things you set out to do."

Chicago Will Be Scene of Big Anti-War Session.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Chicago will be host to hundreds of pacifists Nov. 9, 10 and 11. On those days the sixteenth annual good will conference of the World Alliance for International Friendship will be held. Plans for that conference were developed yesterday by members of the executive committee meeting with 200 local church leaders and others at the Palmer house.

Harry N. Holmes, field secretary of the alliance, told the Chicago committee that the greatest battle for international peace will be fought at Geneva, Switzerland, in 1932 at the next disarmament conference.

The elimination of war and of the fear of war are fundamental steps toward economic peace and overcoming the world-wide economic depression, according to Dr. Fred B. Smith, moderator of the National Council of the Congregational and Christian Churches and chairman of the executive committee of the alliance.

Clifford W. Barnes, president of the Sunday Evening club, Orchestra hall, is chairman of the Chicago committee. It was announced that the November conference will be addressed by Secretary Ray Lyman Wilbur of the department of the interior, the German ambassador, Lieutenant Commander J. M. Kenworthy, member of parliament, England; Canon Guy Rogers of Birmingham, England, as well as other notables. The archbishop of Canterbury is the international president of the alliance. The plans for the Chicago conference were unanimously indorsed by the meeting yesterday.

In the west side Metropolitan section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE it was stated that in today's election in Lyons the Taxpayers' party has Herman Toepper as candidate for village president. It was also stated that Leo Martin, Leo Meyer, and Laddie Schubert are running for trustees, with Bennie Michowski a candidate for a vacancy. William A. Smith, candidate for village president, under the Regular People's party, says there is no such party as the Taxpayers' party in Lyons. Other candidates for trustees, he said, are Lyman F. Martin, Frank A. Mitch, Charles Sustr, and Stanley Derengowski.

Antoinette Sits In at "Exclusive" Style Openings

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I've been sitting in at some of the dress showings in the "exclusive" dress establishments that dot fashionable Fifth and the Fifties. I never see the word "exclusive," or use it, but I wonder if ninety-nine and one-half per cent of it wouldn't make the use of the word "expensive," just as grammatically correct, so to speak.

Well, any way, there's no use fighting with a word that doesn't bother the women who go to order, be fitted for, and turned out in "exclusive" things. We sure do not have to take a "nice little extra thing for the wardrobe, which, Madame, is only $225;" And they don't charge you for sneakin' in, grabbing a seat, and exclaiming aloud with the rest of the exclusives: "Ain't that grand;" I tell you there's always somepin' to be thankful for in this old world, if you've got the courage to hold out!

My explanation for attending these dress shows is to see how beauty is being dressed up, this season; how it's being hatted, dressed, coated, and shod. Whether its ankle is being subjected to whole, half, or only part time exposure; its elbows and back, ditto. What new colors are being introduced to make you lovely ones e'en more irresistible. That's my story. But it's a terrible whopper. I go because I have a mad and passionate love for clothes and I love to see them worn by the tall, exquisite, lean darlings who parade them.

Incidentally, I apply the job eye to the scene. Of course there's the indisputable fact that dress does an awful lot to make modern beauty. Every year we see a closer kinship between beauty and what she wears and how she wears it.

Now, what one gets out of a study of all the clothes purchased in a season and the women they are expected to make more pictorial is that clothes choosing and wearing is a talent that some women are born with, some achieve, and some never achieve. The talent may be summed up in a knowledge of one's figure perfections or peculiarities; knowledge of what colors are young and flattering to the individual skin and eye, and a knowledge of materials and accessories that "harden" or soften. On this latter I shall say a little more tomorrow, because it involves so much of the beauty influencing factor of dress.

FATIGUE MAY CAUSE COMMON COLD

System is More Susceptible to Infection When One is Exhausted

Nearly every cold that is suffered got its start when the afflicted was "tired out." A fatigued person is easily chilled, and when this condition occurs the sneeze and sore throat make their appearance.

Since most every one experiences fatigue in mid or late afternoon, it is wise to overcome this condition by eating or drinking something sweet. Candy, cookies, sweetened beverages and ice cream are quickly digested, and the energy in the sugar is ready at once to restore vigor. For children, a slice of bread and butter sprinkled with sugar is an appropriate "pick-up."

In these spring days, the importance of diet in relation to the resistance of the system should not be overlooked. The person who eats a wide variety of wholesome food fortifies himself against disease. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

WOMAN'S DRESS.

This model, of brown and white printed silk crêpe has splendid points, so kind to the mature figure. Note how the apron front that extends to the waistline narrows its breadth. And how the dip in the hip seaming at the front gives the figure a lengthened line. The skirt plaits also help to carry out a vertical line. The sleeve flounce and waist frill are a delicate pink shade crêpe. White lace tucked in at the neckline is dainty and feminine.

Pattern 3076 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material with one yard of 6 inch lace.

Food Talk.

Miss L. G. asks: "Will you tell me how to prepare shrimps? If radishes, celery, or onions are left over should they be placed in water until the next meal?"

The preparation of shrimps depends upon the kind one purchases. Shrimps appear on the market in three forms —"fresh," "boiled," and "canned." Fresh shrimps are cooked in boiling water like crabs or lobsters. Cooking changes the color from the gray of the raw state to a beautiful pink. Following cooking they are cooled in cold water, shelled, and veined. Then they are ready to be prepared in numerous ways.

"Boiled" shrimps have the heads removed. They are cooked with the shells on, then are usually packed in cans with water tight covers, which are soldered or fastened tightly, but are not processed. They are shipped, packed in ice. Boiled shrimps must be shelled and veined before they are ready for use.

"Canned" shrimps are packed "wet" and "dry." In a "wet pack" brine is added before the can is sealed. In a "dry pack" no liquid is added. All that has to be done to the canned shrimp is to remove the black intestinal vein that is visible on the outer edge of the shrimp.

Shrimps are also dried, but a large portion of these is shipped to the orient.

Shrimps are usually left whole or broken in large pieces because the color and form are most attractive. They make delicious salads, are good in soups or bisques, creamed, scalloped, creoled, and Newburged.

I prefer to wrap vegetables like radishes, celery, etc., in a clean wet cloth, then in paper, and put them in a cool place. If the vegetables are not crisp to begin with they will be improved by putting in cold water and slicing off a thin layer from the bottom while the vegetable is under water. But no vegetable should lie in water too long. The strongest flavored vegetable will lose so much of their soluble food material that the flavor will not be natural.

Celery and radishes may be kept in the refrigerator, but onions should never be put in the refrigerator because other foods so easily absorb their odor. Those who are taking the responsibility of serving food should do their best to ascertain the exact amount that is required for the meal. It is difficult to retain the original fresh qualities of any kind of vegetable after they are once prepared for serving. And rather than have our family and guests lose any of their appreciation of fresh vegetables it is far better to use such leftover vegetables in soups or to flavor cooked foods if we fail to keep them up in the very best possible condition.

SHRIMP SALAD.

2 stalks celery, cut up.
Chopped olives.
2 hard cooked eggs.

Prepare the shrimps, if fresh, by boiling in salted water for 15 minutes, then cooling in cold water. Remove shells and intestinal vein. Mix the olives, pepper, and celery with the shrimps and marinate with French dressing. Chill. Serve on lettuce with thousand island dressing or mayonnaise, and garnish with the slices of egg. Whipped cream added to the dressing will improve the salad. Yield: 8 servings.

FRICANDEAU OF VEAL.

Get three pounds of lean veal from the top of the leg. Trim and rub well with salt, pepper, and flour. Cut two small onions into dice and fry them to a light brown in salt pork fat. Take out the onions and brown the meat all over in the fat, adding more fat if needed. Put the meat in a pan on a rack to hold it up from the bottom. Add one quart of boiling water and 1 tablespoon of mixed herbs [sage or sweet marjoram] tied in a bag. Cover closely and cook in a moderate oven [350° F.] 2½ hours, basting every 30 minutes, and turn over after the meat has been cooking 1½ hours. If there is not 1 pint of gravy left in the pan, add boiling water to make this quantity. When done remove the meat to a platter. Remove the herbs and discard. Thicken the gravy with 2 tablespoons flour wet in a little cold water. Add salt and pepper if more seasoning is desired. Cook five minutes and pour the gravy over the meat.

Miss Johnston, W. N. Boyden to Wed May 1

BY THALIA

MISS ANGELA JOHNSTON and her fiancé, Willard Newhall Boyden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Boyden, are going to a number of parties being given for them before their marriage, which is to take place on May 1 at the residence of Miss Johnston's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Johnston. The Kenneth Carpenters are giving a dinner party this evening at their apartment, and next Tuesday night Dunlap Smith, who is to be best man for Mr. Boyden, and Mrs. Smith are to give a dinner party at the apartment of Mrs. Smith's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Thornes. Miss Mary Elizabeth Johnston and Hulbure Johnston, cousins of the bride-to-be, are to entertain at the Casino for the rest of teen guests and the wedding party the night before the wedding. There are other parties, too, but they are to be small ones, according to Miss Johnston.

Only relatives and the people who are coming from other cities are to be present at the wedding service that will be read at 4:30 o'clock, but there will be a reception at the Casino afterwards for a larger group of guests. Miss Mary Elizabeth and Miss Ethel Johnston are to be bridesmaids.

Mrs. Johnston's father, Albert Douglas, will come on from Washington, D. C., for his granddaughter's nuptials, of course, and also an aunt and uncle of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Douglas of Harrington Park, Pa., and a school friend of Miss Johnston's, Miss Frances Jay of New York City, who has visited here often. A group of Mr. Boyden's Williams college classmates will also be among the wedding guests. The prospective bride and groom are keeping the destination of their wedding trip a deep, dark secret, and they're planning to take a house in Lake Forest for the summer.

Rethberg Sings at Rockford College Benefit

BY EDWARD MOORE.

ELISABETH RETHBERG'S recital appearance at Orchestra hall last night was for the benefit of Rockford college, but it was an appearance that fully broke down the ordinary conventions and inhibitions in discussing a benefit concert. As one who has been somewhat annoyed this winter by imperfect, incomplete development in the art of song, it was a great pleasure to me to listen to one whose vocal equipment needs no further development.

No question about it, Mme. Rethberg, star of the Metropolitan and Ravinia Opera companies, is quite as much, even a greater star in song recital. Her voice is pure velvet, her musicianship is both instinctive and accurate, her art, therefore, is something worth going miles to witness. By birth she classifies as German, by accomplishment she is an artist of the world. Italian, French, English, German songs are all the same to her, and in this case all the same means sheer delight at the tone of her voice, applause and cheers at her ability as an interpreter.

The Woman's Symphony orchestra completed its series at the Goodman theater last night, this time with the engagement of Jacques Gordon as violin soloist. It was quite the most successful concert of the season. Mr. Gordon is one of the outstanding artists of the present generation, and the orchestra played as it has seldom played before. Wherefore there were two valid reasons for the success.

Mr. Gordon appeared twice, the first time in the Vivaldi Concerto in A minor, the second in the work of the same classification in G minor by Bruch. The first was missed because of Mme. Rethberg, but the second displayed him as an artist of unusual note, with a broad, persuasive, sympathetic tone and a simply enormous transforming enthusiasm. It was the kind of playing that turns old compositions into new and fascinating works.

The orchestra was heard in Ravel's suite, "Ma Mere l'Oye," a set of pieces that need imagination as well as good playing, and received them under the baton of Ebba Sundstrom. The Woman's Symphony orchestra was never in such good form as now, and it has every reason to continue as a permanent contribution to the music of Chicago.

Because of the illness of Earl Alexander, he will be unable to appear tonight in his announced joint appearance with Mary Niemann at Kimball hall. His place will be taken by Ruth Heizer, mezzo-soprano, who made a name for herself when she appeared in "An Evening with Papa Haydn" at the Goodman last season.

The committee passing upon young pianists for the Paderewski Concerto in the popular concert of the Chicago Symphony concert Thursday evening was unable to decide upon a first place. There will therefore be two first places. Miriam Ulrich will play the first movement and Wanda Paul the second and third. Each will receive the promised award of $100; it will be doubled and not split.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hyde, wife of the secretary of agriculture, was the ranking guest at the luncheon given today by the former president of the League of Republican Woman of the District of Columbia, Mrs. E. A. Harriman, at the Chevy Chase club. The luncheon was given in honor of Mrs. E. E. Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, but she was ill and was not present. Mrs. Harriman has been succeeded as president by Mrs. Frank W. Mondell, wife of a former representative from Wyoming, who was unanimously elected.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Storey of Chicago arrived today in Washington at the Mayflower to attend the dinner tomorrow evening of the secretary of the interior and Mrs. Wilbur in honor of President and Mrs. Hoover. They will remain until Friday.

The British ambassador and Lady Lindsay have had as their guest for some days at the embassy Miss Martha Draper of New York.

Mrs. Jane Story and her younger daughter, Miss Jacquelin Story, have gone to Havana to visit Mrs. Story's son-in-law and daughter, the first secretary of the American embassy, and Mrs. Edward L. Reed.

The Old Story

Paying a woman's penalty—time after time

In the year of 1931 there should be no monthly martyrs to pain. Some women still think they must suffer—they haven't heard of Midol—or can't believe that it has solved their problem.

Did you know that five to seven minutes after swallowing a tiny tablet you can be yourself—can be comfortable—can go about without feeling a single further twinge of muscular pain?

Your regular periods need not be painful—they are not painful to those who know of Midol. These wonderful tablets make Nature's process a mere incident. No pain, not even discomfort when you have learned to depend on Midol, as women who used to have the hardest time have found. It is not a narcotic, does not interfere with the process, but does stop the pain; relieves headaches, too; neuralgia, etc. Every drugstore has Midol.

pour germs in handkerchiefs

BE SAFE!
use Kleenex... then destroy

DON'T risk flu, pneumonia and other dangerous aftermaths of colds! Latest laboratory experiments now bring definite proof of the health value of Kleenex.

A series of scientific tests prove that millions of disease germs thrive and breed in handkerchiefs used during colds. These germs self-infect the user, causing colds to get worse instead of better. This constant self-infection may cause colds to develop into flu and other menacing diseases.

USE KLEENEX AND DISCARD

Kleenex prevents self-infection because you use it only once and then destroy. No germ-filled handkerchief to carry around in pocket or purse, preserving germs, spreading infection.

Kleenex is a soft, immaculate, super-absorbent tissue. The size of a handkerchief. So gentle, so soothing, that irritation is impossible. So inexpensive that each tissue may be used just once, then discarded.

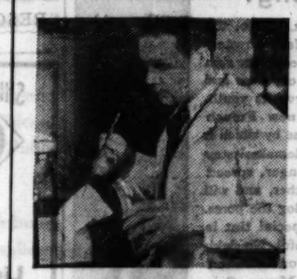
The use of Kleenex will materially reduce your laundry bill. It is ideal for children.

Kleenex has many other uses. Beauty experts say these absorbent tissues are the safe, sanitary way to remove cold cream. Being powerfully absorbent, Kleenex picks up all dirt and powder along with cleansing cream.

Ask for Kleenex at any drug, dry goods or department store. Comes in three sizes: 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. If you have not tried Kleenex, send for a free trial package to the Kleenex Company, Lake Michigan Building, Chicago, Illinois.



What science says about the ordinary handkerchief
1. It may self-infect the user time after time.
2. Spread infection among others.
3. Infect clothing in which carried.
4. Infect clothing in laundry bags (germs survive for days.)

Bacteriological Tests show:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief.
2. That organisms representative of those associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Iris de Bertincourt lives in a remote section of Paris with her 15 year old daughter, Clare. She and Maj. Alan Charnwood are desperately in love, but there are barriers to their immediate marriage. They are spending the last evening they will have together in several months, as Maj. Charnwood plans to leave next day for Africa. Clare is acting in a school play and is to be brought home by friends.

INSTALLMENT II.

A FRIGHTENING INTERRUPTION.

At the corner of the mantel shelf the framed photograph of a young girl faced him. This was Clare, whom he had hardly seen and really thought little about, except that she was dear to Iris and so must in time be taken to his heart.

Alan studied the likeness now with casual interest. Blonde hair, slightly darker than Iris', fell in a big wavy lock against the side of her pointed face, casting a shadow. It was short, he noticed, whereas Iris wore hers in a loose shining knot low on the neck. Something impish about the chin; her mother's straight nose and sensitive mouth, but eyes were quite different. Purplish gray, he recalled, with thick, dark, up-curving lashes. They looked out with a straight, candid gaze, discerning but not precocious; nothing spoiled or "flapperish" about them, for which he was glad, for he would have hated to see Iris lavish so much devotion on a minx, one who needed smacking and putting in her place. . . .

Iris, entering, put the question eagerly, coming to his side.

"She will never be as lovely as you are," he declared frankly, putting an arm about her waist. "But she can fall short of your standard and still be good looking."

She threw him a scornful glance, but flushed with pleasure at the compliment. Then, bending down, she set a little jug of hot milk on the tray.

"See, I've not forgotten you take your coffee 'white,' as you say in England. How astounded I was the first time a London waiter said to me, 'Will you take your coffee black or white, madam?' I'd never heard that before."

She lighted the spirit lamp, her slender hands pearly white against the black of her dress, her mass of fair hair transformed to pure gold by the leaping flames. The youthfulness of her stooping figure drew an incredulous exclamation from him.

"Perfect nonsense," he cried, "your being the mother of a girl of fifteen! I suppose you're used to hearing that, but really as you look now——! It's absolutely absurd!"

"I was less than eighteen when Clare was born," she remarked indifferently, busy with her task. "Seventeen and three-quarters to be exact."

"Too young!"

"I agree. But as things turned out, what a blessing! To think of the years I've had her all to myself! She's meant everything to me—everything. She still does."

"Even now?" He laid a jealous hand on her shoulder. "Did you mean to say that?"

She turned scarlet, laughed.

"No, no, of course I didn't! How stupid of me! Only all this between you and me has come about so quickly I haven't learned to regard it as permanent. It's rather like a marvelous holiday which will soon be over, leaving me where I was before."

"Were you happy before?"

"Yes, so happy! That is, ever since I've had my work and my independence. You can't imagine what an experience it has been to make my own living, decide things for myself. Utterly thrilling—or it was till I met you. Now, of course, I could never think of that other life as complete again."

She sighed contentedly, resting her head against his knee, but at the same time letting her gaze stray upward to her child's face. "She has her father's eyes, of course," she remarked irrelevantly, and shut her lips in a sudden hard line.

There was a moment's silence. The clock ticked briskly.

"That reminds me," said Charnwood, running his big fingers through her hair. "You haven't yet told me what your solicitor thinks. There'll be no difficulty about your divorce?"

"O, not the slightest," she answered positively. "I've plenty of evidence—more than the law requires."

"And De Bertincourt? I suppose he's not likely to oppose it?"

"How can he? Besides, he won't want to. No, the person who'll object, when she hears, will be my aunt. I'm quite prepared for her bitter disapproval. That's why I'm so terribly anxious not to let her know about you. It might lead to endless complications."

"Interference, you mean? But surely it's your own affair."

She shrugged her shoulders despairingly.

"What difference does that make? She will consider it hers. People like Tante Victoire don't countenance divorce, can't admit the existence of it. Once married, you stay married, for ever and ever. Why, I thought that myself once. The truth is, though you mayn't believe it, I had no opinions of my own until a few years ago."

"You?" he cried astonished. "It's not possible!"

"I don't wonder you're amazed. I can hardly realize it now that I've grown out of it all so completely, but I assure you that for a long time every thought, every action, was decided for me. I scarcely chose a hat for myself. O, it was too dreadful!" She laughed, but half shuddered, the memory very real.

He was staring at her, puzzled, the ash on his cigaret lengthening.

"But do you mean to tell me this went on after you were married?"

"Indeed it did. You see——" She hesitated, then forced herself to go on. "I lived with my husband only about two years, all told. The war was going on, during leaves I hardly saw him, and afterward he practically left me to take care of myself, spent his money on other women, and only came home when he was ill or needed my help. I struggled on for a bit, then went back to live with my aunt. It seemed the only thing to do. Remember she had always stood in the place of a mother to me."

"Stop a moment," he interrupted, taking her hand. "I suppose you were in love with him when you were married?"

"Was I?" She knit her brow. "Yes, I daresay I was. But what does a girl of seventeen know about love? Besides, Marcel was a stranger to me."

"A stranger! But isn't he your cousin?"

She laughed spontaneously at his mystified air.

"O, my dear, it's easy to see how little you know of my upbringing, though thousands of French girls are brought up still in that way, particularly in the provinces. Listen. I'll open your eyes a bit. To begin with—but wait, let's have our coffee first."

The water had boiled up through the tube and surged over the dark grounds. She removed the spirit lamp, took up the spoon to stir the mixture, then paused in an attitude of listening.

"S'sh! Was that the gate? Don't tell me some one is coming here!"

"I didn't hear anything."

"No, but I did."

She crossed to the window and, drawing the curtains apart, peered through the crack into the outer darkness.

"There's no one there. I must have been mistaken." She returned to the fire and began to pour out the coffee. "Silly to be so jumpy, but I'm serious about not wanting any one to know you're here. I—O, I was right, after all!"

This time both started guiltily and exchanged questioning looks. From the front door came a peculiar, hesitating ring, followed by a double rat-tat on the knocker.

Charnwood thought it was quite absurd of her to change color and suddenly clasp her two hands at her breast.

Why on earth should she be alarmed like this?

Charnwood, who had risen, moved towards the hall, but a gesture from Iris stopped him.

"No, I'll go; stay where you are."

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A Pitiful Plea.

"I am an old man with no home and no job. I walk the streets day after day and it is hard on me because I haven't any shoes or socks and I have to wear a pair of heavy overshoes. Can you get me some shoes, size 10½, and a pair of socks?

"W. Y."

Wearing overshoes as a substitute for shoes is not comfortable, especially during these days which are beginning to be warm. Can you supply a pair of shoes in this man's size?"

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

A Musical Interpretation.

It was while I was employed in my first position that the boss dictated in a letter to a client, "Please sign and return the inclosed note." I wrote up my dictation and turned in the letter.

Later the boss came to my desk, handed me the letter, and said a certain sentence in it sounded out of tune. How silly I felt when I found I had written, "Please sing and return the inclosed note." Just a typographical error, but what an embarrassing moment for a stenog. A. H.

Little Children Need the Watchful Eye of Grown-Ups

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

This is not to be a tale of horror, nor is it for the average mother. It is intended for the woman who trusts her children too much to other people, or who is strictly utilitarian about them—you know, the woman who is willing to leave her children alone asleep in the house and say—"O, what could happen them? Nothing could possibly occur."

Accidents wouldn't be accidents if you knew how and when they were going to happen. As: One woman used to leave her two children—one a little baby—at a camp cottage for whole, cold mountain evenings. When some one asked her if she wasn't afraid they'd get uncovered she said, "Well, yes they do—the baby does, especially, and sometimes he's like ice when I get home. The other night when I got back I was frightened. He had evidently done something wild with the covers and they had gotten caught down over his whole face and he was blue and strangling. I got there just in time. A few minutes more and I think he would have been gone."

Another woman I don't know personally and who doesn't know me [so I can tell this] left her baby, who had come bronchial illness, asleep with a steam kettle rigged up near the bed. She didn't go into the room for hours and finally after the child had been crying a long while she looked in. Well, I won't go into it—but her little girl has one terribly deformed hand as a result of the burn.

Cries usually mean something. Even if they mean a spoiled child, remember that you did the spoiling. And in doing the unspoiling, don't be so stern or impatient or careless that your child suffers for your original mistake or inexperience.

Your little children don't need to know it—but you have to be always watchful and know how things are with them, asleep or awake. In some of the child research centers children are observed through a specially planned glass or screen. We can't do that, but we can be unobstrusive as well as alert in our watching.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

After four months the girl discovers her case of love at first sight to be but an infatuation. The boy adores her still and won't listen to the girl's request to be just friends for awhile and see how that works. She has given her promise to marry the boy, who is good, honest and has many other good-husband qualities. But, the girl sighs, what is marriage without love?

The girl's family and friends insist she is superior to him and press her to be relased from her engagement ring entanglement. But the boy at the moment is out of a job and most of his money is gone helping out other unemployed members of his family. It doesn't seem fair to the girl at the moment to deliver this final blow to the poor chap with all the other trouble he has had. But what to do?

That is a predicament to be in now, isn't it? The chap in the case probably never will be convinced that his unemployment hadn't something to do with it, if the break is made now. But life is life, and troubles have a way of piling themselves up and descending all at one time. If a girl honestly finds she cannot love a man she has promised to marry, the most honorable thing she can do is to try to be released from the engagement. If it causes pain—well, being married to a woman that can't love you is worse.

But about this superiority of which family and friends boast, is it fair judgment, or one of those common-enough family and friend prejudices that no one is quite good enough for a certain "superior-minded, efficient, good-girl type?" Old maids have been made out of just such family and friends suasion. And the girls, themselves, have lived to see the inferior one occupy quite superior positions of success and respect.

Maybe in this case the young man is of inferior caliber, education, and so on. And, of course, it is not commendable nor particularly promising of happiness to be tied to a man one does feel to be an inferior. However, it is a sign that one has fallen out of love when one begins measuring with this particular yardstick, in which event the sooner and cleaner the break, the better.

Bell Boy Jacket for Beach Pajamas

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Every sort of uniform, costume, and decoration has been pressed into service for the inspiration of original beach clothes, in which fantasy may, for once, run ragged without interfering with chic. But the bell boy jacket for the beach pajamas is something new, and it must be admitted that it lends the blonde flapper an air of masquerade that is not without charm, though she may lay herself open to being asked to fetch the matches by a wilfully short sighted or absent minded prince with a tired thumb.

Irene Dana mixes stripes and bell-boy buttons to make the attractive beach pajamas sketched today. The wide trousers and the short jacket are of bright red Shantung. Both are snugly buttoned a little to the left side with bright gold buttons. There's one patch pocket on the pants, which are worn over a white hand knit bathing suit.

The scarf is of red, white and blue diagonal striped cotton sponge cloth. It matches a short, square necked slip-on bolero that can be worn on the beach without the jacket, as you see by our small seated lady, and in that case the scarf is very decorative, trailing handkerchief fashion out of the above mentioned hip pocket.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Admit Your Faults.

"Dear Miss Blake: When my friend and I quarrel or part, he is the one to make up, whether it is his fault or not. Do you think he loves me?

"TOMMIE."

He must like you. However, your policy is not a good one. Be big enough to admit your faults.

Bright Sayings of the Children

A little friend of ours was quite thrilled at seeing his first roller skates. He hurried home to his father and asked him to please get him "two little foot cars." F. S.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

The planting of good windbreaks is one way to offset declining farm land values, according to Parker O. Anderson, extension forester of the Minnesota university farm. He has found that groves only seven or eight years old add from $500 to $1,000 to the sale of a farm.

"Windbreaks are an appreciable asset, not only because they increase sale values on farm property, but because they are easily worth even more in comfort to the farm family and in increased financial returns from livestock," says the forester after interviewing farmers in various sections of the state.

By purchasing small trees, shelter belts can be established at small cost. Farmers are reluctant to cut them down after finding what value they have in comfort alone.

It is best to use several varieties. Plantings should include not only hardwood trees, but also the quick growers and evergreens which give not only color and life throughout the year but help to cut down the force of winds when other types of trees have lost their foliage.

Preparation of the land one year in advance is recommended. A cultivated crop aids in pulverizing the soil, conserves moisture and kills weeds and grasses. The young trees gain these advantages and start their growth without competition with other plants.

ACID after meals

GET RID of your dread of pain after eating. Eat without fear of "indigestion," sour stomach, disagreeable gas or headaches.

When your food ferments, "disagrees," lies like a lump in your stomach, it's a sign of too much acid. You need not resort to crude methods—take instead an anti-acid that will correct the condition. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

A spoonful of this pleasant-tasting, soothing fluid neutralizes many times its volume in acid. It restores the proper alkaline balance to an acid-soaked stomach and bowels—assists these organs to function as they should.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is what you need when a bad breath, coated tongue, headaches, nausea or biliousness indicates an over-acid condition. Take a spoonful today and for several days and see how it sweetens the system. You won't be nearly so liable to colds or sickness. All drugstores—in 25c and 50c bottles.

* * * A vital influence IN THE LIVES OF OVER 2,600,000 MODERN WOMEN

"The happiest women have no history"

To the Editor's desk there came this mildly protesting letter from a woman in Nebraska:

"RECENTLY you published in the Journal an article on love and marriage by a famous singer. One wonders just how a woman who has never married speaks with such authority on what marriage is, and what emotions one experiences after years of marriage.

"Thousands of women fall in love. May it not be that some of the 'less colorful sisters' have experienced something which the artist, in her desire to plumb the depths of life, has quite missed?

"Someone said long ago that 'the happiest women and the happiest countries leave no history.'

To her the Editor replied:

"WE should like to print the love stories of anonymous women—women in whose lives there has been no great glamour, but who have been good home makers, who have made happy marriages, who are bringing up families of children—in other words, the women who are actually the backbone of the nation.

"Can such stories be written? I think they can. Write such a story of your own married life—get some of your friends to write their stories—and send them to me."

They appear in the May Journal—these really splendid love stories of the "less colorful sisters." One of the biggest reasons for the success of the Journal is that its 2,600,000 readers help to edit it.

"We learned before it was too late"

THERE really wasn't any excuse for us. I suppose my husband and I were simply intoxicated by our good fortune. My husband had just been given a new executive job at a very high salary. But we spent double what he earned.

"At the end of three years we were head over heels in debt—and my husband's company failed. Everything just crashed down on us at once.

"I want to tell you what a real friend your magazine has been in helping me to reorganize my life differently. I have learned so much about managing money through the many articles on household spending that you publish. We have made a new start, and are full of hope for the future. I am glad it all happened when it did, and that we were able to learn before it was too late."

Today woman's great economic function is to buy. How she buys determines the success or failure of her home, from an economic standpoint. Lita Bane's articles, "How to Buy," now running in the Journal, are giving numberless young housekeepers a truer sense of values, greater judgment and discrimination in spending.

Women do more than read it . . . . they live by it

Because, in a world transformed by modern scientific invention, it is helping women to master the thousand problems of their changed environment . . .

Because it interprets the new spirit that has come into the relation of husbands and wives, parents and children . . .

The Ladies' Home Journal is a vital influence in countless American homes. More than 2,600,000 modern women look to it for guidance—not only on how to buy and spend, create and enjoy—but also on how to live.

"I couldn't bear to have my Mother know the truth"

PLEASE don't make any mistake, my mother is a perfect peach to me.

"But perhaps she is sort of old-fashioned in some of her ideas. She doesn't like jazz, or modern dancing, or anything like that.

"She tries so hard to have things nice for me, I couldn't bear to have her know the truth. But my parties really were awfully dumb, and the crowd never seemed to want to come to our house. I felt like a back number until I began reading your Sub-deb Department.

"I think you have the snappiest ideas about entertaining. Really, your suggestions have helped me ever so much. Mother let me give a screen-test party, like the one you told about, and it turned out a perfectly grand success. For the first time in my life I knew what it was to have everyone flattering me and complimenting me.

"Thank you for making me a very happy girl."

Thousands of girls write to the Sub-deb Department every month—about their hair, their clothes, their beauty problems, their boy friends, their most secret dreams and ambitions. The Journal has solved the bobbed-hair problem alone for more than 30,000 sub-debs! If you are interested in girls—you will be delighted by Fannie Kilbourne's story in the May Journal, "A Father Can't Win."

CARDS BEAT CUBS, 3-2, ON BOTTOMLEY'S HOMER

HARPER NAMED NOTRE DAME ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

Will Assume Duties May 1.

Glad to Return

ASHLAND, Kas., April 20.—(AP)—Jesse Harper, once before director of athletics at Notre Dame university, is glad of a chance again to take the athletic helm he relinquished in 1918 to his famous pupil, the late Knute Rockne.

Today he expressed himself as "very much pleased after being away so long to be asked to come back again."

He said it was his intention "to continue the policies" now pursued at Notre Dame.

His Kansas ranch is "efficiently managed" and will not suffer from his absence, Harper said.

Notre Dame, Ind., April 20.—[Special]—Jesse C. Harper, who taught Knute Rockne the fundamentals of the now famous Notre Dame system while Rockne was playing in his senior year, will succeed Rockne as director of athletics at Notre Dame. He will assume his new duties May 1.

The Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C. president of the university, reached an agreement with Harper today in a long distance telephone conversation to Ashland, Kas. He made official announcement of the appointment tonight over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE radio station, at 10:30 o'clock, when he gave his annual universal Notre Dame night radio talk.

Takes Old Place.

Thus the man whose pupil became the greatest football coach in the history of the game takes back the reins he gave to Rockne in 1918. Harper, however, will do no coaching, but will merely serve in Rockne's capacity as director of athletics, with Heartley Anderson, senior football coach; Jack Chevigny, junior football coach; George E. Keogan, basketball and baseball coach, and John P. Nicholson, track coach, as his assistants.

Harper was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1906, where he learned football from Amos Alonzo Stagg. He was a half back of the light, wiry type in whom Stagg saw possibilities of opening up the game by sending backs off tackle and around end instead of straight through the line.

Before coming to Notre Dame he coached for three years at Wabash college, Crawfordsville, Ind. Notre Dame defeated his 1911 and 1912 Wabash teams.

Resigned for Ranch.

Upon coming to Notre Dame in 1913, Harper assumed the duties of football, basketball, track, and baseball coach. He turned over track to Rockne in 1914, but handled the other three sports himself until 1918, when his pupil succeeded him as director of athletics and football coach. Howard (Cap) Edwards, captain of the 1909 Irish eleven, was Harper's assistant in football in 1913 and Rockne helped him in the four intervening years before becoming head coach.

As head football coach, Harper introduced the backfield shift which he had learned from Stagg and which later became the basis of the Notre Dame system. Rockne always gave full credit to Stagg for originating this style of play, although he himself added the idea of shifting the ends, as well as the backs, and perfected Stagg's idea.

Developed Pass in 1913.

The development and wide use of the forward pass featured Notre Dame play in 1913, when Rockne was captain and end.

Harper's record as a football coach was a remarkable one. In the five years that he was coach his teams won 33 games out of 39, losing five and tying one. The 1913 team was undefeated, winning seven games.

Harper's ability as a basketball and baseball coach approached his football wizardry. His teams from 1913 to 1917, inclusive, in basketball won 57 games while losing only 17, in three of the five seasons his teams won 14 out of 16 games.

His baseball teams won 68 games while losing 24, one game resulting in a tie. His 1913 team won 14 games while losing to Navy, Army, and Lake Forest. In 1916 Harper produced a team which won 10 straight games, one of the longest winning streaks in college baseball at that time.

Although Harper has not been in direct touch with college sports since 1918, he had a keen interest in them and was advised by Rockne of many Notre Dame moves that have not been made public. Rockne never lost his admiration of and respect for Harper, and on many occasions asked his advice on various problems which came up both in the matter of coaching and in that of directing other sports.

Stagg Praises Harper's Return to Notre Dame

A. A. STAGG.

Director A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago last night praised the return of Jesse Harper, former baseball and football star on the Midway, to the athletic directorship at Notre Dame.

"Harper should be a fine choice for the directorship at Notre Dame," Director Stagg said. "He was successful there and he left with the respect of those with whom he worked and all the coaches who knew him. He is a very able director."

Harper won letters as a baseball and football player at Chicago. He played four years of baseball, winning a "C" in 1903-'04-'05-'06, and captaining the team in 1905. He played in the outfield his first season, was made a catcher the following two years, and returned to the outfield in his final season.

As a football player Harper had plenty of competition. Director Stagg recalled last night that Harper weighed only 155 pounds in the days of "five yards in three downs" football. Walter Eckersall was on the team during Harper's last three years, and the other backs included De Tray Bezdek, Walker, and Hutchinson. Harper had a hard time breaking into the games, but he played enough to win his letter in 1905.

Matmen Work Under the Big Top Tonight

The ancient sport of wrestling will invade the Chicago Stadium for the first time tonight when Promoter Doc Krone presents a card of six matches headed by Jim Londos, heavyweight champion, and Kola Kwariani, bold Cossack from the steppes of Russia.

Since the old Athenian days the Greeks have been skilled in the art of tossing their opponents down on their shoulder blades for the count, but Dr. Krone insists that Londos, by introducing a few modern variations, including the airplane spin, is just a little bit better than anything Greece has produced before or since the rise of the Acropolis.

"There's a quarter of a million dollars' worth of wrestlers on that card," the doctor exclaimed last night, running an approving eye down a flimsy sheet of publicity copy. "Londos and Kwariani should draw $60,000, Jim McMillen and Fred Grobmier are worth $40,000 in any city you can name, and I can also give you figures on the rest of the boys if you want them.

"And when I think of the minimum price we are charging . . ." Here Dr. Krone went into a soliloquy which lasted for the better part of half an hour.

Kwariani, who weighs 220 pounds, or about 20 more than the champion, has perfected a defense for aerial tactics which will reduce Mr. Londos to nothing less than helplessness, he confided to interviewers last night. They will go two falls out of three to a finish.

McMillen vs. Grobmier.

Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football player, will meet Fred Grobmier in the semi-windup. Grobmier is an Iowan, who is addicted to 17 varieties of the scissors hold, made popular by Joe Stecher. He replaces George Hagen of Brooklyn, who was reported ill of blood poisoning.

George Zaharias, Colorado Greek, is paired with Frank Bronowicz in one of the preliminaries. Bronowicz is seeking his ninth straight victory, but will be outweighed 35 pounds by the rough and tough Zaharias.

BY ARCH WARD.

Once upon a time there was a guy named Argus who had 100 eyes which slept and watched by turns. It's too bad he isn't living in our day. Chicago's current sports program would have given him a real test.

For instance:

The Cubs and Cardinals, probably the two strongest teams in the National league, are getting in some early season wallops up at Wrigley field. The wrestlers, having stormed the outlying ramparts for several weeks, tonight march into Chicago Stadium to prove to a skeptical public that they merit a place in the big time.

The White Sox come home tomorrow to open their season at Comiskey park against the Cleveland Indians. Whether the Sox are going anywhere or not makes no difference. The south side is strong for Mr. Comiskey's workers.

On Thursday night the finals of the Central A. A. U. boxing tournament will be held at Chicago Stadium. These boys are fighting for the right to represent this district in the national A. A. U. meet, which will be held in New York next week.

The most important professional boxing match of the season brings together two champions, Tony Canzoneri, lightweight title holder, and Kid Berg, junior welterweight king, at the Stadium Friday night. Both titles are at stake as the boys are making 135 pounds. Among the reporters will be one from London and six from New York. Berg is an Englishman, which accounts for the presence of the foreign correspondent.

HARPER AT NOTRE DAME.

Jesse Harper's appointment as athletic director at Notre Dame will be welcomed by college leaders having contacts with the South Bend school as well as by Notre Dame men everywhere.

Knute Rockne made Notre Dame's athletics nationally prominent, but it was Harper who laid the foundation for that success. It was in his previous administration as athletic director that Notre Dame adopted the eligibility code to which it has adhered since 1913. Harper convinced Western conference schools that his teams were fit associates for anybody. He was the man who started the series with the United States Military academy, which has grown to be the most important intersectional rivalry in football.

$10,000 GOLF MEET.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is talking a $10,000 open golf tournament for Chicago this summer. Prizes have been designed to lure the best professional and amateur players.

There may be no need for more golf meets. The summer calendar is pretty well crowded. There is merit, however, in any enterprise important enough to give Chicago national publicity of this kind.

WRESTLING VS. BOXING.

The drawing power of wrestling and boxing will come to a showdown this week. Two big attractions are scheduled for Chicago Stadium. The wrestlers, with Jim Londos, one of the champions, heading the card do their stuff tonight. Two boxing champions, Canzoneri and Berg, will see how many they can attract on Friday night.

There is no denying that wrestling has picked up a lot of followers in recent months. The antiquated pastime now is based on showmanship and the promoters are giving the fans all they want. There always is a claimant to the championship on every card. It's strange there is enough of these claims to go around.

In their enthusiasm to entertain the customers the performers have discarded most of the old holds. Many don't even bother to learn anything about them. You seldom hear of one being nailed to the mat with one of Frank Gotch's old holds. This is an age of specialists and the wrestlers are not behind the times. Londos tosses his opponents around the hall with airplane spins. Sonnenberg gave the flying tackle a big play. Lewis leans to the head lock.

But all these exaggerated antics have proved turnstile magic. The fans like them. And whether it is all just good natured clowning or not is immaterial. The most important thing to the promoters is that the paying guests storm the doors.

Mr. Binoculars Sees Baba Kenny as Filly Champion

This is the third of a series on leading contenders for the 1931 racing championships.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Our trusty old binoculars that are looking six months ahead into horse racing and telling you who the 1931 champions are going to be, are far too clumsy and unkempt for their next assignment.

A dainty pair of opera glasses, trimmed in mother of pearl, might better do the job.

For here come the ladies — the young and lovely ladies—as stylish a band of 3 year old fillies as ever gladdened the eye of the man or woman who loves a thoroughbred race horse.

E. R. BRADLEY.

We deal separately with these fillies that are now 3 years old, because it is seldom that one comes along which is able to hold her own with the colts of her age early in the season.

Have Separate Division.

By the time she is able to outfoot her boy friends the 3 year old championship race is usually over, so a separate division has been created for these fashionable flappers. They race to their own championship through a series of events which include the Pimlico Oaks, Belmont's American Coaching Club Oaks, the Kentucky Oaks, the Illinois Oaks, the Arlington Oaks, and various matron stakes.

They seldom are in the limelight like the colts of their age. But you can turn back through the pages of turf history and find few horses that acquired more lasting fame than did Yo Tamblen, Modesty, Cleopatra, Mother Goose, Black Maria, Anita Peabody, and Rose of Sharon, all champions of the fillies when they were youthful and beautiful.

It is very evident that Mr. Binoculars is going to pick his champion in this division with great care. And he's not going to kid the ladies. Nor is he going to get very far away from the cold dope of last year's racing. For 3 year old fillies more often race back to their 2 year old form than do the colts of that age.

Baba Kenny Is Choice.

So his pick is Baba Kenny from Col. Edward R. Bradley's stable for the championship. Risque from the John Hertz stable will be second after a rather furious battle. In third place he sees Romanesque, somewhat of an unknown daughter of Sir Gallahad III. Etne, and he gets the vision that if any of the three leaders falter Martha Jones, a western daughter of Wise Counsellor, owned by Looney and Jones of Kentucky, will slip up into the charmed circle.

Why does he pick Baba Kenny? Didn't Risque give the Bradley filly a decisive beating at Saratoga last August? Risque came from behind that day, picked up and defeated Baba Kenny right at the winning post.

But it was the way Baba Kenny ran in the great Futurity at Belmont last September that makes her stand out as the champion of her age and sex this year. She was fifth in that struggle, beaten by no great margin by such great colts as Jamestown, Equi-

BABE RUTH HITS 2 HOMERS; YANKS DOWN MACKS, 5-4

Earnshaw Loses After 4 Run Lead.

New York, April 20.—(AP)—Two home runs by Babe Ruth, each coming with Lyn Lary on base, provided the winning margin by which the Yankees squared their series with the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 4, today. They were the Babe's second and third homers of the season.

The Athletics gave their ace right hander, George Earnshaw, a four run lead in the first three innings at the expense of Henry Johnson, but they were stopped thereafter by Gomes and Wells. The Yanks nicked Earnshaw for three runs in the fourth and Ruth's second homer in the eighth put on the finishing touches. Score:

RASSLIN' SHOWS.

DESPITE long felt doubt whether wrestling, as usually conducted in this country, is a legitimate sport, The Wake will be among those present at the Stadium tonight. In that building Doc Krone will sponsor a card of six bouts. Ever since we have known him, or at least for three decades, Doc has been attempting with varying success to prove that promotion of ring and mat contests is profitable.

JIM McMILLEN.

Our attendance is impelled rather by curiosity than gripping enthusiasm. We wish to whether Jim Londos, one of the advolrdupois claimants of the heavyweight title in this game of flying mares, flying tackles, head locks, and double crosses has improved since last we saw him. More particularly, however, we wish to view Jim McMillen, a honest to goodness collegian who achieved gridiron fame at Illinois, then played pro football, and finally deserted the gridiron for the financial emoluments of the pastiming of grunts and groans. We wish to see what advantage, if any, supposed brain and proved brawn have over mere brawn.

Vainly wrestling promoters have tried to convince us that grappling is a great sport. About the most we have been willing to concede is that more often than not it is a good spectacle. These same promoters will tell you that wrestling gives spectators a better run for their money than boxing. They point out that the better man wins in 95 out of 100 cases. If they are real frank, sometimes they admit that where contestants are not equal in skill they put on an "exhibition" for the crowd before the better man wins, but they insist the better man wins despite charges of "title loaning" for box office purposes.

Anyway, we wish to see Jim McMillen and Jim Londos. We'll try not to regard it as a "slumming" expedition in the world of sport.

Is rotted in a crag,
With walls to ward off trouble
On which the sunbeams lag.

From room to room we wander,
Each turret we explore;
Through notch framed distance ponder
The beat of waves on shore.

In the courtyard's spangled close,
A lover's sigh we free,
While I rise on wearied toes
To whisper I'm hungry.

Like bark that has its lichen
So we clung to our plan;
But we forgot a kitchen—
Let's starve on the divan.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Bob Smith and associate Cubs are qualified to tell the world that Jim Bottomley, the batting flop of the 1930 world series, is fretting under no hangover from his depression of last October. Points in evidence are to be found in the fact that yesterday the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Cubs, 3 to 2, and all Sunny Jim did toward the accumulation of the enemy total was drive in one run and score the other two himself.

Moreover, the smiling young man from Nakomis, Ill., broke a 2 to 2 tie in the sixth inning by knocking the ball into the right field bleachers—the first homer, incidentally, that has been propelled by a Cardinal this season.

Two for Old Burleigh.

And even if Sunny Jim hadn't been so active, it would be unethical and a gross violation of precedent for old Burleigh Grimes to lose a game to the Cubs, seeing he was in good shape and hungry for his second victory of the season.

Even so, Mr. Grimes didn't bear down as much as usual against his favorite victims, as witness the fact that he struck out only two batsmen. He whiffed Woody English in the first inning just to see if the ancient spitter was functioning. After that he put his strikeout ball in the satchel until two were out in the ninth. It was getting pretty chilly at the time and Burleigh, even though he's a hardy Wisconsin woodchipper, wanted to get into the warm. So he whizzed three good ones right past Hack Wilson, the third of which Hack didn't see at all. So the ball game was over and the Cubs were placed in a spot where they have to beat the Cards this afternoon to leave town for Pittsburgh tonight better than a .500 ball club.

Blake Hurls Today.

Speaking of today's game, Fred Blake, who didn't win his first start, will do the pitching against Sylvester Johnson, who will be making his first start of the season. After the game the Cubs leave to participate in the Pirates' home opener tomorrow and will visit Cincinnati and St. Louis before returning home on May 4 for a four day stand against Cincinnati.

In yesterday's game each team scored one run in the first inning, and it seems a pity that the Cubs didn't score enough right there to have made Mr. Bottomley's later effort a mere gesture.

After Douthit had opened the game by popping to English, Orsatti got the first of three successive hits, a triple to left center. He held third, however, while Frisch was bouncing out to Grimm, and all seemed well when Bottomley sent a high fly to short center. It was plenty high for some one or other to have captured, but English and Wilson did one of those you-take-it stunts and it fell for a single, Orsatti scoring. Watkins was out to Grimm, unassisted.

Moore Gets Three Singles.

Johnny Moore, subbing for Kiki Cuyler, who has a stiff neck, started the Cub offensive with the first of his three singles in a row. English fanned, but Hornsby walked. Wilson singled to center, sending Moore home. Hornsby stopping at second. Mancuso sought to catch Wilson sleeping with a snap throw to first, but the ball went into right field, Hornsby and Wilson moving up a peg. Stephenson tapped to Frisch and Hornsby was trapped between third and home, Frisch to Mancuso. Wilson reached third, but Stephenson stopped at first. Adams threw out Hartnett.

Two more of the eleven runners left on bases by the Cubs were stranded in the second inning, another was left in the third, and the Cards looked upon this as enough of a threat to cause them to get busy and break the tie in the fourth—and fortunate it was they didn't make a whole hatful right in that inning.

Bottomley launched the fourth with a single to right and went to third when Watkins slammed a single to center. Gelbert bounced a dribbler toward English and it appeared that Brooklyn Breaks String of 5 Defeats.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 20.—(AP)—Brooklyn's batting punch finally burst loose today, the Robins pounding four Philly pitchers and winning, 10 to 5, after five straight defeats. It was Brooklyn's first victory of the season.

Joe Shaute, pitching his first game in the National league, kept the Phils' eleven hits scattered, while his mates drove Dudley from the mound in the sixth and continued their assault on Fallenstein, Wiltse, and Watt. Score:

GIANTS, BRAVES DIVIDE.

Boston, Mass., April 20.—(AP)—The Giants and Braves divided honors in their Patriots' day double header, Bill McKechnie's boys coming back to win the afternoon game, 1 to 0, after the Giants had taken the morning contest, 4 to 3.

Thirty-five thousand saw the veteran Harry Seibold outpitch Carl Hubbell in the afternoon, holding the Giants helpless until the Braves could shove across the winning run in the ninth. Spohrer's long fly to Lindstrom with the bases loaded scored Richbourg with the deciding run.

A wild pitch by Bruce Cunningham provided the Giants with the winning run in the eighth inning of the morning contest. Scores:

CANZONERI TO SEEK EARLY K. O. IN BERG BATTLE

Tony Aims to End Bout Within 3 Rounds.

Jack [Kid] Berg's junior welterweight championship will fall to Tony Canzoneri with in the first three rounds of their fight at the Chicago Stadium Friday night, if the plans of the lightweight titleholder are successful. Canzoneri yesterday resolved to stop Berg outright in the hope of ending the double championship bout within the three rounds.

"Berg is a fighter without a defense," Sammy Goldman, Canzoneri's manager, said yesterday. "His aggressiveness always has been his best defense, but in this fight we expect Berg to get to him so fast that he will not have time to get his wind mill going.

Will Seek Knockout.

"From the first bell Canzoneri is going to level for a knockout. If he fails, we'll win. If he doesn't then we'll have to trust to luck. But with Tony as confident as he is now and as strong, I will be greatly surprised if Berg is able to last."

Canzoneri is hitting harder than he has at any time in his career. His workouts in Mullen's loop gym have been so impressive that those who have followed him daily are willing to subscribe to his knockout opinion. Berg, on the other hand, has not been overly impressive in his drills. The English fighter has aroused the curiosity of his followers by his recent trip to Waukesha, Wis., to take off weight. They fear making the 135 pound limit will weaken him. Canzoneri feels the same way. He expects Berg to be slower than usual in starting because of this fact and therefore sees an opportunity to get over a knockout punch.

No Sell-Out Yet.

While Berg and Canzoneri were engaged in their separate opinion on the fight, they were not too busy to become alarmed with Stadium officials at a report that the Stadium was sold out for the fight. A check-up at the box office revealed that of the 21,000 seats for the fight only 12,000 had been sold.

Sudden Raids by Hawks Take Heavy Toll of Quail

BY BOB BECKER.

During the next few months when song birds are nesting and there are many attractions for the outdoor fan in shaded woodlots and broad meadows, one can see wooded tracts converted from quiet bird sanctuaries into bloody hunting grounds with the arrival of a sharpshinned or Cooper's hawk, two of the most bloodthirsty birds of prey that we have in the middle west.

The hunting habits of this pair and another notorious killer, the goshawk, are so bold, so ruthless, and so efficient that farmers, estate owners, and sportsmen who want to help quail, pheasants, grouse, and song birds increase their numbers should get acquainted with this trio so as to keep up an offensive against them. The relation of these predators to game production is one of the topics up for discussion this week at the Izaak Walton league game conference, which opens Thursday morning.

Goshawk a Northerner.

Fortunately the goshawk, the largest of the three, is a northern specie. He nests north of Chicagoland in Canada. Except in fall and winter he is not common in the United States.

Cooper's hawk, which is about 15 inches, has a long tail and short wings and no white patch on the rump, a characteristic mark of the marsh hawk. In the south they call the Cooper's the "blue darter" because his plumage is bluish gray above.

The term "darter" aptly describes this killer's hunting method. Both it and the sharpshinned variety rely upon swift surprise attacks to get their birds, a method which is in marked contrast to that followed by the mouse and insect eating predators such as the roughlegged or marsh hawks. The latter drift slowly over their hunting grounds on beating wings carefully watching the ground below. When a mouse is sighted they drop to the ground to seize their prey.

Swoop Down on Prey.

The blue darter and the sharpshinned hawks will swoop into a woods [flying low] and then make sudden dashes at birds. You'll hear a commotion among the songsters, calls of alarm, and then the form of one of these feathered raiders appears, swerving to the right and left as it rushes a bird. Meantime every thrush, sparrow, mourning dove, and other songster scoots for safety.

We have watched marsh hawks comb a meadow for mice for hours. We have seen duck hawks strike a frightened duck. We have seen the trim, handsome sparrow hawks drop from a perch to the ground to pick up a mouse or large insect, and we have been fascinated many times by the twilight hunts of a roughlegged hawk which feeds almost exclusively on mice. Once we had a ringside seat for a chicken yard raid by a Cooper's hawk. But for sheer excitement nothing equals the sight of a sharpshinned or Cooper's making a foray in the woods against birds.

Quail Has Little Chance.

Except by hiding or artful dodging into cover birds haven't much chance against this pair. Both are too speedy. Unless a Bob White ducks into a tangled thicket or hedgerow, a growth of weeds and bushes too dense for the hawk to get into, he is out of luck because the sharpshinned hawk can overtake a quail in the open if the latter tries to fly very far.

RING LARDNER HEARS FROM WILLIS CLOUGH

Cincinnati, O., April 20.—[Special.]—Dear Friend, this is our last day here and tonight we leave for home and I don't mean Tucson but I mean my new home Pittsburgh. I was kind of hoping I would get a chance to pitch the final game vs. Cincinnati and I asked Manager Ens and he says he would not dast start me here because a few years ago they had a series between the Reds and the White Sox and it must have been when they was in the same league but any way the Reds win the series so people thought there must be something wrong and Manager Ens said if he sent me in to pitch the scandal would begin all over again and the fans would think I had found something under my pillow. So I says I always keep my watch under my pillow so I can tell what time it is when I wake up and Manager Ens says what is the difference. He says one of the boys had told him I dosed off on the bench wile the game was going on yesterday. He says you ought to be an umpire, they are the boys that sleeps during the afternoon.

the Tribune Public Service office at Dearborn and Madison streets under the mistaken belief tickets were on sale there.

There will be no public sale of Golden Gloves tickets until the afternoon of May 12, when general admission tickets to Soldiers' field will be sold.

See Bouts for 50 Cents.

This general admission sale will solve your problem of how to see the international fights. Beginning at 4 o'clock May 12, for 50 cents one may secure admission to Soldiers' field. One hundred thousand seats (in addition to the 21,000 reserved seats) will be available. Many of these, particularly in the concrete stands on the east and west and down to the southern horseshoe, are excellent locations. A new lighting arrangement is being constructed to bring out in bolder relief the fighters in the ring.

Unfortunately no more than 21,000 tickets can be sold prior to the afternoon of May 12. If the weather is not propitious the international fights must be held in the Chicago Stadium. Then only the lucky 21,000 will see the fights. But if warm weather is Chicago's portion May 12 none should be disappointed.

Tickets to the international bouts will not be distributed for ten days to two weeks. Each ticket will have double seat location, on one side for the Chicago Stadium, on the other Soldiers' field. The plans for seating the 21,000 at Soldiers' field were completed yesterday. The tickets, which now are printed for the Stadium, again will be sent through the presses and marked for Soldiers' field. Three dollar mezzanine seats at the Stadium facing the ring, an excellent location, will be allocated equally advantageously at Soldiers' field.

Beginning at the twelfth row, the ringside seats will be elevated so that the one dollar seats in the rear will afford splendid view of the ring.

Jose Capablanca Defeats Horowitz After 59 Moves

New York, April 20.—(AP)—Jose R. Capablanca of Cuba won his second victory in the international chessmasters' tournament tonight when he forced the resignation of I. Horowitz of New York after 59 moves. The game was the first of four matches adjourned from the first round to be completed. Santasiere of New York defeated Fox of Montreal after 78 moves. The adjourned game between Turover of Washington and Kashdan of New York ended in a draw after 65 moves.

Henigan Wins Boston Run on 11th Attempt

Boston, Mass., April 20.—(AP)—After failing ten times, James P. Henigan, 39 year old Medford runner, today won the 35th running of the Boston Athletic association marathon.

Smiling Jimmy, father of five children, ran and walked the 26 odd miles from Hopkinton to Boston in 2:46:45 2-5, the slowest winning time since J. J. McDermott of New York won the Boston A. A.'s first race, a 25 mile affair, back in 1897. Henigan broke the tape two minutes ahead of Fred J. Ward of the Millrose A. A., New York, who made a gallant finishing drive, coming up from fifth to second place during the last five miles.

Karl Koski, the New York Finn and one of the greatest marathoners in the world, finished third, as he did last year. His time was more than six minutes slower than that of the victor.

David Fagerlund, Koski's Finnish-American A. C. teammate, placed fourth, and Clarence de Mar, the 42 year old Keene, N. H., teacher and seven times winner, came home in fifth place. De Mar, the popular favorite, could not explain his failure.

"It was not the heat," he said, "I liked that. I can't explain. Nothing seemed to click for me and I had no fight. I was running better than ever before just a week ago."

Henigan did not complain about the temperature, which ranged from 77 to 83 in the shade along the sun baked course.

Four Golden Gloves Boys Survive.

Thirty-two boxers, including 18 who have been champions or runners-up in previous tournaments, will clash in the semi-finals and finals of the Central A. A. U. boxing meet at the Chicago Stadium Thursday night.

Rockford Boy Threatens.

In Eliopoulos' division are Al de Schepper, a member of the Rockford team in the Golden Gloves tournament of champions at the Coliseum, and Tom Wiggins and Lynn Thomas of Chicago. Thomas has a record of 50 victories in the last two years.

Two Chicagoans and a battler from Minneapolis will contest Scialaba's right to the featherweight crown. Dave Yaros and Ernest Cisone are the Chicago entries and Bill Chancellor will come down from Minnesota.

Packey McFarland Protégé.

One of the heavyweights on the card, Jess Barker of Joliet, is a protégé of Packey McFarland, while Raymond Drebobl will fight under the guidance of Charley Retzlaff, Duluth heavyweight.

The Central A. A. U. champions will go to New York to fight in the National A. A. U. tournament. Several of the New York winners will be picked on a team to represent the United States in a tour of European amateur rings this summer.

With a mark of 2,748, the Alberti Jewelers of Chicago are the new five women titleholders and the doubles honors go to Z. Baker and G. Pomeroy of Detroit, with a combined total of 1,145.

It's FUN to drive a NEW CAR and it's Good Business, too

SPRING and good driving weather are here. Splendid roads throughout Chicagoland are waiting. Longer twilights and sunny week-ends invite you to take to the open road. It's playtime. There's fun in every mile, especially . . .

If you have a new car!

It's fun in any car these days to ride in the spring air, but it's twice as much fun in a brand-new one. And much better business.

Everybody knows that it costs more to drive an old car than a new one. Your old car eats up more gas and oil. And it's the rare trip that doesn't develop a need for costly replacement parts and accessories.

Why don't you decide now to get an automobile that matches the spirit of the season?—a sturdy, up-to-date model with a bright new finish and a motor that's throbbing to go.

Dealers throughout Chicago this week are making special showings of the auto industry's latest offerings. Downtown and neighborhood showrooms are in gala attire.

Attend these showings. Drop in at the places most convenient for you. Take the family. Look over the new cars. Discover for yourself just what the auto industry has to offer you in the spring of 1931.

Inspect the new cars from the standpoints of utility and beauty. Find out actually what your dollars will buy this spring. You can't help but conclude that never has your money commanded such real automobile value as now.

Your Guide to Motor Car Values
Is the Chicago Tribune!

From a rich man's plaything to the everyday necessity of nearly everybody, the automobile in 30 years has remade the world. Through these years the Chicago Tribune has fought for good roads. It has championed the motorists' cause against unfair legislation. It has stimulated public interest in the automobile by publishing complete news about motoring activities and the motor industry.

As a result this newspaper from the start won the interest and good will of automobile owners not only in Chicago but throughout the five states of Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin as well.

That's why motor manufacturers almost unanimously have given more automobile advertising to the Chicago Tribune than to any other Chicago newspaper.

Storey Raps Trucks and Waterways.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Another chapter on the troubles of American railroads was presented last night when W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, made public his annual report. It showed the lowest earnings since 1922, with freight revenues back to the level of 1925 and passenger revenues back to the 1915 level.

W. B. STOREY. [Moffett Photo.]

Mr. Storey repeats the railroad men's argument against competition by motor trucks and waterways in its present form. He asserts that the truck operators generally are not required to compensate the public properly for the use of the highways. He also charges that the cost of government maintained waterways, if all expenditures are included, results in greater transportation costs than are afforded by the railroads.

Net Is $37,348,800.

Operating revenues of the Santa Fe dropped to $226,421,044 in 1930, compared with $267,189,178 in 1929, while operating expenses were $159,920,622, compared with $175,243,236. Net income last year was $37,348,800, equivalent after preferred dividends to $12.85 a share on 2,421,669 common shares, compared with the 1929 net income of $51,836,803, or $22.89 a share on 2,-264,391 common shares. Dividends totaling $10 a share were paid on the common stock, after which $6,851,390 was added to surplus, which now stands at $321,311,747.

Mr. Storey comments on the present reduced volume of traffic, but suggests that about the normal amount of wheat may be raised this year, despite the government's efforts to bring about curtailment in production. He says that wheat in Santa Fe territory has experienced rather more favorable growing conditions than the average and up to the present has suffered no real damage. Citrus fruit promises a larger crop than last year.

KEEP UP AUTO PAYMENTS

Automobile purchasers of the last year or two are keeping up their installment payments in spite of widespread unemployment and reduced incomes. This fact is made known by C. C. Hanch, general manager of the National Association of Finance companies, and is given to prove that installment selling has not tended to bring insolvency to purchasers during business depressions.

Finance company repossessions reselling from installment contracts which require one-third down and the balance in twelve equal monthly payments increased less than 1 per cent per 100 transactions last year as compared with 1928 and 1929.

No Crisis Here.

"A composite experience table of finance companies and automobile dealers prepared by the association proves definitely that finance companies face no crisis during depressions," Mr. Hanch said. "During 1928 and 1929 the ratio of new cars repossessed when one-third of the price was paid down was 2.8 per cent, last year it was 3.6 per cent. The average amount of the installment debt on each new car actually decreased. In 1928 the average amount of the note purchased was $695, in 1929, $695, and last year only $567.

"The percentage of cars sold on the installment plan remains practically constant. In 1928 it was 58.1 per cent; in 1929, 62.6 per cent, and last year, 63.3 per cent. The number of trade-ins in connection with automobile sales has been steadily mounting. A trade-in was involved in 69 per cent of the new cars sold in 1928, while last year trade-ins were involved in 75 per cent of new car sales.

Taylor Says U. S. Steel Corp. Has Confidence in the Future

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 20.—Stockholders of the United States Steel corporation, at the annual meeting of that company in Hoboken today, ratified the company's revised pension plan after President James A Farrell, who will be the first high executive to be retired under its operations in 1933, had given his indorsement of the provisions and had moved for its adoption.

MYRON C. TAYLOR. [Associated Press Photo.]

A. F. Banks, president of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railroad, owned by the steel corporation, probably will be the first head of a subsidiary to retire under the plan. He is scheduled to retire on May 1. He has been with the railroad thirty-seven years and will be succeeded by S. M. Rogers, now vice president.

Others to Retire.

Eugene J. Buffington, president of the Illinois Steel company, another steel corporation subsidiary, will be retired automatically on March 14, 1933. J. A. Hatfield, president of the American Bridge company, will be 70 on June 11, 1933, and Ward B. Perley, president of the Canadian Steel Corporation, Ltd., will reach that age on Dec. 7, 1933.

After the plan had been ratified Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee, who presided, said the management faces the future with the greatest confidence.

"In bringing this meeting to a close the chairman desires to give expression to this simple thought," he said, "that the stimulus which adversity has given to our efforts to reorganize and improve our industrial structure is very great. We have been passing through some tribulation. But if we emerge from the testing period with improved efficiency and more highly productive and economical basis of operation, our tribulations will not have been in vain. For myself, I entertain no doubt that such will be the outcome."

Mr. Taylor pointed out to the stockholders that early in the last year it had appeared that there would be a business depression which would affect employment, and as a result the management defined a policy of distribution of work.

"Out of the normal working force of 231,000 during the period between March 16 and March 31 we had 79,-000 employés on full time and 145,-336 on part time," said Mr. Taylor. "The number not working was 7,-490. As we classified them, there were upward of 96 per cent of our employés at work either on full or part time."

Discussing the last three years of the corporation's history, Mr. Taylor said that the total net resources, which included net earnings, sales of common stock, and refund of federal income tax, exclusive of interest, amounted to $666,000,000. The federal income tax refund, he disclosed, amounted to $49,000,000.

Payments Are $720,000,000.

In those three years the expenditures for expenses, extension, etc., amounted to $250,000,000 and bond retirement called for $373,000,000, while premium on bonds totaled $40,000,000. Those expenditures and others called for a total of $720,000,000, with the result that the payment was nearly $54,000,000 in excess of the resources.

"Those large expenditures resulted in a very great improvement of the corporation's operating plants, but we have not trespassed very greatly upon our working capital as it stood on Jan 1, 1928," said Mr. Taylor.

When Mr. Taylor introduced Mr. Farrell, the president commented briefly on the business situation.

March Shows Improvement.

"Business, to be sure, has been substantially less than in the last three quarters of 1930, but in the history of the steel corporation we have had similar experiences and on at least two like occasions we have come through periods of depression that have been worse.

"Business in February was not very much better than in January and we came to the conclusion that we were not going to have a very good quarter. But March showed substantial improvement, particularly in structural and heavier lines, so we can reasonably feel that the whole upward trend in prices is bound to gain momentum later in the year."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 20.—Monetary gold holdings of the United States, now at the all time peak, are to be augmented by shipment of $8,500,000 from France, the first movement of gold from Paris to New York since February, 1927.

The banking house of Lazard Frères announced today it was importing that amount. The metal will be brought here on the liner Paris, sailing on Wednesday. Another shipment of $14,-000,000 in gold from Argentina also is coming in, consigned to the Irving Trust company.

Recent weakness of French exchange raised the prospect of a movement of some gold from Paris to New York, but it was believed in banking circles that there would be no substantial movement of the metal this way for the time being. French exchange firmed today.

A recent decrease in ocean freight rates from Havre to New York has lowered the gold export point of dollar exchange to 25.575 francs, which made possible the present shipment.

Need Leadership to Thaw Out Defaulted Realty Bonds

BY SCRUTATOR.

Under the present mortgage laws when a real estate bond issue goes into default as much as three years may elapse before it can be worked out. In the interim the bondholders, although their paper has value, are deprived of return on their money.

Court costs, receivership expenses, legal fees, and salaries of employés of the protective committee eat heavily into the bondholders' equity.

This state of affairs affects the community as a whole. The ordinary flow of credit is clogged by large assets which, although not entirely lost, are frozen solid, for defaulted real estate bonds have no adequate market and may not be readily sold except at great sacrifice.

Money Temporarily Tied Up.

The amount of money tied up in defaulted bonds is, for the time being, lost to business. Furthermore, the impending sale at foreclosure of properties against which there are defaulted bonds demoralizes the market for real estate itself. A fair price for property cannot be maintained while there is the possibility of the forced sale of many buildings at the low figures usually obtained at foreclosure.

Certain groups formed to work out defaulted issues have made headway. Some individual pieces of property have been taken over for the bondholders. In other cases no definite action has been taken, and in still others the welfare of the bondholders appears to be a secondary consideration.

The subject is being attacked piecemeal. There is as yet no concentration of efforts toward working it out quickly and fairly.

There is plenty of capital to swing the refinancing of most of the properties now in default, provided it is done conservatively. A building whose earnings are not sufficient to meet interest and prepayment charges on its existing mortgage will earn enough to cover the requirements of a smaller and more conservative mortgage.

Should Welcome Opportunity.

Any good property can be refinanced on some basis that will make its bonds attractive to conservative investors and to banks, which are in unusually liquid position, and should welcome an opportunity to invest in good real estate loans properly deflated.

No reorganization plan can be considered highly successful, however, if it is accomplished by squeezing the present bondholders out at the bottom of the market, or if it takes so long to accomplish and is so loosely handled that expenses consume a large portion of the amount finally realized.

With intelligent and determined leadership a rapid solution should not be difficult.

Public Service Corp. First Quarter Net Is $2,040,571

Rate reductions recently put into effect resulted in slightly lower net earnings for the Public Service Corporation of Illinois in the first three months of 1931, compared with a year ago. However, gross earnings increased moderately. Gross earnings for the first quarter of this year were $9,456,748, compared with $9,272,597 for the same period in 1930. Net income was $2,040,571, equivalent after preferred dividends to $4.74 a share on the common stock, compared with $2,368,192, or $4.76 a share, in the first quarter of 1930.

Surface Lines Report Decline in Earnings

The Chicago Surface Lines' report for March shows decreases in gross and net earnings and deficit of $335,-496 in divisible receipts after 5 per cent interest on the purchase price.

Total revenue passengers carried by the Chicago Surface Lines in March were 65,577,143, a decrease of 3,063,917, as compared with March, 1930. Gross earnings were $4,534,224, a decrease of $208,712. The severe snowstorm early in the month is partly responsible for the decrease.

New York, April 20.—Low visibility kept the stock market aground again today. Some hope was extracted from the confidence expressed by Presidents Farrell and Gifford of the United States Steel corporation and the American Telephone and Telegraph company, respectively, but astute observers were quick to note that both these business authorities dwelt more cheerfully on the future outlook than the immediate present and so their forecasts were not really very helpful.

Moreover, there were bearish developments tending to offset any effect they might have had in stimulating the buying of shares. There was the National Industrial conference board's report indicating a downswing in the upward movement of business recovery which developed earlier in the year. There are at least a dozen important dividend meetings in the immediate future, each with possibility of another omission or reduction on top of the already heavy list the market has had to face and

AUTO QUARTET REPORTS FIRST QUARTER INCOME

First quarter earnings reports were made yesterday by four automobile companies. The Pierce-Arrow Motor Car company reported net earnings for the three months ended March 31 of $306,499, which compared with $461,401 in the first quarter of 1930. The earnings for the first quarter of 1931 are equivalent after preferred dividends to $1.01 a share on the outstanding A stock, against $1.79 in the same period last year. The Studebaker corporation owns 65 per cent of the A stock and all of the outstanding B stock.

The Willys-Overland company income, after charges, including depreciation and taxes, was $177,106, which compares with a net loss of $1,124,912 in the first three months of 1930. Cars sold during the period totaled 20,924, the firm reported.

The Packard Motor Car company reported first quarter net profit of $113,004, which was equivalent to less than a cent a share on the no par stock, compared with $2,654,247, or 17 cents a share, in the first quarter last year.

Hudson Motor Car company earnings of $228,395 were equivalent to 14 cents a share, as compared with $2,316,945 or $1.45 a share in the first three months of 1930. American Austin Car company for the period from May 23 to Dec. 31, 1930, reports loss of $1,078,397 after interest, amortization, and reserve for inventory adjustments.

CHICAGO STOCK TRADING QUIET, SELLING ENDS

Insull Utility Rises on Steady Buying.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Short selling operations were checked and business on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday became a quiet affair of minor price fluctuations. Curtailment of the selling was attributed to the Gifford statement on business conditions and the tone of the United States Steel stockholders meeting.

In the latter case it was the absence of any development which could be interpreted as a confirmation of adverse dividend rumors that was the influential factor. In a measure it contradicted the tale that the ticker has been telling for a week or more.

Even the precipitate decline in Auburn had little response here. Cord eased as Auburn dipped to 130 and came back when the latter issue jumped up again. Long in a class by itself Auburn's movements bear little relationship to the general trend.

Finishes Higher.

The price fluctuation of Insull Utility gave evidence that the sponsors were ready to give the issue a whirl. After an early slip the issue pushed forward with steady buying and finished slightly higher.

Shares of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois were quiet following the report on first quarter earnings which showed a shrinkage from the corresponding period of 1930. Commonwealth Edison stock was unchanged on the publication of report showing a gain in net profit for the first quarter of the year.

The special meeting of stockholders of the Q. R. S.-De Vry corporation was adjourned yesterday without action on the proposed sale of the Neon light division. Thomas M. Pletcher said that negotiations are now being carried on with several concerns and another meeting of stockholders will be called when the conversations reach a stage which would warrant action.

Directors Meet Today.

Directors of the Minneapolis-Moline Power company will meet today for action on the regular preferred dividend. Reports on the current improvement in the company's business indicate that the regular distribution will be authorized.

The Fitz Simmons & Connell Dredge and Dock company was awarded contracts totaling $394,000 by the Lincoln park board yesterday.

The Allied Products corporation will have a substantial interest in the company resulting from the consolidation of its subsidiary, the Indiana Lamp company, with the J. W. Brown Manufacturing company of Columbus, O., and the Thomas J. Corcoran Lamp of Cincinnati. The firms have been merged under the name of the Corcoran-Brown Lamp company.

FRENCH ROADS, TOO, FACE TRUCK, BUS COMPETITION

French railroads are facing the same problems arising from competition by motor buses and motor truck transportation of freight on highways as are the United States railways, according to Amie Place, one of a party of eleven French railroad officials who are making an inspection tour of American transportation systems.

The French railroad men arrived in the city Sunday night after having looked over the Pennsylvania and New York Central facilities in the east. They spent yesterday in inspecting Chicago yards, having been entertained at a luncheon given by officials of the North Western.

One thing the French group wishes to learn is what steps American railroads are taking to meet motor competition, saying the French lines have been pretty hard hit by this method of transportation. The party was particularly interested in electrification in the east, and this morning will inspect the Illinois Central electrification. France, however, has done little so far in the electrification of its lines.

Included in the party are Robert Le Besnerais, Paul Chaperon, M. Place, Jean Lancrenon, Hyacinthe Servannet, Louis Cambournac and Maurice Lemaire of the Northern Railway of France, and Frederic Surleau, Jean Levy, Jean Girette, and Henry Pacon of the French state railways. The party will leave in a day or two over the North Western for a trip to the northwest, after which they will return to Chicago for additional studies here.

International Cement.

Please furnish information regarding the International Cement corporation. Thank you in advance.—H. S. B.

International Cement corporation is one of the leading makers of cement in the United States. Its thirteen plants serve the entire territory east of the Rocky mountains, and Cuba, Uruguay, and Argentina.

At the end of 1929 plant capacity was 22,300,000 barrels. Sales, which had shown a steady upward trend from the time of organization in 1919 to 1929, were $27,037,855 in 1930, against $28,370,031 in 1929.

Net income for 1930 was $4,539,509, or $7.14 per share on 635,798 no par common shares. For 1929 net was $4,950,433, or $7.88 per share on 627,885 shares. Net in 1928 was $5,149,388 and in 1927 $4,554,172. Profits showed a steady rise from 1922 to 1928 inclusive, but 1929 earnings were affected by lower prices for the company's product. Earnings for 1930 were affected by lower sales, although prices stood up better than in 1929.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $11,692,899 and current liabilities were $1,914,244. Net working capital of $9,778,655, against $8,210,448 the year before, was substantial. Reserve for loss on exchange on net current assets in South America, deducted from current assets, was $778,613.

The common has been on an annual dividend basis of $4 a share since 1924.

Capitalization consists of $17,995,500 funded debt and the common stock.

Earnings in recent years have been derived mainly from foreign subsidiaries and business in the interior of the United States. Plants on the seaboard have had to cope with foreign competition.

The common stock deserves a fairly good rating. The 5 per cent convertible debentures due May 1, 1948, are suitable for a business man's funds.

Dodge Bros., Inc.

Will you kindly furnish me with what information you may have on Dodge Bros., Inc., 6 per cent convertible bonds of 1940. What denominations do they come in and what is their conversion privilege?—T. S.

These debentures were assumed by Chrysler corporation when it acquired Dodge Bros., Inc. Interest was earned 1.07 times in 1930, against 7.24 times in 1929.

They are convertible at par into Chrysler common until a maximum of $30,000,000 shall have been converted on the basis of $150 per share for the first $5,000,000, the rate gradually increasing to a maximum of $350 per share for the sixth $5,000,000.

They are available in denominations of $500 and $1,000.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 7,000; hogs, 23,000; sheep, 15,000.

Liberal receipts pressed hogs and lambs to lower price levels on yesterday's session, while the cattle supply fell short and about 25c of last week's big loss was replaced. Cattle receipts at the twenty leading markets totaled only 85,000, showing a decrease of 40 per cent compared with the previous Monday's total. The big increase in sheep and hog receipts at Chicago was partly offset by decreases at other places.

Demand lately shows a marked preference for the higher priced hogs, while others are neglected and are accumulating on the market. The price range shows a tendency to widen. Yesterday's extreme top moved up 5c at $7.85, while the general average declined 5c at $7.30.

Best grades held generally steady most of the day, but plain kinds toward the close were as much as 15@25c lower, comparing extremes with the close of last week. All interests were on the market early, but were strict about "sorting." General quality, however, graded fairly good, the supply including a good many hogs from points farther west.

Today's Hogs Bid $7.75.

Light weight hogs for today's delivery were bid $7.75 on the "to arrive" market yesterday, but the only hogs offered at that figure averaged 210@240 lbs. Heavy grades were bid $7.26. On the futures market April and May light were bid $7.80 and offered at $8.00, while June light were offered at $8.00 and bid $8.25. September offers were held at $9.00 and bids stopped at $8.50. Mediums for September delivery were offered at $8.70 and carried bids of $8.60 at the close.

Light weight steers and yearlings sold to the best advantage yesterday. The top at $9.80 was paid for 1,090 lb averages, while $9.25, the next highest price of the day, was paid for 883 lb averages. Prime 1,387 lb beeves were sold at $9.60. Offerings carried a good many "extremely light" steers. One shipment averaged only 567 lbs. but were highly finished and sold at $8.50.

Sheep Receipts Larger.

Sheep receipts at Chicago yesterday totaled 27,000, the largest of the year, resulting in a 25@50c break in prices. About 18,800 of the receipts were "directs" from Denver and Fort Worth mostly. Light and handy weight wool lambs sold largely at $9.50@9.75, with 95 lb averages around $9.00 and 103 pounders at $8.50. Lambs without fleece made up a greater share of arrivals and are expected to increase in numbers. Shorn lambs were listed at $7.50@8.50. Aged sheep were unchanged. Yearlings sold steady.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Weather uncertainties create a most uneasy feeling in the wheat trade as the crop advances and becomes more susceptible to weather conditions. Traders attributed the weakness, not only to the rains in the northwest, but to the fact that the short interest was materially cut down on Saturday, leaving the technical situation relatively weak. July, which was at a slight discount under September on the close on Saturday, was bid up to ¼c premium by an operator who has been especially bullish. Pit traders had it that the government was a fair seller of old May, weakening it ¼c to ⅜¾c.

Drought in California has greatly reduced prospects for the wheat and barley crop. A California representative of the Grain Stabilization corporation, after a trip from the Oregon line to Los Angles estimates the state will not have more than half a crop. California had a prospect early in the season of 10,000,000 bu wheat against 12,000,000 bu last year. The barley crop last year was 28,000,000 bu.

"There is a big demand for wheat for export," says a government official, "and sales are the largest so far, with prices satisfactory." Settlements are being made on cash and May wheat with private elevator interests in Chicago, but no quantities or prices can be given until later. The trade hears that 3 private elevator interests have been figuring with the government. Stocks in private elevators are 9,000,000 bu.

Detroit Concern to Open Arcade on Madison.

Henry C. Cummins, vice president of the Byllesby Engineering and Management corporation, has purchased from Edward B. Carson the residence at 4944 Woodlawn avenue, $1x297, for a consideration said to approximate $100,000, giving back in part payment a purchase money mortgage for $55,000, payable in five years at 6 per cent. James J. Parker & Co. were the brokers in the transaction and Seymour N. Cohen attended to legal details for the buyer.

The residence is a three story and basement brick structure of the English type. It contains fourteen rooms and five baths and there is a two car garage in the rear. Mr. Cummins and his family, who now live at 5436 Hyde Park boulevard, will take possession of their new home May 1.

The estate of John R. Thompson has leased the store, 25x160 feet, at 60 West Madison street to the Automatic Exhibition corporation, of which Manfred Linick is the president. The lease is for a five year term on a percentage basis, with a minimum guarantee rental of $100,000. After extensive alterations the lessee will open an amusement arcade. The firm has two similar establishments in Detroit. Gilbert E. Keebler of E. F. Keebler & Co. was broker.

Cerf & Ehrenhalt report that they were the brokers in the negotiation of the following leases: For the Broadway-Clifton Building corporation the store at 4739 Broadway to the Fargo Shoe company for an undisclosed term at a guaranteed average annual rental of $3,600 plus a percentage on the gross sales; for the Goldstein Millinery company to the Mitchell Cloak company the store at 4623½ Broadway, and for the estate of H. M. Marks the store at 628 South State street to Paul Shekerjian.

NORTHWEST GETS RAIN AND SNOW; WHEAT SLUMPS

Note Letup in Demand for Canadian Grain.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Rain and snow in the American and Canadian northwest, temporarily allaying the drought scare in the spring wheat area, took the bull edge off the market yesterday. Influenced also by a decided letup in the foreign demand for Canadian grain, prices on the Chicago Board of Trade declined 1¼@1¾c, with scattered longs unloading on the way down, and the close was at net losses of 1¼@1⅝c, with July, 64c; September, 63⅝@63½c, and December, 67¼c. May was under pressure and closed ⅝c lower at 83⅝@83½c.

While there was some doubt in the minds of traders as to whether the moisture received in the spring wheat area was sufficient to be of material benefit, the fact that the market has advanced recently on dry weather left it in a position to be easily affected by a change in conditions. Comparatively little rain or snow was received in the prairie provinces. According to the C. Murray, North Dakota from Jan. 31 to March 31 received 6.7 inches rainfall, against a normal of 7.7 inches; Minnesota, 10.9 inches, against a normal of 12.7 inches, and South Dakota 9.4 inches, or slightly above normal. During the first 15 days of April the three states had about one-half of the normal amount of rainfall.

Liverpool Closes Easy.

Buying against bids was a factor in checking the decline in wheat futures here, and there was not the snap to the buying side so much in evidence of late, with the September delivery to a fractional discount under July, against ⅛c over on Saturday. Reports from Chicago connections were that sellers of July at Winnipeg, which had some effect here as did the reports of moisture in the American northwest, and the close was 1¼ @1⅜c lower, with July 64¼c. Export sales in all positions were estimated at only 250,000 bu.

Short covering was in evidence in the Liverpool wheat market, which was ¼@½d higher early, with an excellent continental and far east demand reported for southern hemisphere grain. Buenos Aires, however, turned weak following the opening, which led to liquidation by longs in Liverpool, and the latter closed ⅛@⅜d lower, with July at 68c after selling at 70c early, or the highest since Jan. 19. Buenos Aires finished 2½@3c lower.

A decrease of 1,930,000 bu in the domestic visible supply led to some buying of wheat futures for a while, but it soon lost its effect on the market. Total stocks are 197,731,000 bu, against 235,394,000 bu last year. Unfavorable crop reports are coming from Europe, with seeding delayed in Italy by unfavorable weather and a dearth in horses. Wheat crop in the united provinces of India is officially estimated at 101,000,000 bu, or 19,000,000 bu less than 1930.

Corn Receipts Enlarged.

Increased receipts of cash corn at terminal markets and the failure of the shipping demand to show improvement led to further liquidation by millers of futures, with the close at net losses of ⅛@⅝c, the May finishing at 59⅝@59¾c; July, 62¼@62⅛c; September, 61½, and December, 54⅛ @54¼c. May sold within a fraction of the lowest figures on the crop. Buying against bids checked the decline.

A decrease of 941,000 bu in the visible supply of corn was not large in view of the fact that lake navigation is now open, and under normal conditions the east should have been a big buyer. Total stocks are 18,702,000 bu, against 23,641,000 bu last year. Nebraska is loading corn freely, and some downstate reports indicated farmers were more inclined to haul grain owing to the advanced condition of field work.

LIQUIDATION IN MAY LARD

Enough liquidation was on hand in May lard, coupled with scattered selling by other interests, to weaken the market yesterday after the close was $1.00@1.05 lower. Buying of May and selling of July and September was on a fair scale, eastern interests being well represented. Lower prices for hogs and grains exerted a bearish feeling on hog products and trading in all was fair. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3d lower. Exports of lard from the seaboard last week were 11,445,000 lbs, compared with 9,211,000 lbs the last year. Of bacon there were 2,008,000 lbs, against 5,616,000 lbs last year. Bellies were 50@10c lower with the only trading in July at $10.40@10.50. Cash trade was quiet. Hog receipts in the west were smaller than a week and a year ago. Prices follow:
